Remarks Threaten Southern Support Of Lesinski Bill In House Ballot

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

A comment by President Truman on party loyalty and patronage yesterday touched off a bitter clash between old-line Democrats and Dixiecrats and endangered House passage of the Administration's bill to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act.

At his press conference yesterday, in response to a question, the Chief Executive declared that he would certainly consider votes on the Taft-Hartley repeal to be one of the tests of party loyalty.

As a result of the President's remarks, it was reported by one of the Administration leaders in the House, at least five Southern Democrats have withdrawn their promise to support the Truman-indorsed Lesinski labor relations bill, now under consideration in the House.

Leaders Confident

Wednesday night the Administration leadership felt certain it could beat down the Wood bill—a modified version of the Taft-Hartley Act backed by a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats—and squeeze through the Lesinski bill—which repeals the Taft-Hartley Act and restores the Wagner Act with "improvements."

Administration nose-counters estimated that the Wood bill could be defeated, and the Lesinski bill adopted, by a 30-vote majority. Republican ballot-checkers privately were willing to concede that the Administration tally was pretty accurate.

But that was Wednesday night.

Last night, after much seething and boiling on the part of Dixie Democrats, some Administration leaders were no longer sure of victory, and sponsors of the Wood bill were displaying new-found optimism.

Disclosed to House

Even so, the legislative representatives of the major labor unions, who have been keeping their own tally on the voting strength in the House, were grimly confident last night that the Wood bill would be beaten, and the Lesinski bill approved, although by a close margin.

Fifth Defendant Guilty of Rape, Death Is Urged

Martinsville, Va., April 28 (AP).—Francis Desales Grayson, 37-year-old Negro, was convicted of rape by a jury in Circuit Court here today and the death penalty was recommended for him.

Grayson is married and the father of five children ranging from 2 to 8 years of age. He is the only married man among seven Negroes indicted for the assault on Mrs. Ruby Stroud Floyd, a white woman, on January 8.

Separate trials were granted the defendants on motion of their counsel last week. Grayson's trial was the fifth case to be heard and the fifth in which the defendant has been found guilty after a day's trial, with the punishment fixed by the jury at death.

Remaining to be tried are James Luther Hairston, who will go on trial Monday, and John Clabon Taylor.

Big Joe Scheve Is Convicted On 2 Counts

Maximum Is 15 Years For Assault, Gaming; 3 Others Found Guilty

By Benjamin Bradlee
Post Reporter

Joseph H. (Big Joe) Scheve was convicted of assault with a loaded pistol and gaming yesterday, after a District Court jury deliberated for two hours.

He faces a maximum sentence of 15 years in jail. The jury acquitted Scheve on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

Scheve's son Theodore, alias "Little Joe," 30, 2521 34th pl. se., Hyman Rosen, 40, 1616 Isherwood st. ne., and Herman (The Judge) Kadan, were convicted with Scheve of running night-long dice games in the basement of Kadan's home, 2730 Woodley pl. nw. They face maximum sentences of five years in jail on the gaming charge.

No Date for Sentencing

Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut set no date for sentencing, and continued the men under bond.

The convictions are the first to result from the special gambling grand jury convened last May by United States Attorney George Morris Fay.

Evidence in the Scheve case was first presented to the special gambling grand jury, and then referred to a regular grand jury for indictment. Evidence was collected in the case and arrests were made by Fay's office.

Robert Ricker of Lancaster, Pa., the complaining witness in the case, took his story to Fay's office on January 12 rather than to the police because, he said, Scheve had told of "paying plenty for protection" at the Woodley pl. address. Fay's office investigated.

Five days later the police started a different and rival investigation, resulting in gaming charges, which were dismissed for lack of evidence.

Ricker told Fay's office he had lost $7500 during three months of crap shooting in Kadan's basement, and had been hit over the head by Scheve with the butt of a pistol on January 6.

Admitted Striking Blow

Police charged only that through a window from a distance of 30 feet they witnessed a card game, in which players "picked up something from the side of a table and put it into the middle of the table."

High point of the three-day trial came when Scheve admitted hitting Ricker over the head, after the other defendants had testified they had seen no gun although they were present during the assault.

Scheve told the seven-man, five-woman jury that he had hit Ricker in self-defense.

Mrs. Ricker had come to the Kadan home demanding $850 from him, Scheve said from the witness stand, and for five hours prevented him from leaving the house.

When he finally decided to leave the house in spite of the 100-pound woman, the 200-plus-pound Scheve testified that he brushed Mrs.

First Visit Paid By Comedian To Capitol Hill

By Bill Brinkley
Post Reporter

Bob Hope, who has made many trips to Washington, paid his first visit to Capitol Hill yesterday and discussed the subject of wind—meteorological and congressional—with his old friend Vice President Barkley.

The Vice President delayed his takeoff to the apple festival at Winchester, Va., in order to breeze awhile with the comedian. Their friendship developed on a Berlin airlift trip last Christmas, and Hope said yesterday Barkley has promised to visit him soon at Palm Springs.

Several Senators, including Byrd of Virginia and McKellar of Tennessee, chatted with him in Barkley's office, off the Senate chamber. Then the Vice President and Hope walked out on the Capitol steps.

The wind caught Hope's somewhat uncut hair, rumpling it.

"Someone ought to turn off that fan," Hope said.

"It's nothing like it is inside," Barkley came back.

From the Capitol, Hope trotted over to the Mayflower Hotel, where he said he had hoped to "sneak into bed" for awhile before his afternoon show at Constitution Hall. He found about 45 persons, including a swarm of high school reporters, waiting for him at a press conference that some of his nine advance agents had arranged for him.

The high school reporters went to work with a vengeance:

What was your most embarrassing moment? "The time my doctor slapped me when I was born and I slapped him back."

Did you have many girl friends when you were in high school? "I was in love with myself until I was 15."

What do you dislike? "Guys who go too fast through revolving doors."

Crowd Hearing Hope Packs Constitution Hall

By Richard Coe
Post Reporter

Bob Hope's stratosphere-style vaudeville last night packed Constitution Hall's 5200 seats and then some.

Effortless showman that he is, Hope adapted his running gags to fit his politically-conscious audience. He explained how he happened to be playing over 20 cities on a 16-day air tour of the country. He likes audiences:

"Besides the Government needs the money. Since the President got that raise we've got to keep our noses to the grindstone. And Margaret's singing lessons cost money."

Recalling his trip here for the inauguration, he recalled: "Howard Hughes flew us in. For fuel he was using Senator Brewster's blood. . . . We came fast. When we left Los Angeles we had two rabbits. When we got here we had two rabbits."

He'll return in June for The Washington Post's National Celebrities Golf Tournament.

Defense Attorney Archibald Palmer told a jury yesterday that Judith Coplon had an "affection" for Valentin A. Gubitchev, 32-year-old Russian engineer.

He said she was surprised to learn that Gubitchev was a married man whose wife had put detectives on his trail.

"When you are in love with a person," Attorney Palmer said.

Miss Coplon, 27-year-old brunette, who was a political analyst in the Department of Justice, was arrested with Gubitchev, then on the United Nations staff, in New York City on the night of March 4. They were indicted there for conspiracy to commit espionage.

Miss Coplon is on trial in District Court here on a separate indictment charging that she took and copied FBI intelligence reports to aid Russia.

Raymond P. Whearty, special assistant to the Attorney General, told the jury in an opening statement how the Government "planted" an FBI report on the morning of March 4 in Miss Coplon's Department of Justice office.

After she had been arrested with Gubitchev in New York that night, Prosecutor Whearty said, FBI agents looked in her pocketbook and found handwritten notes

Dissenting Opinions Coming Up

Man Isn't Sole Home Boss, Judge Rules in Chicago Suit

Chicago, April 28 (AP).—The use of "obey" in Illinois marriage ceremonies is "as antiquated as hoop skirts," Circuit Judge Julius Miner told a husband being sued for separate maintenance yesterday.

"The modern view of marriage is that it is a 50-50 proposition," Judge Miner told Glen Ford, 55, a high school band leader and music teacher. The Fords have four grown children.

Ford, being sued by his wife, Doris, 51, after 27 years of marriage, replied: "I don't believe in that. The man should be the head of the house with the power to end all discussions."

"Ninety-nine per cent of the people will disagree with you," the judge told Ford. "Are you willing to bend and change your attitude—adopt the modern view and not insist on the stand of your grandfather?"

"The view was good enough for my grandfather and it is good enough for me," said Ford. "Marriage is a business. How can a business have two heads?"

Mrs. Ford's attorney, Sol R. Friedman, said Ford refused to let his wife join the Parent-Teacher Association and church organizations, and allowed her $5 weekly to run the household.

Ford's attorney, Charles C. Cooley, said when the couple was married in Albion, Iowa, 27 years ago, Ford insisted that she take the vow to "love, honor and obey," while Ford "merely promised to 'love and honor.'"

Cooley said Ford "has a passionate love of white or angel food cake. For 27 years she gave him nothing but dark or devil's food cake. He has always loved spinach. He seldom got any at his home."

Judge Miner ruled Ford should pay his wife $25 weekly for temporary support.

Manila, Philippines, April 28 (U.P.)—Mrs. Aurora Abagon Quezon, beloved "mother of the Philippines Republic," and 11 others were killed today in an ambush believed aimed at President Elpidio Quirino.

Quirino ordered a full-scale drive against the Hukbalahap rebels believed responsible.

Mrs. Quezon was the widow of Manuel L. Quezon, first President of the Philippines Commonwealth which preceded the present republic. Her older daughter, her son-in-law; the mayor of the Manila suburb named for her husband, three army officers and five other members of her party also were killed. Three others were wounded.

In a six-car motorcade, Mrs. Quezon and her party were en route to Baler on the east coast of Luzon to unveil a memorial marking the birthplace of her husband.

At about 10 a. m. and east of Manila, in an area long infested by the Hukbalahap rebels, an estimated 100 outlaws, lining both sides of the road, opened fire with machine guns and rifles on the first three cars.

It was all over before the light constabulary escort which followed the party could even open fire. The outlaws stripped Mrs. Quezon of her jewels and some others of their valuables and melted into the hills.

The dead: Mrs. Quezon, 61.

$15-Million Labor-FSA Cut Ordered

(Roll Call on Page 20)

Post Reporter

In a rarely taken action, aimed at paring President Truman's 1950 budget and avoiding tax increases, Senate GOP forces yesterday succeeded in sending the Labor-Federal security bill back to committee with instructions for a 5 per cent cut in "reducible items."

Economy-minded Republicans picked up enough Democratic votes to approve, 44 to 37, a motion by Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) to cut the 2400 million dollar House-passed measure by 5 per cent.

Because so many items in the Labor-Federal Security appropriation are specifically allocated by law, the actual money cut amounts only to approximately $15,497,888 of the bill's total.

Taft Serves Notice

But Taft, chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, served notice that in order to avoid the four-billion Federal tax increase sought by President Truman this year, similar moves would be made on every appropriation measure.

Just before the Taft motion to recommit the appropriation measure—a move that has not been used for 17 years—the Senate refused to suspend its rules and allow the cut to made from the floor.

The motion, made by Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.), a member of the Appropriations Committee, got 45 votes to 35 against, but it required a two-thirds vote.

Senator Millard Tydings (D., Md.) argued that the Senate should wait until all appropriations have been approved and then pass a bill directing the President to cut expenses by "X dollars or X per cent" to stay within the budget.

Want Separate Cuts

Ferguson replied that he and Senator Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) were planning such a move also but wanted the Senate to cut each appropriation as it came along.

In sending the bill back to committee, eight Democrats voted with the Republicans. They were Senators Paul Douglas (Ill.), James Eastland (Miss.), Walter George (Ga.), Clyde Hooey (N. C.), Spessard Holland (Fla.) Russell Long (La.), John McClellan (Ark.) and Brien McMahon (Conn.). One Republican, William

U. S. Not to Surrender Principles for Berlin Accord, Acheson Says

Security of Rest Of Europe Must Be Protected, State Secretary Warns

New York, April 28 (U.P.)—Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson said tonight the United States is ready to "do its utmost" to reach an agreement with Russia on the future of Germany but will not bargain away basic principles.

He said that if a new Big Four meeting grows out of the current talks with Russia about lifting the Berlin blockade, this country will sincerely seek a mutually satisfactory solution "of what is plainly one of the most crucial problems in world affairs."

Serves Clear Notice

But he gave the Soviet Union clear notice that "there are certain principles" on which the United States is not prepared to compromise even for the sake of a German settlement.

Those principles, he said, are that the security of the rest of Europe must be protected, and that Western power efforts to revive democracy and economic stability in Germany must be maintained.

Acheson spoke at the 27th annual dinner of the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

His prepared speech appeared to be designed to clear up any question in the minds of Soviet leaders whether the Western powers will accept a Communist Germany as the price of a cold war truce.

Day After Talks

It came only one day after United States Ambassador-at-Large Philip Jessup and Soviet United Nations Delegate Jacob Malik met here to discuss Russian hints that the Berlin blockade will be lifted if the Western powers end their counter-blockade and will set a date for a Big Four Foreign Ministers conference on Germany.

Acheson referred only briefly to the current negotiations and did not predict what the outcome would be.

"The conversations between Ambassador Jessup and Mr. Malik constitute the latest developments in a long and involved series," he said.

He noted that the Big Four Foreign Ministers already have held "two futile meetings" in Moscow and London on the German problem. These talks failed, he asserted, because Russia tried "to thwart any settlement which did not concede virtual Soviet control over German economic and political life."

Will Again Do Its Utmost

"Should it prove possible to arrange for renewed Four-Power discussions, this Government will do its utmost, as it has in the past, to arrive at a settlement.

"There are certain principles, however, the observance of which is essential, in our view, to any satisfactory solution of the German problem."

He then promised the people of western Germany that they may "rest assured" that the United States will never agree to any German settlement which fails to include "the basic safeguards and benefits" of the separate west German Republic which the United

Truman Believes Soviet Acting in Good Faith

By The Associated Press

President Truman buoyed hopes yesterday for an early end to the East-West deadlock over Berlin, saying he believes the Soviets are acting in good faith in negotiations to lift the blockade.

He told a news conference he thinks the situation is encouraging.

Although the President did not go beyond those terse comments, they contributed to a growing feeling of confidence here that the thorny Berlin crisis is rapidly nearing a solution.

'Bold, Important Step'

Johnson, Austin Ask Senators To Support Pact, Military Aid

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Louis A. Johnson, Secretary of Defense, and Warren R. Austin, American representative to the United Nations, yesterday urged approval of both the North Atlantic Pact and Military Assistance Program.

Johnson, accompanied by uniformed staff officers of three of his four services, the Army, Air Force and Marine Corps, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the pact is "a bold and important step for us all."

"In it," he added, "we join our great power with that of our neighbors in a common effort for safety and self-preservation—for peace before victory, and without war."

Each witness tangled with Senators who are not members of the committee, but who, at their own requests, were taking part in the hearing.

Austin angrily clashed with Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R., Utah), finally asking that former district judge: "Are you a lawyer?" The U. N. delegate asserted Watkins was not asking questions, but was using "the witness to make an argument" against the treaty.

Johnson closed a spirited set-to with Senator Forrest C. Donnell (R., Mo.) by referring a series of Donnell's questions to "a more competent witness," Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Army Chief of Staff, who will appear before the committee later. He flatly refused to answer one query — how many divisions each signatory to the pact could place on the Rhine as a defense against Russian attack. As an afterthought, he declared the question dangerous to national security.

Johnson declared, under questioning, that the 1130 million dollars the arms assistance program would cost, must be considered in addition to the "15-billion-plus National Defense program." He hoped that in a year or two, he said, the other nations in the pact would be so much stronger, due to the military aid, that it would be possible to reduce expenditures in this country.

He added that if he had to choose between (1) 14 billion dollars for the National Defense Establishment plus a billion-odd dollars for the Atlantic Pact nations in 1950, or (2) 15 billion dollars for Amer-

Truman, Acheson Open Eyes Of 2 Critics of China Policy

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

Two leading congressional critics of Administration policy in China yesterday heard an impressive first-hand defense of that policy from President Truman and Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

What they were told, it is believed, is that the cold facts of the decay of the Chinese Nationalists had made it virtually certain in advance that the present sweeping Communist army advances there would meet only negligible opposition.

Senate Minority Leader Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Nebr.) said later that he and Senator Styles Bridges (R., N. H., talked over the Chinese situation "very much in detail" in a half-hour session with the President and Acheson.

Call for Complete Review

While they declined to discuss the talk itself, Senator Wherry said, "We had a very fine and interesting conference. I learned some things I didn't know before."

Bridges added that what they were told should "be made known to more Senators," while both called for a "complete review" of our policy in China.

Significantly, neither of the two Senators would comment when asked if they still are in favor of new aid to the Chinese Nationalists.

Senator Bridges, ranking Republican on the Senate Appropriations Committee, has repeatedly charged the Administration in the past with delaying aid to China and failing to give full support to help the Nationalists win the civil war.

Have Been Cautious

This has been firmly denied, and in official quarters, those familiar with the Chinese situation are convinced that the Nationalists have long since lost the will to fight, and that no battles have been lost through lack of equipment.

Because any official comment on this or reports of broad-scale graft and corruption within the Nationalist Government would bring the charge that the United States has deliberately abandoned the Nationalists, Administration

Navy, Marine Aviation Stay, Truman Says

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Naval aviation and the marines had assurance yesterday from two top officials that they weren't in danger of abolition or transfer, but the Leathernecks and Navy airmen still are not very happy about it.

President Truman told his press conference there was no foundation in fact for fears that the services would be eliminated or transferred to the Army and Air Force. Defense Secretary Louis Johnson simultaneously issued a statement saying that transfer of marine and naval aviation "has not been under contemplation."

High ranking officials at the Pentagon and informed members of Congress insisted, however, that plans for the gradual reduction and eventual elimination of Marine Corps aviation have been under active consideration in the Office of Defense.

Several told this reporter that they had seen the draft of such a directive, and that the matter had been dropped only because of adverse reaction on Capitol Hill.

What continued to worry Navy and Marine supporters was that neither the President's nor Johnson's statements gave any real assurance that the sea services' air and amphibious forces would not suffer under the new regime at the Pentagon.

As the Defense Secretary pointed out, under the 1947 Unification Act the Marines and Naval and Marine aviation cannot

Bank Reserve Requirement Cut Frees 1.2 Billion for Loans

By the United Press

The Federal Reserve Board last night made $1,200,000,000 available for bank lending by cutting the reserve requirements for its 7000 member banks. It said the move was made because of "changing economic conditions."

Requirements on central reserve city banks—New York and Chicago—were cut from 26 per cent on demand deposits to 24 per cent, effective May 5.

Reserve requirements on banks in other cities were cut from 22 per cent to 21 per cent, also effective May 5.

Requirements for small town and rural banks were cut from 16 per cent to 15 per cent, effective May 1.

Reserve requirements on time deposits at central reserve and other city banks will drop from 7½ per cent to 7 per cent May 5, and those of country banks will drop a like amount May 1.

The cuts have the effect of wiping out about half of the increase in reserve requirements which the board ordered into effect last September 8.

It was the fourth time in the past two months that the board had relaxed credit controls imposed as a brake on inflation. Previously it acted twice to ease installment buying restrictions and reduced stock market margin requirements.

President Truman said at his news conference earlier yesterday that he did not believe the economic situation had changed enough to permit him to drop his demand for sweeping anti-inflation controls. A Federal Reserve official said, however, the move was reported to the White House before it was announced.

Funeral Rites Slated Here for Quezons

Quezon Son-in-Law Killed in Ambush

FELIPE BUENCAMINO 3D,

Services for Mrs. Aurora Quezon and her daughter, Miss Maria Aurora Quezon, who were killed by bandits in the Philippines yesterday, will be conducted in Washington at the same time as a state funeral to be held in Manila.

Services will be Tuesday at a time to be announced later, Ambassador Joaquin M. Elizalde said yesterday.

The Ambassador ordered that the Filipino flag at the Embassy be flown at half staff and closed the Embassy offices in memory of the late President Quezon's widow and daughter, who lived here for two years during the war.

The bandits also killed Felipe Buencamino 3d, husband of Maria Zenaida, the other daughter of the late President and Mrs. Quezon. Maria Zenaida and her brother Manuel jr., now the only surviving members of the family, also lived here in exile, after escaping the Japanese early in 1942.

Escape From Corregidor

With President Quezon, the family had escaped from Corregidor by submarine to Negros, where a PT boat took them to Mindanao. There followed a journey by airplane to Australia, from where they came to the United States by ship.

After their arrival here in May 13,1942, the family was feted by President and Mrs. Roosevelt and by official and social Washington. The two President's families were often together.

Mrs. Quezon and her two daughters were active in welfare work, particularly for Filipino children and in the Philippine Red Cross. While she was of a retiring nature, her daughter, Maria Aurora, was high-spirited like her father. She was active in war work and in the Young Ladies' Catholic Aid Association.

After a short stay at the Shoreham Hotel, they leased for several months the Leesburg (Va.) estate of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley. They then leased the Charles I. Corby estate on Rockville pike in Bethesda, Md., and later returned to the Shoreham to live.

When President Quezon became seriously ill with tuberculosis, Mrs. Quezon and the family accompanied him to Florida, North Carolina and later to Saranac Lake, N. Y., where he died in August, 1944. Maria Aurora was then 24.

Mrs. Quezon and her children moved to Los Angeles in November, 1944. They made their home there until the end of the war, when they returned to their home in the Philippines. Maria Zenaida was married to Buencamino, a prominent landowner, and Manuel, jr., entered the priesthood.

Mrs. Quezon was a graduate of Marygrove College, Detroit, and the Women's University of Santo Tomas, Manila. A cousin of Quezon, she married him in 1918 in Hongkong. She accompanied him here in 1937, when he came to Washington as the chief proponent of Philippine independence.

Wounded: Maj. Gen. Rafael Jalandoni, retired, former chief of staff of the army. Hilarion Silayan, former chief of the plant industry bureau of the department of agriculture. One unidentified member of the party.

President Quirino, who was at his summer home at Bagulo, called an emergency cabinet session here for Friday.

The wounded were taken to a hospital at Cabanatuan. The bodies were brought to Manila for funeral services Friday.

Major General Jalandoni had an almost miraculous escape. He was in the first car, in the rear seat between Mrs. Quezon and Major Bernardo. He alone survived of those in the first car.

Arriving here tonight, Major General Jalandoni said:

"The bandits lined both sides of the road. They stopped our cars. Suddenly I saw a bandit try to pull Mrs. Quezon from our car. I tried to protect her. I heard Mayor Bernardo shout:

"This is Mrs. Quezon."

"As he shouted an outlaw fired a Garand rifle at the mayor. He dropped dead.

"I put my arms about Mrs. Quezon to protect her. A bandit hit me with his rifle butt on the right cheek and knocked me out. I believe I was unconscious 15 minutes before I realized that I was lying on the road with the bodies of Mrs. Quezon and the mayor on top of me.

"My right arm was still around Mrs. Quezon's neck. I heard firing still going on around me.

"Probably the reason I lived was that the robbers thought me dead. When I stood up I saw "Baby" Quezon 6 feet away, dead.

"With other surviving men I loaded the dead and wounded into cars."

leaders have limited their public comments to opposing any further extensive aid to China at this time.

Privately, they have sought to lay the additional information before groups of Congressmen, and in the past few days there has been increasing feeling for placing the full facts on China before the American public as soon as this can be done without damage to the Nationalists' military position.

President Truman at his news conference yesterday strongly denied reports that the United States Navy has abandoned Americans in Shanghai because of the Communist advance and said there are sufficient ships to evacuate any Americans who wish to leave.

One commercial ship left Shangha' Wednesday with several empty berths, and he said two others were scheduled to leave yesterday with space available.

On Tuesday naval vessels in the Task Force commanded by Vice Admiral Oscar C. Badger left the confines of the Whangpoo River at Shanghai to sail downstream to a more maneuverable area. The Navy, said the President, is available at all times to help the commercial liners evacuate American citizens.

Meanwhile, the National Planning Association said in a report prepared by Dr. Luther Gulick, that "America needs a new policy in China which will reaffirm and bring up-to-date the policy of the Open Door as stated over the years by John Hay, William Jennings Bryan and Henry L. Stimson."

In order to "keep the iron curtain from descending between us and the Chinese people," Gulick wrote, this country should insist upon maintenance of the territorial integrity of China and Chinese rights of self-determination, seek early resumption of international communications and trade, provide technological aid, and continue a "vigorous program of private medical, educational and missionary services.

Rough Remarks

Argentinean Ejected From ILO Session

Montevideo, Uruguay, April 28 (AP).—An Argentine government delegate was ejected from a stormy meeting of workers' delegates to the regional conference of the International Labor Office today.

Anselmo Malavicini, Argentine official representative, was asked to leave after he made disparaging personal remarks about United States workers' delegate Serafino Romualdi of the AFL.

The incident occurred as Chile, supported by the United States and Cuba, proposed a resolution asking the ILO governing body to investigate alleged violations of labor's rights by the military governments of Peru, and Venezuela.

Romualdi denounced the military regimes in both countries, whereupon Malavicini interjected his remarks.

Argentine workers' delegate Antonio Valerga moved that a committee be set up to study the evidence submitted by Romualdi, with a view to extending the scope of the resolution to "other countries" besides Peru and Venezuela. This was adopted.

Plan New World Group

London, April 28 (AP).—The world's anti-Communist labor leaders will meet at Geneva June 8 to form a new international trade federation embracing a possible 40 million workers, it was disclosed today.

A spokesman for the British Trade Union Congress said "both the American Congress of Industrial Organizations and the American Federation of Labor are expected to affiliate."

Garrison Hunts Fifth Column In Shanghai

Shanghai, April 28 (UP). — The Shanghai garrison command tonight began a house-to-house search for fifth columnists in this city of 6 million as the Communist armies officially were reported only 35 miles away.

Fearing an uprising by the Communist underground, the garrison threw a security barrier around the city and began an intensive search for Communists.

The garrison command announced the Red army had reached Weitung, a railway town 10 miles east of Communist-captured Soochow and only 35 airline miles from Shanghai. Government forces fell back to Quinsan (Kunshan) only 25 airline miles from the city.

Escape routes for Americans still in Shanghai narrowed today with the departure of the liner President Wilson. It sailed for Japan with 162 refugees in addition to 145 passengers. The United States Navy closed down virtually the last of its remaining shore installations.

Commercial air transport was rare. Rumor said the airlines would shut down Saturday.

To the southwest, several Communist columns were approaching Kashing, railway station midway between Shanghai and Hangchow, and Hangchow itself. A Communist victory at either city would complete Shanghai's encirclement except by sea. Other Red forces were believed nearing Woosung, Shanghai's outlet to the sea.

Communist forces captured Wooshin (Wuhsing), 33 air miles north of Hangchow. The government evacuated the city earlier.

Another Communist force was reported to have reached Wuchang (Wookiang) 8 miles south of Soochow.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, who made a surprise visit to Shanghai yesterday, arrived at the southeast China port of Amoy today aboard the destroyer Tai Kang, the 1150-ton former United States destroyer Decker.

Chiang conferred here with leaders of the Kuomintang, the National Party, presumably regarding final measures for defense of the coty.

The British assistant air attache, Howard Williams, said the RAF at Singapore and Hongkong had been alterted for possible evacuation of Britons.

The Economic Cooperation Administration China misison denied a Washington report that ECA would discontinue its Shanghai activities.

Toscanini Falls In Tub

New York, April 28 (UP).—Conductor Arturo Toscanini, 82, today canceled his sailing for Italy because of injuries suffered when he slipped and fell in a bathtub.

Churchill Sees U. S.-Europe Merger Hope

London, April 28 (AP).—A merger of the United States with a united Europe was envisaged by Winston Churchill today as a possible development of the new British Commonwealth agreement.

Such an association eventually might give "a harassed and struggling humanity, real security and freedom for hearth and home," the Conservative Party leader told Commons.

Churchill is an active advocate of European union.

The wartime Prime Minister told Commons: "It is the duty of us all to try our best to make this new expression of unity of our world-wide association of states and nations a practical success. I feel the tides of the world are favorable to our voyage."

Churchill said he was "unfeignedly glad that an impassable gulf has not opened between the new India and the British Empire and Commonwealth of Nations or between our famous past in India and our anxious present all over the world."

The Commonwealth agreement permits India to become a republic while remaining in the Commonwealth.

[An international military force powerful enough to crush any aggressor was proposed today by the British section of the new Commonwealth Society, headed by Churchill, the United Press reported.

[The society's military committee published a plan for "the prevention of war," proposing a force composed of volunteers owing no allegiance to any individual national government, dedicated to suppression of aggression. It said financing should be by contributions.]

British-Red Canal Showdown Nears

Output For Peace

West Forms Authority To Run Ruhr

London, April 28 (AP).—The Western powers set up today the authority which will direct Germany's industrial Ruhr Valley into production for peace.

Despite indications the Soviet blockade of Berlin may be lifted and the way cleared for four-power talks on Germany's future, the Western nations went ahead with the signing of the Ruhr agreement. Russia was ignored in shaping this agreement, and has protested.

The instrument was signed by representatives of the United States, Britain, France and the Benelux nations—Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

A British Foreign Office spokesman said the authority may hold its first meeting in May.

The new authority for the Ruhr provides a system of inspection—a form of industrial policing—to prevent the Ruhr from becoming an industrial war machine such as supplied the German armies in two wars.

Germany will be given a place on the Ruhr Authority once she has a "legal government." Germany then will have three votes on the control board, equal to the votes of each of the three big powers. Each of the three Benelux nations will have one vote.

Berlin, April 28 (AP).—The Russians and British girded tonight for a showdown at dawn on a blockade issue newly raised by the Russians—barge traffic on canals through the British sector.

The Soviet motive was obscure, particularly in view of the Kremlin's informal offer this week to lift the blockade of western Berlin.

The Russians, continuing a maneuver launched unexpectedly 24 hours before, sent five officers to canal locks at three points inside the British sector with orders to stop all barges lacking Soviet registry. The officers wore sidearms.

Reinforcements Stand By

Two armored cars backed up British military police guarding the locks, and reinforcements stood by for any eventuality when the barges start moving at daylight.

The barges tie up at night because of the danger of running afoul of war wreckage. The canals connect waterways in the Soviet zone west of Berlin with those of the Soviet zone to the east. The Russians claim control over all the canal system.

The British could cripple the Russians' transport system by ordering all barges stopped in the western sectors.

First Order Rescinded

The Russians made their first attempt to stop British barges Wednesday. The British lodged a protest and the order was rescinded. Then, without explanation, the Russians reinstituted the order and sent in the force of five officers today.

The airlift carried 9041 tons to western Berlin in the 24-hour period ended at noon today, for its third highest daily tonnage on record.

The U. S. Air Force announced the United States spent $149,664,200 for the first 10 months of the operation. American and British planes combined flew almost 180,000 flights and carried 1,427,893 tons, from January 28, 1948, to April 26.

Big 4 Parley Expected in 4 or 5 Weeks

Lake Success, April 28 (NYHT). Western diplomatic sources, enthusiastic over the results of yesterday's Soviet-American discussion on the Berlin issue, said today a Four Power conference would probably take place next week in New York to fix a date for a meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers.

The United States, Britain and France are awaiting word from Moscow that will approve the understanding reached yesterday between Philip C. Jessup, American delegate to the United Nations, and Jacob A. Malik, Soviet U. N. representative. Moscow's go-ahead signal for the Four Power meeting is expected within two or three days.

Reliable sources here said Jessup and Malik will get together with Jean Chauvel, French U. N. delegate, and Sir Alexander Cadogan, his British counterpart. All four will then set the date for a meeting of the four Foreign Ministers.

At about the same time it was understood would come a Soviet announcement of the date on which the blockade of Berlin will end.

British and French sources here expected the Foreign Ministers would meet at the end of May or early in June at Paris.

U. N. Panel to Aid In Settling Disputes

New York, April 28 (AP).—The United Nations Assembly decided today to set up a special panel of experts to help settle international disputes before they reach a critical stage.

Russia and the Soviet bloc countries voted against the move. Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jakob A. Malik made a new attack on the North Atlantic defense treaty. The United States supported the plan. Today's vote was 49 to 6. Yemen and New Zealand abstained.

Russian opposition was on the grounds the plan originated in the little assembly, which Russia and her satellites are boycotting.

Highway Traffic Load Increases 8.7% During 1948

The post-war rise in the Nation's highway traffic load was measured yesterday in a summary of final reports received by the Public Roads Administration from State authorities.

As released through the parent Federal Works Agency the figures show that 3,261,801 private and commercial vehicles, including trucks and buses, were added to the flood of traffic last year. This brought the total to 40,622,264, an increase of 8.7 per cent over the 1947 figure. In addition, 529,062 publicly owned vehicles were registered last year, bringing the grand total to 41,151,326, as compared with 37,841,498 in 1947, and those figures did not include 492,165 motorcycles listed for 1948.

The Public Roads Administration estimated that in February, the latest month for which figures are available, motor vehicles traveled 14,788,000,000 miles over rural roads. This represented increases, respectively, of 11.2 and 35.6 per cent over rural roads mileage recorded for the same month in 1947 and 1941.

Oak Ridge Rentals Increased 18 Per Cent

Oak Ridge, Tenn., April 28 (AP). An 18 per cent increase in rents on Oak Ridge houses and apartments was announced today by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The increase will be spread over a three-month period beginning June 1 and will affect more than 8000 housing units here.

U. S. Smashes Uranium Ring In Germany

Frankfurt, Germany, April 28 (U.P.).—American agents have smashed a ring trying to peddle three million dollars' worth of uranium from prewar German stockpiles, the United States Army announced today.

Nine Germans were arrested at Darmstadt Friday.

The uranium was stolen from the stockpiles of Nazi atom-bomb research, according to Maj. Helens Hart, public relations officer for local Army headquarters.

The Germans were carrying 2300 grams of the metal wrapped in newspapers in a battered suitcase when arrested, Army agents said.

The Germans tried to sell the uranium to American investigators for 10 million marks (three million dollars), one of the agents said.

American authorities said the metal seized from the ring was tested in two separate laboratories and found to be "genuine and active."

Russian Aide To Lie Quits for Moscow Duty

New York, April 28 (AP).—Russia's ranking man in the United Nations administration, Assistant Secretary-General Arkady A. Sobolev, resigned today to rejoin the Soviet foreign ministry in Moscow.

Sobolev is regarded in some Western circles as an advocate of closer relations with the Western powers. He was known here as a jovial man with a keen wit and a sharp mind.

Secretary General Trygve Lie announced the resignation, which had been expected since Sobolev suddenly went back to Moscow, January 21. Lie said the reason was ill health in Sobolev's family. His wife and son are reported ill.

After consulting with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, Lie appointed Konstantin Zinchenko to succeed Sobolev. Zinchenko is a young diplomat, having served as press chief for V. M. Molotov. He has been secretary-general of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations.

The post pays $22,000 annually. Zinchenko will receive $13,500 salary and expense allowance amounting to $8500, all tax-free.

The other seven assistant secretaries-general—Lie's top aides are Byron Price, United States; David Owen, Britain; Henri Laugier, France; Adrian Pelt, the Netherlands; Victor Hoo, China; Ivan Kerno, Czechoslovakia; Benjamin Cohen, Chile.

Sobolev is an expert on the German problem. One high Western delegate said he believed the switch was made so Sobolev could take part in the forthcoming Russian-Western talks on that problem.

There were no apparent developments here today on the Berlin situation.

Moscow Dispatch Held Proof That Molotov Is No. 2 Red

New York, April 28 (AP).—Any doubts about the present position of V. M. Molotov in the Soviet hierarchy were dispelled today. He is still the top man under Prime Minister Stalin.

The disclosure comes in an indirect way and apparently confirms reports:

N. A. Voznesensky, deposed as head of the all-important Gosplan (state planning commission) and as a Deputy Prime Minister, also has been removed from the ruling Politburo. He has not been replaced and the Politburo now is made up of Stalin and 11 others.

Lavrenti P. Beria ranks behind only Stalin and Molotov in Soviet prestige.

This information filters through Moscow censorship by way of announcements concerning the annual May Day celebration.

A dispatch from Moscow said:

"Decorations for the May Day holiday began appearing in Moscow today. Red bunting and portraits of members of the Politburo together with portraits of Lenin went up on many buildings.

"Stalin and Lenin are in the center, and on either side of them are pictures of well known officials."

The dispatch then lists Molotov first, an dafter him Beria. Voznesensky's name was not on the list.

Fleming Appointed U.S. Maritime Chief

Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, a former Army engineer, was chosen by President Truman yesterday to head the United States Maritime Commission.

Then the President announced that:

Jess Larson, War Assets administrator, will succeed Fleming as administrator of the Federal Works Agency.

Rear Adm. Paul Luker Mather, assistant to Larson, will become War Assets administrator.

Fleming succeeds Vice Admiral William W. Smith (ret.), whose term as member and chairman of the Maritime Commission has expired.

Disclosed at Conference

Mr. Truman disclosed the job shuffle at his news conference.

Fleming, a West Pointer, has been a Government career man since the earliest days of the New Deal. Mr. Truman described him, however, as an independent with no political affiliation.

His career embraces positions in the Public Works Administration, the Passamaquoddy tidal project, the Resettlement Administration, and the Labor Department's wage-hour division, in addition to his service as Federal Works administrator. He is 61 years old.

Larson, a curly-haired Oklahoman who still looks like a football player at 44, has completed the liquidation of the bulk of the Nation's war surplus — a fearsome grab-bag that included such items as steel mills, bobby pins, GI brogans and rubber life rafts.

Repeatedly, he has advocated abolishing his agency and turning the remainder of its duties over to the Federal Work Agency, which he now has been appointed to head.

Oklahoma Rise Rapid

Larson at 25 was the youngest mayor Chickasha, Okla., ever had. He tied in with the administration of the late Gov. E. W. Marland in Oklahoma and rose rapidly in State politics. He was an officer of the 45th Division during the war and was shot up at the Volturno River crossing in 1943. He emerged from the war a full colonel.

Mather, his successor at WAA, has been with the agency since January, 1947. A combat oficer of World War II, he took part in the assaults on Casablanca, Sicily and Salerno.

Fleming's selection ended weeks of speculation about who would take the helm at the Maritime Commission. For a time, it appeared that Admiral Smith might be reappointed.

A task force of the Hoover Commission on Government reoranization published some strong criticism of the way the commission has been run in the recent past. The task force said that since the retirement of Admiral Emory S. Land as chairman in 1946, "the commission has not had strong leadership." It also noted that all the wartime commissioners had quit and the new members asserted their equal authority.

As a result, the task force said, there have been delays, friction, confusion and defective control.

The commission manages the Government-owned fleet of merchant ships, operating, buying, selling and chartering vessels. It administers a subsidy program to enable American shipping companies to meet foreign competition and also has regulatory and investigatory duties.

As of last July 1, the commission had 6815 employes.

World Bank's Income More Than Tripled

The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development yesterday announced that in the nine-month period ended March 31 its net income amounted to $7,383,006 as compared with $2,242,597 for the first nine months of the preceding fiscal year. The bank's income was $15,611,704, exclusive of $3,701,468 added to the special reserve account. Total expense for the nine-month period of the preceding fiscal year.

In a recapitulation of its activities, the International Bank said that during the first three months of this calendar year it had approved four new loans amounting to $125,100,000, bringing the total loans approved by the Bank since its organization three years ago to $650,100,000.

Disbursements on loans since December 31, 1948, amounted to $9,255,070, bringing the total loan disbursements on March 31, 1949, to $508,342,928. As of March 31 this undisbursed balance of loans in effect was $50,757,072, not including loans in the amount of 16 million to two Chilean corporations, which did not become effective until April 7, and a loan in the amount of 75 million dollars to Brazilian Traction Light & Power Co., Ltd., which has been approved by the bank but which was not effective on March 31.

The Bank also reported that on January 15 four Dutch shipping companies to which the Bank had lent 12 million dollars, had paid $600,000, principal amount, of the 2½ per cent guaranteed serial mortgage notes received by the International Bank in connection with the loans and subsequently sold by the International Bank to a group of private commercial and savings banks. This represents the first repayment of principal by the borrower under any of the bank's loan agreements.

Fraulein Held In Data Theft

Frankfurt, Germany, April 28 (AP).—A German girl who formerly worked for the United States military government was charged today with stealing secret American documents for the use of foreign agents.

The Army said the girl, 24-year old Gertraud Mittenentzwei, declared she acted "because of threats that her family in the Russian zone of Germany would be harmed unless she obtained the documents."

The army said the theft went unnoticed for some time. British authorities on the British-Soviet zone border recovered a suitcase and a sack stuffed with documents dropped by a fleeing man who left a train at the border.

The papers were traced to the office where Miss Mittenentzwei worked.

The girl admitted furnishing the material to foreign agents and said she was paid for the work.

on the planted document. The handwriting, he said, was Miss Coplon's own.

The document from which she had made notes, Whearty said, was a report signed by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Data on Amtorg False

He said that part of it was authentic information about "geophones," instruments used to gauge the force of blasts in the atomic bomb tests at Alamogordo, N. Mex. He explained that the information had never been released but was "unimportant" and would do "no damage" if it fell into unfriendly hands.

Another part of the planted report, he said, was "false information" about the Amtorg Trading Co., a Russian outfit. It told of two undercover informants the FBI had in Amtorg, he said, and named one of them.

On the morning of March 4, Whearty told the jury, Peyton Ford, the Assistant to the Attorney General, handed the Hoover report to William E. Foley, Miss Coplon's boss in the Foreign Agents Registration Section of the Justice Department.

Foley, he said, handed it to Miss Coplon.

Foley was on the witness stand, testifying, when Judge Albert L. Reeves adjourned the trial yesterday until 10 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. Rebecca Coplon, mother of the defendant, sat in the courtroom, opposite the jury box, throughout yesterday's proceedings. She kept her eyes lowered most of the time. At one point she used a handkerchief to dry her tears.

Although the trial opened Monday, the jury was not brought in to hear the case until yesterday morning. The time before this had been taken up with arguments over the selection of jurors or arguments dealing with motions.

Defers Ruling on Papers

Judge Reeves, at the outret yesterday, refused to grant a defense motion that the papers taken from Miss Coplon's handbag in New York by the FBI be returned to her. He deferred a final ruling until later.

He definitely denied a motion by Attorney Palmer to declare a mistrial and he admitted as evidence an affidavit by FBI Agent Robert R. Granville, which told of Miss Coplon's efforts to obtain a "top secret" report on Soviet spy activities.

Nothing was brought out in yesterday's proceedings to indicate how Miss Coplon and Gubitchev first met.

Government Attorney Whearty, in his opening statement, told how FBI agents trailed Miss Coplon on three trips from Washington to New York to meet the Russian. The dates were January 14, February 18 and March 4.

He related that at about the time of the first meeting, in the middle of January, Miss Coplon's work in the Department of Justice was reduced. She was relieved of the task of handling "internal security reports."

'She protested removal of this work," Whearty said. "She regarded it as a reflection on her ability and integrity.

"She protested removal of this a woman attorney, and said she wanted to see internal security reports, and all reports relating to embassies and consulates and personnel. The woman attorney furnished her some reports."

He told how, at a meeting of Miss Coplon and Gubitchev on Broadway on February 18, the girl was seen to open her pocketbook, while the Russian extended his right arm in front of her.

That same night, before the meeting, Miss Coplon was walking in Fort Tryon Park, Whearty said, and turned to two FBI representatives who were following her, a man and a woman.

"How do I get to Broadway?" he quoted her as asking the FBI people.

"We don't know," he said the FBI people replied. "We're lost, too."

Sits in Front of Jury

When the time came for Defense Attorney Palmer to make his opening statement, he called Miss Coplon from the counsel table and had her sit in a chair in front of the jury.

"The curtain is up," he said. "A serious play, involving this girl's life, is about to be brought before you. You are to be the critics."

He said that Miss Coplon was "clothed with innocence," and he proceeded to tear int othe Government's case.

"We want to show you," he said, "that the mountain labored and brought forth a mouse."

He said that Miss Coplon actually met Gubitchev before last Christmas, and found him "personable." The Russian, he said, spoke to her as "a man does to a maid."

"As far as she was concerned," he continued, "she got an affection for him, and I suppose he for her."

He told how Miss Coplon and Gubitchev met at Christmastime in Fort Tryon Park, "where lovers have their trysts," and how she gave him a necktie for a present.

When they next met on January 14, Palmer said, Gubitchev had some news for the girl.

"Then," the attorney said, "he told her for the first time that he was a married man."

But Gubitchev also told her, Palmer said, that he was "not on good terms," with his wife.

Desired Citizenship

He told her also, the lawyer said, that he wanted to become a part of this great country, which he so much admired.

They next met on February 18, and Palmer quoted the Russian as telling Miss Coplon: "Please go away. My wife's detectives are following me."

Miss Coplon, he said, had been "surprised" by the news that Gubitchev was married. When she went to see him on March 4, he said, it was to find "what was right—her head or her heart."

"He tells her," said Palmer apropos this meeting, "she must go away."

The defense lawyer, referring to the Coplon-Gubitchev "affair" at one point, said "the man never even touched her, never even kissed her."

Charges Entrapment Attempt

Palmer said the Government was guilty of "an outrageous attempt to entrap" the defendant. He wound up his statement to the jurors by asking them to "give Judith Coplon back to her mother and folks."

The mother, sitting across the room, was dabbing at her eyes.

Nathan H. Franke, administrative officer of the criminal division of the Department of Justice, was the first witness called. He told how she had started working for the department in 1943, and how she had been suspended after her arrest.

Judge Reeves, in a memorandum on Palmer's motion to return Miss Coplon's papers, said that "the life of the Nation itself" was involved if the facts in the case were true, as asserted by the prosecution.

Loyalty Oaths Required

"At the time this arrest was made," the memorandum said, "it had been and was the fixed policy of the authorities to require loyalty oaths of employes.

"This was tremendously significant and could have been easily construed as a red light of danger to the very structure of our government. It surely aroused those charged with the responsibility of detecting espionage activities and collecting evidence of such to a high sense of the great importance attaching to this work . . .

"Without prompt action lasting injury might have been inflicted."

If Judge Reeves had ruled in favor of Miss Coplon and ordered her papers returned to her, the prosecution was prepared to ask him for a directed verdict of acquittal. The papers, it contends, constitute the heart of the case.

Ford Rules Out Longer Hours, Speed-up as Output Boosters

New York, April 28 (AP).—Henry Ford 2d, president of Ford Motor Co., said tonight higher worker output "cannot be expected to spring from longer hours or speeded-up effort."

"If we are wise," he declared, "we will always head in the other direction, toward greater output at less expense of time and energy. At least in my opinion that is the meaning of productivity."

Ford's remarks were prepared for delivery before the 170th dinner meeting of the Economic Club of New York.

(Today the executive board of the United Auto Workers (CIO) authorized a strike on May 5 of 6000 Ford workers. The labor dispute revolves around a union charge of speed-ups, which the Ford company has denied. The executive board denied permission to 60,000 other workers to walk out pending an investigation of speed-up charges.)

Ford gave first place to higher worker productivity in what he called "four basic requirements in any American plan for progress."

Second, he said, "progress is essentially a job for science and engineering. . . . We need to find out how to do the same continuous, difficult, experimental and research work in the field of human sciences which we have done in the field of physical sciences."

Third, "progress is a job for businessmen, but it requires the development of a political sense greater than we businessmen now have."

Fourth, "only with the understanding cooperation of government and organized labor can business make its maximum contribution to progress."

Navy, Marine Fliers Stay, Says Truman

be abolished or transferred to other services. But they can be curtailed by cutting their allocations of funds under the budget and building up the Army and Air Force instead.

Johnsons denial literally stated only that no studies are under way in the national military establishment dealing with the "transfer" of marine and naval aviation to another service.

As forecast in The Washington Post yesterday, Chairman Carl Vinson (D., Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee conferred with Johnson at the Pentagon yesterday morning on the reports that a move directed at Marine aviation was in view. The appointment was arranged the day before at the insistence of committee members, who planned to fight the move.

According to these members, Vinson warned the Defense chief that such a move would bring a full-dress committee investigation.

The Georgia Congressman later released Johnson's statement.

President Truman also told his press conference that he hoped Curtis E. Calder, New York utilities magnate, would accept appointment as Secretary of the Army. The President also said that Jonathan Daniels, editor of the Raleigh (N. C.) News and Observer, is under consideration for appointment as Secretary of the Navy.

On Wednesday, high Government officials reported that Calder would take the Army post within 60 days and that Daniels was not under consideration for the Navy job. Calden later denied he had accepted the appointment.

When this was mentioned to Mr. Truman, he smilingly noted that he had not made the Calder announcement.

After the President declared there was no foundation for the Navy-Marine Corps fears, a reporter reminded him that the apprehensions were raised by John L. Sullivan when he resigned as Secretary of the Navy earlier this week.

The President replied that he had not read Sullivan's letter to Secretary Johnson, protesting the cancellation of construction of the 65,000-ton aircraft carrier United States.

Meanwhile, the Senate Armed Services Committee decided unanimously against making any inquiry into the stoppage of work on the carrier and Sullivan's protest resignation—at least for the "time being."

The committee, however, wrote into the pending unification bill a proviso which would prohibit the transfer of personnel from one service to another. This was aimed. Tydings said, at allaying fears of Marine and Naval aviators.

The House Armed Services Committee already has decided to put off any consideration of the carrier cancellation until it takes up the unification bill—after it is passed by the Senate. Chairman Vinson yesterday read Secretary Johnson's statement to the House.

It read:

"I have been hearing rumors about the transfer of the Marine and Naval aviation to some other branch of the service.

"1. Under the law this cannot be done.

"2. It has not been under contemplation, and from time to time numerous statements have been made by me to that effect.

"3. There are no such studies being carried on in the National Military Establishment. Further, I want you to know that before any step of this kind would be seriously considered, I should ask permission to discuss the matter before the committees of both houses of Congress."

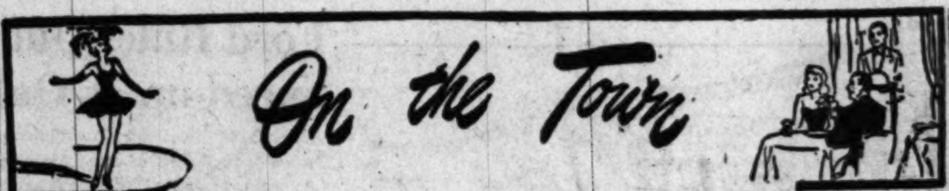
On the Town



You've heard of stand-ins zooming to fame and fortune in the entertainment world when, for some reason or another, the star of the show failed to appear.

Carroll

That, with considerable embellishment, is the story of Jimmy Carroll, whose romantic tenor will begin thrilling the feminine clientele of the Mayflower Lounge (Mayflower Hotel) on Monday.

To start with, it seems Carroll was but one clear voice in the choir on another tenor's program, the other tenor being James Melton. Then came the day when Melton's vocal chords went on the blink. Laryngitis. Carroll filled in, pulled hearty congratulations from the sponsors.

Soon after this, we're told, another well-known warbler, Morton Downey, left his radio program for a stint overseas with the USO. Up popped Carroll, and once again—just possibly because he has an excellent voice—the response was enthusiastic.

By this time he was pretty well established. When illness struck Frank Parker, and then Dick Brown, what more natural than Carroll should be summoned? It ended with him doing a program of his own on a cost-to-coast hookup. And that's how he did it.

On the other hand, there's Florian ZaBach, the gifted violinist who, with his orchestra, is about to begin his ninth week in the Mayflower Lounge.

The blond, personable ZaBach, a musician since childhood, a touring concert violinist at 15, had always done solo work. But the owner of one establishment he was to play suggested he head up a band at the same time.

And despite all ZaBach's objections (didn't know how, didn't have a band, etc.), he wound up shortly thereafter waving his bow as a baton when he wasn't using it on his fiddle. Either way, or both, is a pleasure to see and hear.

James J. Brahms and Leonard Mitchell, owners of Olmsted Restaurant, have a pleasant little custom that happens only twice a year—and perhaps it's a good thing. They give each other a birthday party when the time comes.

The time came the other day for Mitchell, and the repast lasted five hours. Among other niceties, the menu included black caviar, pate de foi gras, a Swedish fish food, goose a la Suvorov, Chateaubriand, and baked Alaska.

Helping Mitchell celebrate were Prince and Princess Archibald Esterhazy, Alexandria Vedrinskaya, of the Moscow Art Theater, Walter Woodward, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Backstrom, cousins of Mitchell.

Support Asked On Pact, Aims

ican Armed Forces, he would choose the latter.

His department, he said, had thoroughly studied its needs, and came up with the answer that the 15 billion is the minimum "for adequate maintenance of our national security."

The assistance under the arms agreement, Johnson asserted, would be mainly military equipment now largely in reserve or surplus. The former would be charged to the appropriation at replacement cost, he asserted, the latter at the cost of "rehabilitating it," probably in the neighborhood of 15 per cent. A small amount would be in cash to fill out shortages that exist in Europe.

The United States, Johnson declared, Must be "prepared to counter foreseeable threats."

"This requires preparedness not only in terms of guns, ships and airplanes but in terms of readily convertible resources of manpower and industry.

"It is equally obvious that we need friends and partners. Through this treaty we band together with many of our friends. By the military assistance program we put the means in their hands to defend themselves and thereby increase our own security."

Like Austin, the Defense Secretary emphasized that the pact and arms program were purely for mutual defense. As such they are unlike "historical military alliances" that were often pacts for aggression, or that, in any case, called for "automatic" armed assistance in case of war, he asserted.

"The North Atlantic Treaty," he said, "will form a basis for improving United States security by improving the military potential of all member nations. I am sure that its value as a war deterrent, and, in the last resort, in war itself, must be obvious to you all."

The Secretary then added that the Military Establishment believes the treaty will not be enough without military assistance.

"Unless its terms are vigorously implemented, its force for peace will be vitiated and, if there should be war, we should have to pay an inordinate price for our failure to implement it."

In his morning appearance, Austin declared that the "United Nations has done well, but not as well as we're going to do." He urged that movements to drop U. N. in favor of other global plans such as World Federation or the Armstrong Proposal (a union of nations opposed to "excessive use of the veto") be discouraged.

"We should not close our minds to this new field," he said. "We are engaged with a new power—a power for peace, which in four years has done well."

Austin then blamed Russia for the failure of U. N. to accomplish "the hopes we hald out only four years ago."

"We did not expect the drastic deterioration in relations between East and West which has occurred" he said. "We certainly did not conceive that the Soviet Union would so brazenly violate the solemn Charter pledge to refrain from the threat or use of force against the territorial integrity or political independence of other states.

"None of us imagined the adoption of a deliberate and calculated policy of obstrction that has prevented the conclusion of peace treaties and impaired the work of U. N."

Austin, step by step, showed that the U. N. Charter provided for just such a regional pact as he declared the Atlantic Treaty to set up.

"In this swiftly-shrinking world," he declared, "peace will be secured and maintained only if we pursue the goal of collective security that is set up in the U. N. Charter. I support the North Atlantic Treaty because I believe it is a practical, although geographically limited, method of supporting that universal objective."

No Berlin Deal, Says Acheson

States, Britain and France have been planning.

"The people of Europe may rest assured that this Government will agree to no arrangements concerning Germany which do not protect the security interests of the European community," he added pointedly.

Unless Russia will agree to a plan for reuniting Germany which meets these tests, he made plain, the Western powers will go ahead with their present moves to set up a separate state in the western occupation zones.

Reviews Steps Since 1947

But Acheson emphasized that the plans for a west German republic do not mean "we have abandoned hope of a solution which would be applicable to Germany as a whole or that we are barring a resumption of discussions looking toward such a solution."

He said the United States is ready to talk with Russia about Germany "whenever it might appear that there was any chance of success" in reaching an agreement.

He reviewed at length the steps which the United States, Britain and France have taken since 1947 to unify their zones of Germany and re-establish an economically healthy and democratic society in that conquered country.

He said the "ultimate objective" of the United States is to bring the German people, "or as large a part of them as possible," into a "new common structure of the free peoples of Europe."

He quickly qualified this apparent reference to German membership in a United States of Europe by saying "the form and pace of this development" is mainly up to the Europeans themselves.

Acheson made it plain the Western powers will not halt their plans for a west German republic just because a four-power meeting may be in the offing.

Approval Expected By May 15

He said that latest reports from Germany indicate that "all differences" have been threshed out among the German political leaders preparing a constitution for the proposed federal state, and that a constitution acceptable to the Western occupation powers "is expected to be approved by the (German) parliamentary council by May 15."

He predicted that establishment of the German republic, supervised by civilian Allied commissioners instead of a military government, would be "a great step forward toward peace."

Suit Charges Libel Against Pearson, Post

An former GI in New York City yesterday filed suit in District Court here for $200,000 libel damages against Columnist Drew Pearson, the Bell Syndicate, Inc., and The Washington Post.

The suit was filed by Joseph B. Franzino, a minor, through his father. He charged he was libeled in the Washington Merry-Go Round July 30 in an article about a black-market scandal involving the Army in Japan.

Emperor's Exile Ends

Dalat, Indochina, April 28 (AP).—Ex-emperor Bao Dai of Annam return to Indochina today, after four years in exile, to head a viet-nam union sponsored by the French.

Syria Held Massing Near Trans-Jordan

Beirut, Lebanon, April 28 (AP).—Syrian troops were reported digging in opposite the Trans-Jordan frontier today, emphasizing tense relations between the Arab governments in Damascus and Amman.

A dispatch from the Syrian frontier town of Deraa (Nagati) said one defense line had been based upon Deraa and a second at Sheik Maskin, 12 miles to the north.

"Thousands of Syrian soldiers are fortifying the border," the correspondent wrote. "Reinforcements are continually arriving.

"I have seen thousands of Syrian soldiers at Sheik Maskin digging trenches along a vast area, with numerous heavy guns and tanks scattered about."

About 3000 Trans-Jordan Arab Legionnaires are encamped on the other side of the border at Ramtha. No unusual activity was noted there.

Premier Riad el Solh of Lebanon assumed the role of peacemaker between Syria and both Trans-Jordan and Iraq, whose Kings are members of the Hasimite family.

Brig. Husni Zayim, who took over in a military coup March 30 and is now Syria's Premier and Defense Minister, denounced Trans-Jordan and Iraq for proposing eventual absorption of Syria, called about 20,000 new soldiers to the colors and closed the border between Syria and Trans-Jordan.

3 Jews Shot In Clash at Jerusalem

Jerusalem, April 28 (UP).—Three Jews were wounded tonight when shooting broke out between Arab legionnaires and Israeli troops near the wall of the old city.

The exchange of rifle fire lasted an hour. It was the first time the two groups have clashed in the Holy City since the Israeli-Trans-Jordan armistice was signed at Rhodes.

Syrian Delegates Meet With U. N. Commission

Lausanne, Switzerland, April 28 (AP).—Syria's delegation met today with the United Nations Palestine Conciliation Commission.

The commission, from the United States, France and Turkey, held separate talks yesterday with delegates from Israel, Egypt and Lebanon. The delegations from Israel and the various Arab nations are not expected to meet directly for several weeks.

25 Hurt In Derailment Of Broadway Limited

Fort Wayne, Ind., April 28 (UP). Twenty-five persons were injured today when seven cars of the Pennsylvania Railroad's streamlined Broadway Limited jumped the tracks near here.

A double-unit diner and six sleeping cars left the rails and jolted to a stop in an upright position.

The New York-to-Chicago flyer was slowing for the Fort Wayne station when the derailment occurred at 5:23 a. m. (6:23 a. m. EDT) just outside the city limits.

Mass Conducted For Mussolini on Death Anniversary

Rome, April 28 (AP). — Masses were conducted in various Italian churches for Benito Mussolini today, the fourth anniversary of his death.

Members of an avowedly pro-Fascist Party, the Italian Social Movement (MSI), attacked Associated Press Photographer Remo Nassi and destroyed his films at the Saint Agostino Church in Rome.

Mass was celebrated for the soul of Benito Mussolini in the Lisbon, Portugal, Roman Catholic Martyr's Church.

The priest of the church, a Padre Crespo, said:

"This mass is for the soul of Benito Mussolini, martyred and assassinated in a dastardly way. Let us pray to God to forgive him his sins for the benefits he brought to the church."

Burma Bombs Karens

Rangoon, Burma, April 28 (AP).—Burmese government planes today bombed 80 miles of rebel territory east of Rangoon in an attempt to halt the advance of Karen rebels. Karen tribesmen were fighting to force a breakthrough to Insein, 10 miles from the Burma capital.

Truman Asks U.S. Membership in ITO

President Truman yesterday asked Congress to authorize United States membership in the International Trade Organization. He called it "an essential forward step in our foreign policy."

Mr. Truman submitted to the Senate and House the charter for an International Trade Organizations in Havana in 1948. He said it was designed:

To establish "a code of international conduct to guide nations in dealing with the fundamental problems of world trade."

To create an agency, within the framework of the United Nations, "to help implement this code."

Under the charter, the President said, member nations "commit themselves to abide by fair and liberal principles of trade."

He added in a statement that "we have learned through bitter experience how necessary it is for nations to approach jointly the task of improving the conditions of world trade."

The 800-word message to Congress said the United States' reciprocal trade agreements program has paved the way for cooperative action and that this program should be extended "in full force."

"But it is clear that trade agreements alone are not enough," the President went on. "These agreements do not touch certain important obstacles to the expansion of world trade.

"Subsidies, cartels, and many other devices have important effects in limiting trade or creating disadvantages for one country as compared with another. What is needed is cooperative action to attack the whole range of obstacles that stand in the way of broadening international trade.

"The Havana International Trade Organization charter is a major step toward achieving that objective. It was agreed upon by the representatives of 54 nations after more than two years of preparatory study and negotiation."

Mr. Truman said the charter is an integral part of the larger program of international economic reconstruction and development.

AWARD WINNER—Miss Barbara Lusser, 24, nurse and governess to 3-year-old Anders Boheman, son of the Swedish Ambassador, yesterday was selected "Pedestrian of the Month." Miss Lusser was picked by the Commissioners' Traffic Advisory Board for the care she exercised in crossing 11th and F sts. nw. yesterday. Drivers Freed In 2 County Auto Deaths

Two motorists were acquitted in Hyattsville Police Court yesterday of manslaughter and reckless driving charges resulting from two separate Prince Georges County traffic fatalities.

They were Arthur I. Anderson, 19, driver of an ice cream vending truck that fatally injured 5-year-old Tommy Smeathern near his Rogers Heights home, April 8, and Eugene J. Coughlin, 45, charged in the death of Elwood C. Kidwell, 42, on Landover rd. near Largo, April 18.

Anderson, who lives at 1356 L st. se., was exonerated on both charges after three witnesses testified the Smeathern boy walked directly into the path of his truck as it moved off from in front of the boy's home at 5306 Hamilton st. Tommy, the son of Chief Petty Officer and Mrs. Troy Smeathern, had purchased ice cream from Anderson for himself and two little friends only a few minutes before the accident.

Coughlin, a railroad engineer living at 4601 37th st., Brentwood, Md., was acquitted after he told Judge Arthur P. Owens his truck was forced from the highway by an oncoming car, crashed into a tree and overturned. Kidwell, a passenger in the truck, who lived at 2816 13th st. nw., was thrown out by the impact and died two days later.

Judge Owens said he found Coughlin not guilty of both manslaughter and reckless driving because there were no witnesses to refute Coughlin's testimony.

Armed Bandit Gets $95 In Liquor Store Holdup

A bandit armed with a rfle held up Kiernan's Liquor Store, 8200 Baltimore blvd., Berwyn, Md., last night and escaped with $95.

Vincent J. and Mark Kiernan, brothers and owners of the store, said the gunman entered the store at about 9 p. m. He forced them into a back room before he fled.

Brannan Plan Draws Fire of Farm Bureau

The American Farm Bureau Federation hit at the Administration's new farm program yesterday, saying its cost would be "staggering."

Allan B. Kline, president of the big farm organization, told a House Agriculture Subcommittee that the cost on fluid milk alone would be $2,480,000,000 on the basis of the most reasonable assumptions yet made.

Kline also said the Administration plan would:

Put a "ceiling on opportunity in agriculture," lead to "Government supervised and stabilized agriculture poverty," establish a principle that "taxpayers should pay a considerable portion of the grocery bill of consumers."

In short, he said, it is "a statement of politico-economic philosophy, not a farm program."

Kling proposed that Congress stick with the farm law passed last year, but make a number of changes. Several committee Democrats made clear they disagreed with him violently on that.

Furthermore, a split developed among major farm organizations.

South Africa Wreck Kills 74, Injures 92

Johannesburg, South Africa, April 28 (AP).—A triple train collision killed 74 persons and injured 92 others today. It was the worst railroad disaster in the history of the Union of South-Africa.

Three electric trains all headed in the same direction crashed into one another on a high embankment near Orlando in Natic Township 10 miles from Johannesburg.

Two of the trains were standing on the track when the third train came around a bend.

The moving train crashed into the rear of the first stationary train, ramming it into the one just ahead.

Firemen with blow torches cut into the wreckage in rescue attempts. Thousands of natives rushed to the scene to search for bodies of relatives. Finally police had to rope off the entire area so that rescue operations could go on unimpeded.

Among the dead were 2 white Europeans and 14 Indians. The remainder were natives.

British Paper Hits 'Sex Sale' To GI Airmen

London, April 28 (U.P.).—The tabloid Daily Mirror reported today that teen-age girls, some of them no more than 12, were doing a brisk business picking up American airmen at Manchester's Central Station.

The newspaper, in a half-page article bannered "Britain's Good Name is in Peril," said armies of young girls met the trains from Burtonwood, the big American air base 16 miles from Manchester.

"No introductions are needed," the Mirror said. "A 'Hi ye, Joe' is enough for any good-natured GI. The peacetime love parade outsmarts anything London staged at wartime Rainbow Corner.

"It is shoddy, shameful and shocking. It is sex for sale—a frightening, awful thing of teenage girls, some no more than 12—waiting nightly in twos and threes."

Six thousand United States servicemen are station at Burtonwood.

The Mirror said that more than 100 girls drift into Central Station nightly. They sit on benches, opposite the arrival platforms.

Military and civilian police are powerless, the Mirror said, because the girls are never caught actually soliciting.

The Mirror said the girls and their GI dates usually move on to pubs and then to cheap hotels.

Capt. George W. Hill, press office at Burtonwood, said: "We are very alive to the problems and are doing everything we can to give the men plenty of entertainment and recreation right here to keep them off the streets."

Robeson Cancels Speech

Copenhagen, Denmark., April 28 (U.P.).—American Negro singer Paul Robeson today canceled a scheduled speech to Danish students because of the "atmosphere in the Danish population."

1949 Report

6610 Killed By Traffic In 3 Months

Chicago, April 28 (U.P.).—Traffic accidents in the first three months of 1949 killed 6610 persons in the Nation, an increase of 2 per cent over deaths in the same period last year, the National Safety Council reported tonight.

March showed a decline with 2210 deaths, 1 per cent lower than March, 1948.

The council blamed increased travel for the upsurge. Vehicle mileage was up 5 per cent in January and February over last year.

North Atlantic States with an increase of 14 per cent in deaths and South Atlantic States with 12 per cent accounted for most of the increase in the three-month period, the council said.

Hermit Wants to See Lawyer Before Talking About Draft

New York, April 28 (AP).—Brooklyn's bearded hermit, who sat out World War II in a tiny sealed cubbyhole, wants to see a lawyer before he discusses his draft status with Federal agents.

United States Attorney J. Vincent Keogh said he sent two FBI men to Kings County Hospital yesterday to talk to 33-year-old Paul Makushak, who is under mental observation after ten years' voluntary entombment.

Makushak refused to talk "until I speak to my lawyer."

Keogh said no further effort to question the patient would be made until after psychiatrists report.

Makushak still wants to go back to the tiny cell in his mother's tenement.

Makushak's 58-year-old mother, Anna, who passed food to him for ten years, was reported in serious condition at Greenpoint Hospital.

The father, Peter, 62, said the mother "seemed to go all to pieces" after a younger son, George, died of blood poisoning 16 years ago. She worried constantly that she might lose Paul, too, the father said.

Frank Harris Heads Woodside Park Body

Other Nest officers are: Wayne Birdsell, vice president; W. K. Cave, treasurer, and Mrs. Martin Cooley, secretary. Delegates elected to the Montgomery County Civic Federation: Harold P. 5 Austrians Study Police Methods Here

Five Austrian police officials arrived in Washington yesterday to study police methods here.

They first visited the Police Academy and the Central Communications and Records Bureau at police headquarters.

The five are making an eight-week tour of this country. So far they have visited Hartford and Greenwich, Conn., and New York City. From here they will go to Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Detroit, Milwaukee, Chicago, Evanston, Ill., and Trenton, N. J.

To date, they have been most impressed by the way American cities handle their traffic problems, and the amount of cooperation between police and public in traffic matters.

Traffic is not a major problem in Austria, they told reporters, for there are only 50,000 registered motor vehicles in the country.

One of their biggest problems in postwar Austria, they said, has been juvenile delinquency, but that began to level off after the first of this year. Like American cities, Austrian cities have many housebreakings.

The five visiting officials are Dr. René Seutter, in the police administration section of Austria's Ministry of Interior; Dr. Franz Mayers, in the state police section of the Ministry of Interior; Franz Rupertsberger, security director of upper land Austria; Dr. Franz Hager, police directorate of Vienna, and Rudolph Kraft, lieutenant colonel of uniformed police in Vienna and that city's traffic expert.

Their tour is sponsored by the civil affairs division of the Department of the Army and the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

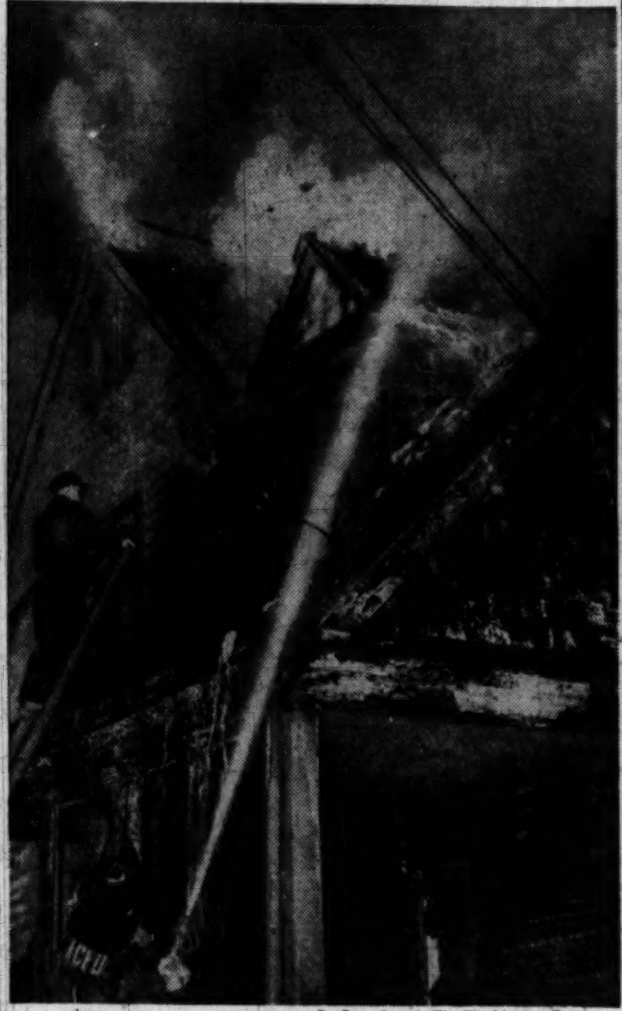
Arlington Home Ablaze . . .



By Gene Jones—The Washington Post

TWO KILLED—Smoke billows into the sky as Arlington County firefighters direct stream of water on house at 1223 N. Scott st., Arlington, early yesterday. A mother and her son were killed

Crippled Woman, 82, and Son Die as Arlington Home Burns

Fire made a torch of a 40-year-old frame home in Arlington early yesterday, killing an 82-year-old crippled woman and her son, 49.

The fire apparently began in a living room easy chair and raged through the house at 1223 N. Scott st. before three fire companies brought it under control two hours after its discovery.

Only then were firemen able to enter the house where they found the bodies of Mrs. Annie Quinn and her son, Arthur T. Quinn, in their bedrooms.

The barking of "Mike," a Boxer puppy whose master, Air Force Lieut. H. S. Davis, lives next to the Quinn house, awakened Davis about 2 a. m.

Firemen from Clarendon, Arlington, and Ballston responded and found flames shooting from all doors and windows of the two-story house.

Unable to enter the house because of the fierce blaze, firemen did prevent its spread to the two adjoining houses.

When firemen entered the house they found Mrs. Quinn lying between her bed and her wheelchair. Her son was on the floor of his room. Both bodies were badly burned.

Firemen said the basement furnace was not operating and a gas water heater there was intact.

They said the fire apparently started in the easy chair as a portion of the floor beneath the chair had burned through, the chair falling to the basement.

Relatives said Mrs. Quinn had one leg amputated three years ago.

Born in Ireland, she came to the United States in 1885 and had lived in the Arlington home since 1906.

She was the widow of Army Sergt. Maj. James Quinn, who became a member of the Park Police force after he retired from the Army. He died about 1929.

Mrs. Quinn is survived by two sons, Joseph M. Quinn, 2951 Upton st. nw., and Col. William E. J. Quinn, U. S. Army, retired, of St. Louis, Mo.; a daughter, Mrs. Charles Gatto, Princeton, N. J.; nine grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

The other victim, her son Arthur, is survived by his estranged wife, Mrs. Ethel Quinn, and one son, Gerald, 2201 M st. ne. Arthur was a Treasury Department clerk for 16 years.

Both bodies were moved to the Ives Funeral Home, 2847 Wilson blvd. Dr. W. C. Welburn, coroner, issued certificates of accidental death in both cases.

Services for Mrs. Quinn will be held at 9 a. m. Monday at St. Charles Catholic Church, 3300 N. Washington blvd., Arlington. Services for her son will be held at 8:30 a. m. Monday at the funeral home. Both will be buried in Arlington Cemetery.

Priceless Silver Cleaned With "GLASS WAX"

Only Cleaner Trusted For Historic Pieces

The nation's finest privately owned collection of rare drinking vessels is cleaned exclusively with "GLASS WAX". According to its owner, Francis W. Fowler, Jr., the amazing Gold Seal pink chemical provides the quickest and easiest method of maintaining the 500-odd items in the gleaming condition necessary for their display. The crystal-clear film that "GLASS WAX" leaves to protect lustre aids greatly by prolonging the period between cleanings.

Absolute Safety A Must

Most important, of course, is the fact that "GLASS WAX" is safe—entirely free of any harsh abrasive that might even minutely scratch these precious surfaces. Dangerous brushing, too, is eliminated in the chemical cleaning action afforded by "GLASS WAX". Mr. Fowler's choice of cleaner for his remarkable collection is supported by many leading silversmiths who recommend "GLASS WAX" for all plate and sterling.

This unusual hobby has been exhibited across the country and has been the subject of many newspaper and magazine articles as well.

Letters Hail "GLASS WAX" Speed, Ease

From all over the country, letters praising "GLASS WAX" flow into Gold Seal Company offices every day. Here are excerpts from a few recent unsolicited tributes:

Mrs. C. A. Wright
Detroit, Michigan

"I thought 'I'll use 'GLASS WAX' for my windows and see how it works,' as I had never had much luck with other window cleaners. Well, I can honestly say I never saw such gleaming windows before."

Mrs. Eileen Neidringhaus
Creve Coeur, Missouri

"SO EASY AND NEAT A CHILD CAN USE IT . . . AND FIND IT FUN!", WRITES ONE WOMAN

"'GLASS WAX' worked wonders. There is no sign whatsoever of those persistent streaks on my mirrors, and the mirror stays clean so much longer than from any other glass preparations on the market."

Mrs. Ruby M. Frain
Los Angeles, California

"I never used such a good cleaner as 'GLASS WAX' that made things shine, and I do mean shine, with such little effort."

Mrs. R. O. Hebert
Norwell, Massachusetts

"Comparing the costs of various other products to do the things which this one chemical does, plus the saving in time and labor, 'GLASS WAX' is truly the most economical and efficient cleaner I've ever come across."

Mrs. Virgil Oliver
Studio City, California

"When I first tried 'GLASS WAX', I thought I'd have to use as much as I did with other cleaners to get my grimy windows clean. Imagine my surprise when I found that so little 'GLASS WAX' was needed to do a superlative job. Besides, using a small amount never leaves any dust to be cleaned up later."

Mrs. H. F. McGinnis
Chicago, Illinois

Mrs. Gladys F. Andersen
North Quincy, Massachusetts

"Wherever possible in my housecleaning work, I use 'GLASS WAX'. It has everything else on the market beat."

Mrs. Mary Kohl
Bronx, New York

"As you can imagine, I've tried every cleaner ever marketed—powder, paste, liquid, and spray. But now, thanks to 'GLASS WAX', I tackle the job with nary a frown, and keep 944 small window panes bright and clean with just a weekly dusting."

Mrs. Frank G. Matthews
Spokane, Washington

Amazing Gold Seal Cleaner Wipes Winter Stains From Windows, Metals, Porcelain

Holland Tunnel Cleaned With "GLASS WAX"

"From wedding rings to the Holland Tunnel" is a broad claim for any cleaner. Yet, that statement is actually true of the capabilities of "GLASS WAX".

To keep the mile-long tile-walled tube clean, a specially constructed truck shoots water at high pressure on the walls. However, while rinsing off loose dirt, this method fails to remove stubborn stain that mars the tile.

27% Brighter

After experimentation, engineers found that "GLASS WAX" offered the quickest and easiest way to keep the tile walls glistening. Moreover, they discovered that the hundreds of lights and lenses that illuminate the tunnel give off 27% more light after "GLASS WAX" cleaning.

Now the Holland Tunnel sparkles like your kitchen, protected by the famous "GLASS WAX" film that keeps surfaces clean longer.

Ends Scrubbing, Scouring To Brighten Homes

Millions of housewives have found the answer to lightening spring house-cleaning. It's "GLASS WAX", the sensational new multi-purpose household cleaner developed by the Gold Seal Co.

Never before have women known such speed and ease in erasing winter's smoke and smudge, restoring glistening beauty throughout the house. So many wonderful uses for "GLASS WAX" exist that most experienced users buy the pink wonder by the quart, to assure an adequate supply.

Most remarkable about "GLASS WAX" is that these brilliant results are obtained with a minimum of time and effort. All that's required is to wipe "GLASS WAX" on, wipe it off.

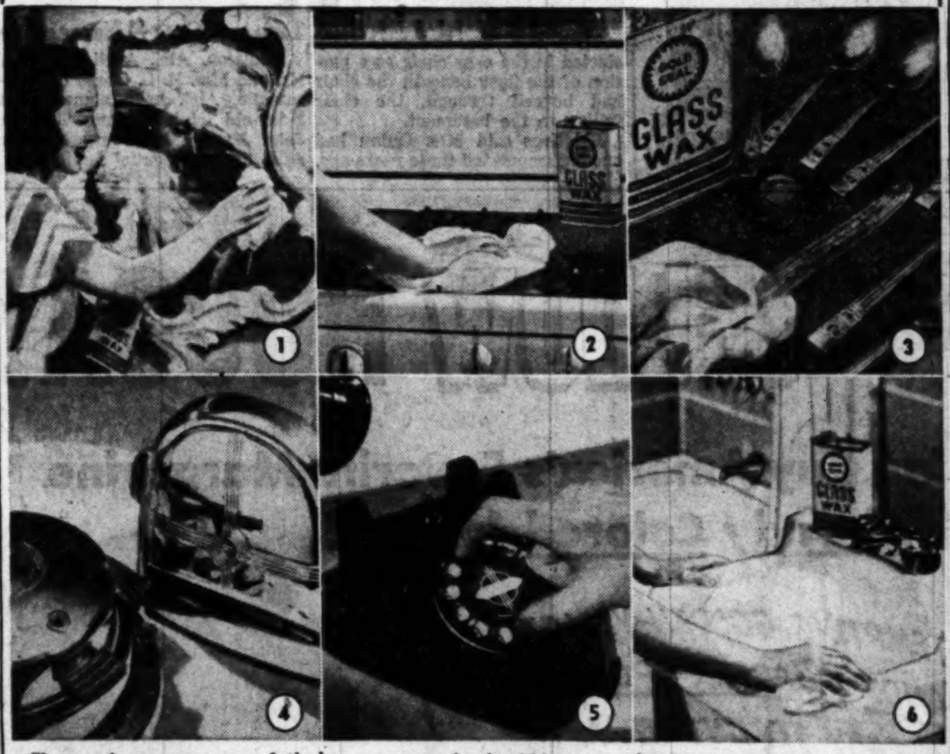
Invisible Film Guards Lustre

Important to all fastidious homemakers is the crystal-clear protective film left by this wonderful chemical on every surface as it cleans. This means household beauty that lasts, free of fingerprints, smudges, and stain. Easier future cleaning, too, results from this modern way of housecleaning.

Letting chemicals do the work, rather than muscles, "GLASS WAX" eliminates back-breaking scrubbing and scouring. Moreover, "GLASS WAX" is safely gentle, contains no harsh abrasives to scratch the smoothest surface.

This sensational Gold Seal Co. product is available everywhere, in the familiar pink can that assures the buyer of the genuine and original. With the busy cleaning season at hand, the time to buy "GLASS WAX" is now.

Sensational Pink Liquid Cleans Throughout House



Shown above are some of the hundreds of uses for "GLASS WAX" that have made the quart size standard in so many homes.

This amazing pink chemical cleans all these surfaces—and many more—with unbelievable speed, ease, and truly satisfying results.

1. Cleans mirrors as quickly, easily, and brightly as windows. No water to spill, no streaks or smears, no hard rubbing.
2. Removes stains and smudges from porcelain ranges, refrigerators, and tabletops without scouring or scratching.
3. Wipes off tarnish, however stubborn, from the finest plate or sterling silver. No messy paste, no harsh abrasives.
4. Strips stain and scorch from toasters, waffle-irons, other chrome appliances. Keeps them clean longer.
5. Restores brilliance to plastic radios, telephones, purses, any plastic surface—makes them like new. Resists fingerprints.
6. Brightens tile and enamel bathroom fixtures as it cleans. Brings dazzling beauty without scrubbing, or scarring.

Economy, Variety of Uses Make Quart Size Popular

Thrifty Shoppers Save 20c

With new uses for "GLASS WAX" discovered almost daily, more and more women are buying this incredible cleaner in the quart size. Homemakers find that the big quart can gives them added convenience, plus extra savings. At only 98c, buying "GLASS WAX" by the quart assures a more adequate supply on hand for the hundreds of housecleanings jobs that "GLASS WAX" simplifies, and lessens the bother of frequent shopping.

Experienced "GLASS WAX" users are elated to discover that so little of this cleaning marvel does so much. Not only does sparing use mean increased economy, but after-dust . . . the result of using too much "GLASS WAX" . . . is also eliminated.

Another important advantage is that "GLASS WAX" goes right on working for weeks after cleaning, by leaving its crystal-clear protective film to guard the glistening, immaculate finish from future soil and smudge.

"GLASS WAX" Saves Steps

By cleaning such a variety of surfaces—glass, metals, porcelain, plastic, and others—"GLASS WAX" saves hundreds of tiresome steps about the house. For "GLASS WAX" replaces the variety of cleansers formerly needed for household care, and lets the user carry only the one pink can, two cloths, from room to room. In addition, since "GLASS WAX" requires no water, furnishings may be cleaned where they are used, rather than lugged to and from the kitchen for washing.

Chemists Find 30 Kinds of Dirt on Glass

While developing "GLASS WAX," Gold Seal chemists collected and studied sample window panes from homes in many states. Analysis revealed 30 different kinds of dirt and discoloration.

- Greasy soot streaks and salt water minerals dirtied glass in eastern mill towns.
- Sticky pollens, lime dust and tars dulled midwestern windows.
- Stubborn silica deposits stole the gleam from southern and western panes.

Even minute amounts of certain rare minerals were found killing the sparkle of glass in some areas.

Gold Seal chemists found that "GLASS WAX" removed every one of the stubborn grimy films with one easy, streakless application!

Guarantee Backs "GLASS WAX"

Laboratory proof of "GLASS WAX" superior quality and results enables the Gold Seal Company to guarantee satisfaction to the user. If you are dissatisfied for any reason, your dealer will gladly refund the full purchase price upon receipt of the unused portion of "GLASS WAX."

Coplon Case Judge Veteran of Bench

Special to The Washington Post.

Kansas City, April 28.—Judge Albert L. Reeves, now conducting the trial of Judith Coplon in Washington, has often presided over controversial trials in his twenty-six years as a Federal district judge in western Missouri.

As an outspoken foe of vote fraud, he attracted Nation-wide attention when he charged a Federal grand jury following the 1936 general election frauds here to "reach for all, even if you find them in high authority. Move on them. We can't surrender the ballot box to thugs, gangsters and pluguglies."

Nineteen years earlier, as a defeated candidate for the seat in Congress his son was to hold in 1946-47, he had attacked ballot box corruption in filing a contest against the winner. "An election crook is a greater enemy and foe to Government than the enemies in time of war," he said then.

Vote Thieves Tried

With that grand jury began the indictments and trials that resulted in convictions for more than 250 vote thieves of the Pendergast machine. Judge Reeves presided at many of the trials. His comments in sentencing those convicted were appeals to the citizens to free their city from the fear and crime that had ruled it.

The judge came to know in those years the pressure that can be wielded by a machine. His telephone became a channel over which poured abuse, threats, pleas and obscenity. Rooms were wired, traps were laid for the judge, rumors sent circulating.

A former Treasury Department deputy was employed by the late T. J. Pendergast to investigate Reeves and the prosecutor, Maurice M. Milligan. Later this deputy, Robert Kane, was sentenced to prison for impersonating an FBI man in his efforts to obtain the removal of Reeves from the bench.

Kansas City Capone

None of this moved the judge as far as observers in his court could tell. In 1939 he urged a jury to reach out for a legendary figure, Charles V. Carrollo, then the Capone of Kansas City, who was collector for the gambling syndicate under Pendergast protection and overlord of the underworld here. Carrollo went to prison for tax evasion. Pendergast went to prison, as did many of his lieutenants.

Judge Reeves was born in Steelville, in east central Missouri, December 21, 1873. He attended Steelville College, and studied law in Steelville. He was admitted to the bar in 1899, and served a term in the State House of Representatives, starting in 1901. He held a State political job before being named a commissioner of the State Supreme Court in 1921.

Named By Harding

He had come to Kansas City to practice law and politics in 1916. His appointment to the Federal bench was made by President Harding at the urging of E. Mont Reily, discredited as a creature of Pendergast in later days, who served as Governor of Puerto Rico under Harding. That Reily could obtain little from Judge Reeves was indicated by his efforts to have him removed. He joined Pendergast in sponsoring the Kane investigation.

Soon after coming here the judge began teaching the Bible to what became the largest men's Bible class in the city, a work he continued many years.

He was a strong supporter of prohibition in the years it was law.

A son, Albert L. Reeves, jr. also was a lawyer, was elected to Congress in 1946 following President Truman's primary purge of Representative Roger C. Slaughter, Democrat. Both Reeves are Republicans.

Outspoken in Beliefs

Always outspoken in his beliefs, Judge Reeves stirred a recent controversy with a talk before the Kansas City Bar Association. In commenting on the Supreme Court ruling about restrictive covenants on real estate being unenforceable by the courts, he said:

"In this broad land, the time should never come when private citizens should not enjoy the right reasonably to say who their neighbors shall be."

Citing instances of religious projects set up with such covenants, he continued:

"In America there is room for every race, color and creed, but that room should be occupied in such a way as not to provoke strife and discord. Extremes of race, even in America, cannot live comfortably side by side any more than the extremes of religion should be called upon to live side by side. In such mingling in either event there would be deprivation of those rights and that freedom which alone brings happiness to people."

Boy Enters 2d Year of Coma

Elkhart, Ind., April 28 (AP).—Five-year-old Larry Dean Wilson entered his second year of unconsciousness today.

On April 27, 1948, Larry was hit by a car as he and his dog ran across a street. He has been unconscious since.

His doctors say that he likely will never again be alive mentally.

Part of his brain was torn in the accident and scars have formed which make that part of the brain inoperative, they explained. The part that cannot work controls his conscious or voluntary movements.

As a result, he has no control over his movements and rarely moves, and then in a jerky and uncontrolled manner.

The other injuries have healed long ago and he is gaining weight. Except for the brain injury, he is in good health and now weights 47 pounds.

His doctor said "he will continue to exist as long as he is fed properly."

Larry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wilson, who have three other children.

Vast Australian Grazing Area to Assure Britain Meat

London, April 28 (U.P.).—Britain and Australia yesterday announced general agreement on a 15-year meat pact which would transform western Australia into one of the world's great grazing areas to assure Britain an adequate supply of meat.

Britain, under the plan, would guarantee Australia "reasonable prices" for all exportable surplus meat.

Australia would embark on a far-reaching program for a road and irrigation network in its western areas.

The communique announcing the agreement was issued by Australian Prime Minister J. B. Chifley, and British Food Minister John Strachey. It followed weeks of talks here and in Canberra.

Only a "formal agreement" now is necessary to implement the draft plan, the communique said. "Negotiations for this final agreement will be undertaken as soon as possible," it added.

South's Coal Men Shun Joint Parley

By the United Press

Southern soft coal producers yesterday refused to join other bituminous operators in contract negotiations with the United Mine Workers, insisting on separate talks with union president John L. Lewis.

Joseph E. Moody, head of the Southern Coal Producers Association, said Lewis still has not answered the contract termination notice served on him by the Southerners last week. The notice is effective June 30.

Lewis said Wednesday, after a three-day meeting of the UMW's 200-man wage policy committee, he hoped a new contract can be signed "without economic loss and strife." Moody joined in this sentiment but said he still is waiting to hear from the union boss.

The board of directors of the Southern Association decided at a meeting Wednesday night not to join other operators in contract negotiations "at this time," Moody said.

The Southerners have participated with other operators in the contract talks since 1945, except for 1947 when they insisted on separate confernces.

Lewis then signed a contract with other commercial operators and forced individual Southern companies to fall in line. But he refused to let the Southern Association, as such, sign the agreement.

The National Coal Association meantime advised its members they do not have to bargain with Lewis on welfare and pension funds under a recent Supreme Court decision in a case involving the Inland Steel Co. The court ruled that employers must bargain on these issues only when unions have filed non-Communist affidavits.

The association pointed out the UMW has not complied with the non-Communist requirement.

In another development, the mine union announced the retirement age for anthracite miners has been reduced from 62 to 60 years to correspond with a similar reduction made recently for soft coal miners.

Truman Calls For T-H Vote

comment on patronage and party loyalty was disclosed to the House, a few minutes after it met at noon, by Representative F. Edward Hebert (D., La.), who had supported the States Rights ticket in the last election.

The remarks of the President make it "very clear," Hebert charged, "that a vote is for sale for a job or jobs."

Hebert got a big hand from the Republican side of the chamber and brought Majority Leader John W. McCormack (D., Mass.) to his feet with a fiery retort.

"If he (Hebert) had his way, we would not have a Democratic majority in Congress, nor a Democratic President," McCormack roared. "It is only by tolerance that he is sitting as a member of the Democratic Party."

McCormack's denunciation was greeted with applause by the regular Democrats. It also brought Representative John Rankin (D., Miss.), always an outspoken anti-Administration Dixiecrat charging to the well of the floor.

"This is most contemptible conduct," Rankin cried, "I will not be bluffed."

The Democrat-Dixiecrat flareup, hugely enjoyed by the Republicans and the jammed galleries, took place before the House considered the Lesinskli bill for the third day.

One minute later, Representative John Wood (D., Ga.) arose and offered his bill as a substitute for the Lesinski bill.

After some pro and con debate on the Wood bill, Representative Gerald R. Ford, jr. (R., Mich.) proposed a "softening" amendment to it. Under the Taft-Hartley Act, employes on strike lose the right to participate in a plant election for choosing a collective bargaining agency. The Wood bill would give the striking employe the right to vote in such a representation election for a period of 90 days. Representative Ford's amendment to the Wood bill would extend the voting privilege to strikers for a period of six months.

The Ford amendment is but one of a dozen which will be offered to "soften" the Wood bill, which organized labor has attacked as being "worse than Taft-Hartley."

Representative Charles A. Halleck (R., Ind.), one of the floor leaders fighting for the Wood bill, declared he'd back the Ford amendment and any others which would make the measure a better bill in the estimate of the House. He angrily denied that the Wood bill was "worse" than the Taft-Hartley Act, and insisted it "relaxed" the Taft-Hartley Act in at least 12 instances in favor of organized labor.

Lesinski bill supporters lost no time in opposing the Ford amendments. Their apparent strategy is to try to defeat all "softening" amendments to the Wood bill, defeat the Wood bill itself, and then carry on to push through the Lesinski bill with as few amendments as possible.

The House will meet at 10 a. m. this morning, two hours earlier than usual, to proceed with amendments to the Wood bill. The large number of amendments expected indicates that the decisive vote on the Wood bill itself may not be taken until late this evening or tomorrow.

Fire in Kitchen Routs 15 at Continental Hotel

Damage estimated at $5000 was caused to the Continental Hotel, North Capitol between D and E sts., yesterday afternoon when grease caught in fire in the basement kitchen and sent flames shooting up the seven-story grease duct. There were no casualties.

Harry Dallas, kitchen manager, said a pot of grease on the range boiled over, starting the fire. Fifteen employes in the kitchen were cleared out. An alarm was sounded in the hotel but there was no evacuation.

Strike Authorized for 6000 Workers at Lincoln Plant

Detroit, April 28 (AP).—The CIO United Auto Workers executive board today authorized a strike May 5 of 6000 Ford workers. But it withheld permission for 60,000 others to walk out.

The strike permission applied to workers at Ford's Lincoln-Mercury plant here.

The board said authorization for a strike at the company's big Dearborn Rouge plant would be held up pending an investigation of the local union's "speed-up" charges.

The same charge of speed-ups is the center of the dispute at Lincoln. Workers at both plants have voted for a strike.

UAW officials said they would try to resume negotiations in an effort to head off a strike at either plant.

A statement by the executive board said the international union had investigated and confirmed speed-up charges at the Lincoln plant. At the much larger Rouge plant, however, the board said, "there was discrepancy between the facts submitted by Local 600 and those claimed by the company as to the production standards in "B" Building.

8000 Strike in Trieste

Trieste, April 28 (AP).—Eight thousand city and provincial employes struck today for higher wages, suspending all but essential services. Both Communist and anti-Communist labor unions are supporting the walkout.

Chicago, April 28 (AP).—International Harvester Co. and the CIO Farm Equipment Workers Union agreed today to extend current working agreements until June 30, 1950.

The Farm Equipment Workers represent about 30,000 production, maintenance and salaried employes in 11 of the company's manufacturing plants in Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and New York.

Republicans Blast Economic Council

Republican members of a Senate-House committee last night accused President Truman's Economic Advisory Council of peddling "political propaganda" in support of his ideas for a stable economy.

The GOP minority of the joint economic committee fired the charge in a report assailing Mr. Truman's general stabilization program. That program presented in January among other things, calls for a 4-billion-dollar tax boost and for standby authority to restore wage and price controls on a limited basis.

Reject Basic Philosophy

"We reject the basic philosophy of the President's economic report which, in effect, recommends that we set up in this country a planned and controlled economy and increase taxation for that purpose," the Republican group declared, adding:

"We see no immediate evidence of further serious inflation."

The GOP Congress members outlined a substitute eight-point program topped by a demand for a cut in Federal spending "so that there may be no necessity for an increase in taxation," and even a "reduction in the tremendous burden of taxation if the international situation improves."

These Republicans signed yesterday's minority report: Senators Taft (Ohio), Flanders (Vt.), Watkins, and Representatives Wolcott (Mich.), Rich (Pa.) and Herter (Mass.)

The Republicans added:

"With due respect for the President's economic advisers, we believe that Government economists are often moved by political considerations which affect their economic judgment."

Besides a cut in Federal spending, the substitute program the Republicans outlined calls for:

1. Continued Government control of general banking and credit policies through the Federal Reserve Board "in such a manner as to check tendencies which have developed toward inflation or deflation."

2. Expansion of the public works program "if there appears to be too great a deflation," and application of the brakes "if other construction appears to be normal." The Republicans put it this way: "We see no need at the moment for further selective controls (such as wage and price restrictions), but if such need arises it should be dealt with by Congress in specific and limited fields with the greatest protection of liberty."

3. Keeping the Government "constantly on the alert to prevent monopolicy and the collusive fixing of prices."

4. Continuation of a price support program for farm commodities "to prevent the development of a depression through a complete collapse in agricultural prices."

Weapon Against Distortion

Without mentioning the Administration's new farm program, the Republicans said the price support program "should be directed not as a relief measure or a guaranteed income equality for individuals, but as a major weapon against distortion between urban and rural areas which could bring collapse to the entire Nation."

5. "An active interest" by the Government in "the development of housing, particularly in the stability of the housing industry and the reduction in cost."

6. A thorough-going study by the committee of the whole problem of exports and imports "and their effect on a stable economy during the next two or three years."

Patronage Whip

Truman Calls Party Lineup On Platform

By The Associated Press

President Truman cracked his patronage whip yesterday and beckoned Democratic lawmakers to line up on the party platform.

The first test of party regularity is support of the Administration's bill to repeal the Taft-Hartley labor law, he told a news conference. He made it clear that other planks in the Democratic platform are going to count, too.

And he left an unspoken implication that stray-away Democrats are going to find their plates missing when the patronage pie is sliced.

The President's policy announcement sharply amended—if it did not cancel—a statement on patronage delivered Wednesday by Senator J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, the Democratic national chairman. McGrath had proclaimed that the voting records of Congress members wouldn't greatly affect their influence in patronage matters.

Observing with a grin that what he had said was "as far as the Truman doctrine had gone at that time," McGrath added:

"The President has his own idea of party loyalty and he is the one who makes the appointments."

Mr. Truman told his news conference that loyal Democrats are those who support the party platform—which he described as the law of the party—after the election as well as before.

He added that how Congress members vote will be the test of their loyalty. This test certainly would come on the Taft-Hartley repealer, he added in reply to a question.

When a reporter asked if the plan was to deny patronage to lawmakers who supported the Thurmond-Wright States' Rights ticket last election, Mr. Truman said: Wait and see how the thing works out; the question will answer itself as times goes on.

Civil Rights Program Given To Congress

By Jack Steele
NYHT News Service

Basic legislation to carry out the President's civil rights program, including a surprise omnibus bill which encompasses a half-dozen major civil rights measures, was introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R.I.), chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Three of the four basic bills spell out the familiar anti-lynching, anti-poll tax and fair employment practices legislation which has been repeatedly proposed in Congress.

The fourth or omnibus bill is aimed to carry out most of the other recommendations of the President's civil rights commission. It includes the following major proposals:

1. Creation of a permanent civil rights commission.

2. Establishment of a new civil rights division of the Department of Justice.

3. Appointment of a joint congressional civil rights committee.

4. Enactment of a new statute barring segregation on interstate carriers.

5. Tightening of the so-called conspiracy statutes (hangovers from the force bills of post-Civil War vintage) guarding the rights of individuals from violence by police officers.

6. Adoption of amendments to the Hatch Act and other voting laws to safeguard further the rights of franchise for Negroes and other groups.

Senator McGrath told reporters later they would carry out the President's program and the civil rights plank of the Democratic platform, if enacted.

Mr. Truman told a press conference earlier yesterday that he had no intention of sending another civil rights message to Congress.

The bills created little stir in the Senate, despite the sweeping nature of the program and the fact that the omnibus bill includes many proposals never before submitted to Congress. It appeared to be generally accepted by both Republicans and Democrats that the jammed Senate schedule would preclude their consideration at this session.

"The President seems to be a little late with his program," said Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.), sponsor of an anti-lynching bill which has already been approved by a Judiciary Subcommittee.

"It looks like we're going to have a lot of interesting debate before the Eighty-first Congress is over," added Senator Richard B. Russell (D., Ga.), floor leader of the Southern Democrats.

The McGrath anti-lynching bill is more stringent than the Ferguson bill. It provides penalties for both lynchers and police officers who fail to apprehend them, whether or not they engage in conspiracy.

A brief summary of the major provisions of the omnibus bill, which is entitled "The Civil Rights Act of 1949," follows:

1. The five-member civil rights commission would study civil rights practices throughout the country and make recommendations to the President, but have no powers to subpoena witnesses or enforce its findings.

2. A new division of civil rights in the Justice Department, in charge of an Assistant Attorney General, would be set up to improve enforcement of civil rights statutes. The FBI also would be given more agents to make civil rights investigations.

3. The joint congressional committee, composed of seven members each of the Senate and House, would be empowered to hold hearings, subpoena witnesses and recommend means of improving civil rights enforcement.

4. A ban on segregation in interstate transportation to "implement and supplement" Supreme Court decisions. It would make carriers and their agents subject to fines and civil suits, but not imprisonment.

5. Revision of the civil rights statutes in the criminal code making it illegal for individuals, as well as groups acting in conspiracy, to abridge civil rights. Penalties would be increased, in cases in which victims are maimed or killed, to $10,000 fines or twenty years in prison, making such crimes felonies.

6. The Hatch Act would be amended to ban intimidation or coercion in primary and special elections as well as general elections. Other Federal laws covering voting would be strengthened. The amended statutes would also aid Federal prosecutions of many types of vote fraud.

Tenant Ordering Repairs Must Pay

The Municipal Court of Appeals yesterday ruled that a tenant, who orders repairs made on the property he rents, must pay the bill although the repairs were required by the District government.

The Court's ruling affirmed a lower court decision that Dodge's Market, Inc., must pay a $445 electric bill to general contractor Lee T. Turner for the repair of defective wiring in a building at 3620 14th st. nw.

Although the District government notified the landlord of the premises that the defective wiring must be repaired, it was Dodge's Market, Inc., through its president, J. H. Elliot, who ordered the work to be done, the Appellate Court declared.

Boston Hideaway Boy Has Diphtheria Attack

Boston, April 28 (AP).—Gerald Sullivan, 14, hidden most of his life in his mother's tenement because she said he was a love-child and she was ashamed, was hospitalized with diphtheria today. He will not be able to appear in court on May 5. His mother, Mrs. Anna Sullivan, is charged with neglect.

Gant Slaying Defendant Gives Guilty Plea; 2d Goes on Trial

One defendant in the slaying of John Gant, 6105 Eads st. ne., pleaded guilty to a manslaughter charge in District Court yesterday.

He is John B. Greenleaf, 37, of Fairmont Heights, Md., who entered the plea before Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut. No date was set for sentencing.

Another defendant in the case, Leroy L. Smith, 25, of Landover, Md., then went on trial in the slaying before Judge Schweinhaut. After selection of a jury, the trial was recessed to Monday at 10 a. m.

Both Greenleaf and Smith were tried last month for the slaying of Gant with a brick during commission of a $10 robbery in the 6200 block of Dix st. ne., last September 15. The jury reported itself hopelessly deadlocked, however, and was finally dismissed by Judge Edward M. Curran.

Earlier, a mistrial was ordered by Judge Curran in the case of a third defendant, Edward J. Blake, 21, of Fairmont Heights, after experts testified he was an imbecile.

Water Chestnut Removal Asked

Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer (D., Md.) yesterday urged the House Public Works Committee to approve a $142,000 Army engineer project for clearing water chestnuts out of the Potomac.

Representative Sasscer told the committee the water chestnut growths provide a breeding place for mosquitoes, and that clearing the plants out would permit saving some $22,000 a year now spent in mosquito control.

He also urged approval of four other Maryland river and harbor projects St. Patricks Creek, Governors Run, Lake Ogleton, and Hellens Creek.

Drive on Prejudices In Rural U.S. Begun

A Nation-wide program aimed at cutting down racial and religious prejudice among the country's rural population got under way here yesterday.

Rural intergroup relations and their improvement were discussed at a meeting called by the National Conference of Christian Jews at the Willard Hotel. Present were about 35 representatives of various rural organizations, the Federal Government and the NCCJ.

The meeting was keynoted by the Right Rev. Msgr. Luigi G. Ligutti of Des Moines secretary of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference. Father Ligutti cited the need for the organizations to "present a united front," and predicted:

"If we go out and try to break down prejudice among the rural people, we shall succeed."

Father Ligutti observed that minority groups tend to be clannish. This attitude is exemplified, he said, by the Catholic farmer who said to him: "I have a Protestant neighbor, you know, but he's a pretty good fellow."

Harry W. Rosenfield, Commissioner of the Displaced Persons Commission, also spoke. Rosenfield asserted that rural areas are not sponsoring DPs "in anywhere near their proportion of our total population."

Other speakers included Gabriel Davidson of New York, managing director of the Jewish Agricultural Society, and John D. Metzler, Chicago, representing the Christian Rural Overseas Program.

A round-table discussion, which followed the speeches, was conducted by Willard Johnson, NCCJ program director. Results of yesterday's meeting will be evaluated by the NCCJ and concrete suggestions made at a similar meeting next fall.

More Liberal Study Urged By Educator

Liberal studies must again become the "essential component" in higher education if citizens are to be trained for life in the modern world, Earl J. McGrath said yesterday.

The United States Commissioner of Education said "the work of the colleges of liberal arts must be transformed from a preparation for advanced or specialized or professional education or for employment, into a preparation for life in a complex world that demands ever increasing knowledge and wisdoms."

McGrath spoke before the annual convention of the American College Public Relations Association at the Washington Hotel.

"Educating our youth for responsible citizenship is perhaps the most difficult but most important problem before us as educators," he said.

"Our colleges and universities need to devote more and more emphasis to the discovery of the dynamic synthesis of the best of our living culture. We must learn how to communicate to our students this awareness of the inner realities of the world in which we live."

Other speakers at yesterday's meeting were Ernest K. Lindley, columnist, who discussed "Covering the Washington Scene," and Wayne Coy, director of the Federal Communications Commission, who participated in a panel discussion on "Television in the Future of Higher Education."

Kiwanis Head Hits 'Apathy' for U. N.

Americans' apathy toward the United Nations was attacked here last night by the president of Kiwanis International before nearly 60 members of the 81st Congress.

Speaking at the Shoreham Hotel at the first annual dinner honoring Kiwanian congressmen, J. Belmont Mosser told the 500 guests:

"It's a shame what you and I have done to the U. N. You and I have kicked it all around. We have said it wouldn't work, that it was a piece of paper. It is the best thing that there has been in 4000 years to keep the peace."

"I would hate," he added, "to ask a show of hands on the number here who have visited Lake Success."

To an aundience which included a Cabinet member and an associate justice of the Supreme Court besides the Congressmen, the St. Marys, Pa., manufacturer rammed home sizzling thrusts at "a general spirit of apathy" he said he had found over the Nation in the 42,000 miles he has traveled in the last year.

"One universal question is being asked from coast to coast," he asserted. "And it's getting to where I get red under the collar every time I hear it. That question is: 'Why don't they do something about it?' It's time people started asking, 'Why don't I do something about it?' "

As example of this apathy, he cited figures from the last presidential election: 93 million could have voted, he said, 47 million did, and 25 million who were registered stayed away from the polls.

From this condition he laid down this "challenge" to his hearers: "For 34 years we've avoided politics in Kiwanis. But I'm saying to Kiwanians now: You're going into politics."

He made it clear that by this he did not mean "partisan politics," but "the hundreds of things that need your attention in your local, State and national communities."

"You're the chosen leaders of your country," he told the Kiwanians. "The country expects you to lead it out of the chaos of the present time. Foreign isms and ideologies are with us and we've got to do something about it. It is later than you think and it can happen here."

Vice Probe

Six Officers Deny Bribe In Norfolk

Norfolk, Va., April 28 (AP).—Six policemen denied at Carvel Benson's bribery trial today that they had accepted money from the defendant.

They are among 24 policemen who have been indicted on charges of accepting bribes frpm Benson through former Patrolman C. A. Withrow. The 24 are scheduled to be tried next month.

Benson, who has been arrested often on numbers lottery charges, was indicted on the bribery charge by a special grand jury which spent eight weeks probing vice conditions and police corruption. Withrow testified yesterday that he had been Benson's pay-off man at the first precinct. He said Benson gave him $240 last November 30 to pass on to policemen whose names Withrow said were on a pay-off sheet.

Patrolman Charles V. Allen testified this afternoon that Withrow gave him $10 last fall, but he did not know what the money was for. Allen said he did not make an agreement with anyone to stop arresting Benson's men.

The Commonwealth rested its case this afternoon.

Diphtheria Death Raises Total to 3

The District's diptheria death toll for the year was raised to three Tuesday, one more than the total number last year.

William Tillman, jr., 7, of 710 2d st. nw., died at Gallinger Hospital Tuesday, the nineteenth case reported this year. Thirteen cases were reported last year.

Dr. Carl C. Dauer, director of the Health Department Bureau of Preventable Diseases, warned, "No case of sore throat should be neglected because of the danger of diptheria."

Kiwanian Members of Congress Honored . . .

By Harry Goodwin—The Washington Post

GUESTS—Senator Harry P. Cain (R., Wash.) and Senator John J. Sparkman (D., Ala.) are greeted at Shoreham by J. Belmont Mosser, president of Kiwanis International and A. Herrmann Wilson, president of Kiwanis Club of Washington. Sixty members of Congress were honored last night at Kiwanis Congressional dinner

Gaming Charge Arrests Fail To Cost 5 Bars Their Licenses

Renewal of alcoholic beverage licenses for five Montgomery County taverns where gambling suspects have been seized was approved yesterday by the County Liquor Control Board.

The five establishments were: Eddie's Tavern, 8504 Georgia ave.; Blue and Gray Tavern, 9948 Georgia ave., Grotto Grill, 8401 Georgia ave.; Dietle's Restaurant, 1009 Seminary rd., all of the Silver Spring area, and Blue Moon Tavern, Germantown, Md.

A public hearing of the license renewals was ordered by the board after the establishments figured in police raids last year which resulted in some of the then operators or employes being arrested on gaming charges.

James W. Gill, board attorney and a board member, said it was the board's opinion that the violations did not warrant withdrawal of the licenses.

"We will continue to watch these places," he said, adding: "I think the hearings probably served a good purpose."

'Big Joe' Found Guilty by Jury

Ricker aside, and was attacked immediately by Ricker. During the fight that ensued, he told the jury, he hit Ricker with a pistol, which he had previously transferred from a rear to a front pocket.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Arthur J. McLaughlin, the prosecutor, also charged that Scheve aimed his pistol at Ricker and pulled the trigged more than once, but the gun failed to explode.

Schreve's lawyer, Charles E. Ford, told the jury that his clients were in court only "because they refused to submit to a dastardly blackmail."

Labor-FSA Cut Ordered

Langer (N. Dak.), voted against the recommittal move.

The recommittal move nullified previous Senate action in increasing funds for cancer and heart research. The instructions were to cut the amount as originally passed by the House.

Taft told the Senate that "excess" Government spending and the forced increase in taxes it causes are the greatest threat now facing the Nation.

He said the American people are now paying about 24 per cent of the national income for taxes. He predicted that the deficit in the next fiscal year promises to run from three and one-half to five billion dollars instead of the eight hundred million President Truman predicted.

The four billion in additional taxes proposed by the President, Taft said, would mean that 26 per cent of the national income would go for taxes.

Vote on Labor-Security Bill

Here is the 44-to-37 rollcall vote yesterday by which the Senate sent back a $2,400,000,000 labor-security money bill to its Appropriations Committee with instructions to reduce it 5 per cent in certain items or about $15,400,000.

'Smear' Warning Voiced by Condon

Dr. Edward U. Condon, director of the National Bureau of Standards, last night warned scientists and educators to guard themselves against an imminent "ordeal of smear."

It marked his first outright utterance on the subject since he himself, was branded "one of the weakest links in our atomic security" by a House Un-American Activities Subcommittee last year.

He spoke at evening session of the American Physical Association, at Hotel Mayflower, in three-day annual meeting here.

Under the guise of uncovering alleged "subversive activities," he said, efforts are apparently being made to "discredit" scientists and university professors in general. Such efforts, he added, may stem from "a widespread anti-intellectualism . . . which is violently opposed to free speech and free discussion."

Such a trend, he said, is "strikingly reminiscent of the wave of anti-intellectualism which formed an early part of the Nazi rise to power in Germany."

Specifically, Dr. Condon referred to State. He made no mention of his own case, the failure of the subcommittee to hold hearings on the matter, or his clearance by the U. S. Atomic Energy Committee in announcement that after an "exhaustive" FBI check there was "no question whatever" about his loyalty except to say that he had personally experienced the "ordeal of smear."

He did say last night that his criticism was not directed against "fairly and competently conducted" investigations of suspected subversive activity. And, "in the main," he said, the loyalty checks of Federal employes set up by President Truman, "have been carried out with fairness."

Dr. Condon told the physicists that the danger is that "many persons are using, or trying to use this proper activity for partisan, political purposes, for the trumping up of attacks directed at persons whose only offense is that they think differently on some specific policies than do the attackers.

"I feel that this is particularly a matter of concern for scientists and university people at this time," he said, "because there are signs that they will be the particular butt of an increasing number of attacks of this kind."

Concerning the source of the predicted attacks, he recalled the statement of the late Senator Huey Long that if fascism ever comes to America it will come in the guise of 100 per cent Americanism.

"Let us not give such exclusive attention to the threat of totalitarianism on the left, that we let ourselves be engulfed by the totalitarianism on the Right," he declared.

Earlier yesterday, the physicists were told of the operations of Cornell University's new 300-million volt synchrotron, atom buster, by Dr. Boyce D. McDaniel and his associates of the university faculty.

'48 Service Award Given Morrissette

Arthur E. Morrissette, president of the Hilltop Recreation Council, yesterday was presented with the Junior Board of Commerce's Distinguished Service Award for 1948.

Morrissette

The presentation was made by Representative George A. Smathers (D., Fla.), who last year had been chosen himself by the National Junior Chamber of Commerce as one of the Nation's 10 outstanding young men. The ceremony took place during a luncheon meeting of the board in the Burlington.

Morissette, who was selected for the local award on the basis of outstanding contribution to the civic welfare of Washington, was instrumental in the promotion of soft ball leagues for youngsters, community-wide Fourth of July celebrations and Hallowe'en carnivals.

He is married, the father of three children and lives at 3636 Bangor st. se.

Dr. Vinogradoff

Bureau Aide To Retire Here Today

Demetry I. Vinogradoff, 71, who started life on the plains of central Russia, retires today as assistant to the director of the National Bureau of Standards and head of its Office of International Relations.

Vinogradoff

So much for that, as Dr. Vinogradoff would say. ("Don't make it a 'flowery' story," he urged yesterday.) The real story lies eslewhere; in a conviction he has that is similar to one you may hold, only he came about it quite differently.

"I firmly believe in the need of really helping each other," he says.

He found that conviction over nearly half a century of trying to lift the level of foreign technical and scientific firms to that of their American counterparts. Now, he observes, "Hoffman (Paul G. Hoffman, administrator, Economic Cooperation Administration) is doing the same job with countries."

Dr. Vinogradoff joined the Bureau of Standards three years ago at the request of Dr. E. U. Condon, director. From 1921 until '44, he was associated with Westinghouse Electric Corp., most of that time as manager of its foreign engineering department. That's where he met Dr. Condon.

At Westinghouse, in New York, his work involved the lining up of technical agreements with firms in other lands. He traveled abroad extensively.

As a result, a little more than three years ago, when he retired from Westinghouse, Dr. Condon brought him to the bureau "because with me came all those European connections."

Dr. Vinogradoff took a mechanical engineering degree at the Moscow Imperial Institute of Technology around the turn of the century. After postgraduate study in Germany and France, he returned to the institute as an assistant professor of physics.

A little later he added another task—that of heading up the electrical engineering school at Mendeleev Institute of Technology. He also became secretary general of the Polytechnical Society of Moscow.

"I wore the colonel's uniform,' he recalls, in the First World War, and was in charge of all Russia's military telephone apparatus. He came to this country after the war, and stayed on when the Bolshevist revolution confiscated all his holdings.

A United States citizen more than 25 years, Dr. Vinogradoff is a widower. Of medium size, white haired, mild mannered, he has no plans for the future other than a project which he says will take him only two or three months at his home, 3608 Ordway st. nw.

He's going to "put in order" all the scientific data, the records, the conversations he has taken down—all the material he has collected over the long years.

Two Named To Mansion Remodel Unit

President Truman has named an architect and an engineer to the newly created commission for supervising the White House remodeling.

The architect is Douglas William Orr, of New Haven, Conn., and the engineer is Richard Erwin Dougherty, of New York. Dougherty is also a vice president of the New York Central Railroad.

The President announced their appointments yesterday at a news conference. Serving with them will be four others, two Senators to be named by Vice President Barkley, and two members of the House to be named by Speaker Rayburn.

Meanwhile a House-Senate Conference Committee failed yesterday to agree on how the White House is to be remodeled.

At issue is the question of whether the building is to be rebuilt inside while keeping the historic walls or completely razed and rebuilt to duplicate the appearance of the present structure.

Chairman Clarence Cannon (D., Mo.) of the House Appropriations Committee, said the conference group continued discussion of the White House project. He favors removal of the present structure and a building with new walls.

The Senate approved $5,400,000 for the remodeling program as proposed by the President, a plan that would retain the present exterior walls while rebuilding the interior around a steel frame.

Senate conferees said another meeting will be held soon. The White House money is in the first deficiency appropriation bill.

$5 Pyramid Club Held a Lottery; 7 Fined $50 Each

Dedham, Mass., April 28 (U.P.)—Seven of eight defendants who operated a $5 Pyramid Club were convicted of lottery charges and fined $50 each today in one of the first cases of its kind in the Nation.

District Judge Gilbert W. Cox said the four men and three women were guilty of promotion a lottery. Payoffs were just a matter of luck rather than chronological sequence.

Those convicted were Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Neall of Westwood; Dr. Ned I. Stewart, jr., and his wife, both Norwood optometrists; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. Levine and Carl B. Carlson of Norwood. Carlson's wife, Lillian was acquitted.

Police Chief Thomas C. Lydon said he learned that Mrs. Levine received $640 and Mrs. Neall $5020.

Weapon-Carrier Given Six Months

A Washington man, arrested at Alexandria Hospital early yesterday where he had taken his wife for treatment of a bullet wound, drew a six month jail sentence eight hours later in City Police Court for carrying a concealed weapon.

Identified as George L. Ward, 28-year-old painter, of 1105 New Hampshire ave., ne., he was also fined $100 by Judge James R. Duncan.

Hospital officials said Mrs. Pearl Ward, 25, came in for treatment of a minor wound in the right breast about 2:15 a.m. Because it was a bullet wound police were notified. Investigating officers found a gun on Ward and arrested him.

Meanwhile, Washington police were investigating a neighbor's report of a loud quarrel and the firing of a shot at Ward's home about midnight.

Inspector Russell A. Hawes, Alexandria detective chief, said Mrs. Ward told Alexandria and Washington police that her husband had shot her. Ward denied it, Hawes said. Third Precinct police said a detainer will be lodged against Ward so he can be questioned about the shooting when he is released from the Alexandria jail.

Accuses Husband Of Beating Her

The Washington Post

MRS. GERALD B. HADLOCK
... hearing closed to public

7 Killed in India

Calcutta, India, April 27 (AP).—Seven persons, four of them women, were killed in a clash between Communists and police here last night. The city was relatively quiet.

Wife Accuses RFC Official of Beating Her

By Don Olesen
Post Reporter

A Reconstruction Finance Corporation official was hauled into an Arlington court yesterday on a charge of assaulting his wife after policemen broke down his apartment door to get him.

Gerald B. Hadlock, chief of the office of rubber reserve of the RFC, was removed in handcuffs from his apartment at 1805 N. Rhodes st. so suddenly that he appeared in court minus shoes and in pants and an undershirt.

The charge of simple assault against him, The Washington Post learned, was brought by his wife, Mrs. Nonnie E. Hadlock, on Wednesday after she accused her husband of beating her up the day before.

Hadlock's hearing in Arlington Domestic Relations Court was closed to the public and to reporters. Court officials said this was customary in misdemeanor cases involving a husband and wife.

Not even the charge against Hadlock was made public. The RFC official was freed in $1000 bond for a continued hearing today.

Mrs. Hadlock is the widow of Joseph Biffle, brother of Leslie L. Biffle, secretary of the United States Senate.

The Hadlocks were married last October at the Foundry Methodist Church in Washington and honeymooned in Mexico City before settling down in Mrs. Hadlock's Arlington apartment.

In April, 1946, Mrs. Hadlock, then Mrs. Joseph Biffle, sued Leslie Biffle and his two sisters, charging them with alienating her husband's affections.

She asked $150,000 from each of them for a grand total of $450,000. The case later was settled out of court.

According to Arlington Detective Capt. C. B. Pressley, Police Sergt. Lynn Smith and Pvts. Joe Crissman and Truman Adams were sent to Hadlock's home to fetch the defendant after he failed to show up for the Domestic Court hearing yesterday morning.

When they knocked at the door and identified themselves, police said Hadlock refused to open the door and admit them.

Armed with a court summons which carried power of a warrant, police then smashed down the door, entered, placed handcuffs on Hadlock and took him to police headquarters.

Police reported there were "several shotguns" in the apartment. Three shotguns were placed in evidence in the courtroom yesterday before reporters were told to leave the courtroom.

The Commonwealth's Attorney's Office would not say whether or not the guns were loaded.

For almost an hour before the closed hearing began, Hadlock sat in the prisoner's dock in County Court, still minus shoes and a shirt. Shortly before the hearing began, shoes and a coat were brought to him.

In the alienation of affections suit, the then Mrs. Biffle sought to restrain her husband's brother and sisters from exercising what she called undue influence over him.

She charged in the District Court suit that her husband was taken to Miami over her protests and against the advice of physicians, who said he was ill. He died in 1947.

Gerald Hadlock, defendant in the assault case, joined the RFC when it was founded in 1932, officials there said.

Disease Hospital

The movement for adequate communicable disease hospital facilities in northern Virginia has been given a boost by the Arlington County Board. Aside from two beds at Alexandria and six at Leesburg, there are no hospital facilities for care of communicable disease patients closer than Charlottesville. The overcrowded District hospitals are of little help. The key to the present effort is regionalism. Arlington's new hospital commission will work with a similar body in Fairfax County and others which it is to be hoped will be appointed in neighboring cities and counties. A combined effort is expected to result in a regional hospital commission which in turn will qualify for Federal funds under the Hill-Burton Act and will obtain services which no individual locality could afford. Public awareness of the need is the prime ingredient of success, and the drive ought to have the energetic support of everyone who realizes what might happen under the present circumstances if northern Virginia were swept by a scarlet fever or spinal meningitis epidemic.

Politics And Health

The purpose of Senate bill 1411 providing for more adequate school health services is altogether admirable, but the achievement of that purpose might be frustrated, and serious problems incurred, if changes are not made in the clauses on administration.

The bill would appropriate 35 million dollars annually to assist the States in developing preventive and curative health services for all children between the ages of 5 and 17 years inclusive. Each State would be required to draw up a comprehensive State plan to provide medical and dental examinations at both nonpublic and public schools. The allotment to each State would be determined by a formula based on the total child population and relative per capita income of the State. On a matching basis the allotment of the Federal Government would be no more than 75 per cent and no less than 33 1/3 per cent of the total. Each State would be left free to determine whether these school health services would be administered by the State educational agency or the department of health.

Clearly this last provision will lay open the administration of the new health funds to bitter rivalry between the State education and health departments. It seems obvious to us that the latter should be given the responsibility—particularly in view of the need to relate the program to the existing Federal grants for child health under the U. S. Children's Bureau and to the work already developed in 41 of the States by local health agencies. But this is not the only shortcoming of the new bill. The bill makes a provision for nonpublic schools wherever the State Board of Education controls the funds which is at once revolutionary, unjust and highly complicated.

The allotment to the States would be on the basis of the number of children in a given State between the ages of 5 and 17, but the amount going to the nonpublic schools would be figured on the comparative public school population. Why this distinction? There are at least eight States where thousands of children between 5 and 17 are denied an education because there is no room for them in existing elementary or secondary schools. Are these neglected youngsters to be doubly betrayed and be given no chance to become healthy human beings because they have been given no chance to go to school?

Another complication would be the hauling and mauling between the various nonpublic schools as to their respective shares. If the Federal Security administrator had the wisdom of a Solomon, he would never be able to satisfy the Protestant, Catholic and other nonpublic schools that they had been fairly treated. Furthermore, to make all nonpublic schools direct wards of the Federal Security administrator is probably unconstitutional. And even if it were constitutional, there is considerable danger in by-passing State governments this way. If State governments are to be disregarded whenever their constitutional provisions are disliked, they will soon be destroyed altogether.

All these dubious procedures could have been avoided and all children, wherever they go to school, treated alike, if this highly desirable program for child health had been placed squarely under the State health departments, with the State and local departments of education in an advisory relationship for the working out of the total program. As it is, this questionable policy of direct Federal payments to nonpublic schools will invite the opposition of groups which adhere firmly to the separation of church and state. The purpose of the bill will be welcomed enthusiastically by everyone concerned about the welfare of childhood, but not a program of this sort which is so controversial and so procedurally inefficient.

Opportunity In Germany

The pace of events in Germany has developed with startling and crucial speed. Mr. Malik has confirmed the Tass agency report that the lifting of the Soviet blockade of Berlin merely awaits the fixing of a date for a four-power conference on Germany. An announcement may therefore be regarded as imminent. It will be followed by the liquidation of the airlift, though, in view of past experience with the Russians, not of the airlift organization. The Germans have at last agreed on the basic law for the establishment of a federal government of western Germany. When this has been set up, Germany will then have a variety of governments; the highly centralized Soviet puppet in eastern Germany, whatever administration is reestablished for Berlin, the western German government, and 11 Land governments which are loosely joined to the western German government.

Undoubtedly the Russians will use the approaching four-power conference as a sounding board for enlisting German sympathy for an all-German government. Here is the test for Allied diplomacy. It cannot be sufficiently emphasized that the change in the Soviet attitude is due solely to the fact that the Allies have successfully called the Soviet bluff in Berlin. Otherwise there is no change in Moscow. The Soviet Union still is aiming at the creation of a Soviet Europe, and the only way to a Soviet Europe is through a satellite Germany. How can this be countered? There is only one means. And that is to incorporate western Germany without loss of time in the community of Europe which is under slow but sure organization. In this connection we welcome the powerful support of General Clay for this solution of the German problem. At the meeting of the Associated Press he said, "The forming of an association of the free nations of western Europe with Germany integrated therein will create lasting stability in Europe and will not only end the threat of Communist expansion but will make it difficult for the Communist front to keep intact. It is the only sure way to peace."

It has always been our theory that after the war the Allies had a choice of two policies toward Germany. Either Germany had to be destroyed or Germany had to be incorporated into Europe. It was, however, a Hobson's choice, for no support in a humane society would have been found for extermination. This being so, incorporation was inescapable as a policy. That there has been a lag in working toward this goal has not been due to any anti-European feeling among the western Germans. Their orientation is toward the west. They want to be members of a civilized society, they see a betterment in their living standards in association with their neighbors. What has been lacking hitherto has been both the absence of bold leadership on the part of the United States and the dog-in-the-manger attitude of the French.

There is evidence that these handicaps in Allied policy are being overcome. The statesmanship of Foreign Minister Schuman is one of the great assurances of a new neighborliness in Europe. The Atlantic Pact provides an umbrella of security for the French which will fortify Schuman's influence with the French people. He sees the stakes clearly. For the present, east and west in Germany have become oil and water, and the only kind of unification of Germany that can even be remotely envisaged as the transitional outcome of the four-power talks is Schuman's. This is "two German sectors coexisting each with its own organization, but with a common supreme institution." That is as far as the Allies could safely go nowadays with Moscow. Among themselves and between themselves and Germany the need is to supplement this cautionary negotiation with Moscow with a drive to make visible the community of Europe. On this side Secretary Acheson is showing himself capable of translating the stature of the United States into effective action and leadership in behalf of this policy. The opportunity ahead of both of these officials is historic.

ECA Cuts

The President's request for a slight reduction in ECA appropriations—which, he says, is warranted by price declines—is obviously a strategic move designed to forestall more drastic reductions. Chairman Cannon of the House Appropriations Committee, Representative Taber and Senator Taft have promptly risen to the challenge by insisting that the reduction should be larger. No doubt Administrator Hoffman has already given the House Appropriations Committee pertinent information about the effect of proposed cuts on the operations of ECA. However, owing to the reprehensible House practice of holding executive hearings on appropriations bills, the public will remain in ignorance of the outcome until the Appropriations Committee has completed the work of pruning.

We do not question the authority and indeed applaud the intention of the Appropriations Committee to scrutinize all requests carefully. If the evidence indicates that ECA costs can be reduced either because of price declines not already taken into account or for other reasons, corresponding reductions should be made in the amount of money appropriated. It is, however, disturbing to discover that some members of the Appropriations Committee prejudged the case for large reductions in advance of the hearings. ECA estimates of the amount of money needed have already taken account of price changes occurring prior to last December, and more recent declines in the prices of the goods and materials constituting the bulk of ECA-financed purchases would probably not greatly affect those estimates. Presumably the cut requested by President Truman in the ECA authorization covers these subsequent declines.

Garbled News

Whenever governments accentuate the "duties" of the press, the independence of the press is cast in grave jeopardy. For the duties of the press, and they are many, are not to governments but to the people. This is a distinction which is totally lacking in the new Mexican amendment to the United Nations convention on the gathering of news adopted by a 25-15 vote of the U. N. Social Committee. Assistant Secretary of State George Allen is quite right in denouncing this addition to the recognized disciplinary powers of governments as completely unpalatable.

The Mexican amendment adds to Article 9, defining the reasons for which governments may infringe on free information, these provisions:

> It is the duty of information agencies and foreign correspondents to report the facts, to promote respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms without discrimination, and to further international understanding and cooperation and to contribute to the maintenance of international peace and security.

These high-sounding phrases are innocuous enough as aims. Indeed, the understanding of the American delegation was that they would become part of the convention preamble, where they would be regarded primarily as moral obligations. But the Mexicans pulled a slick maneuver in tacking the amendment onto Article 9. This has the effect of transforming moral obligations into legally enforceable duties. It means that a government could, with the sanction of the U. N., expel a foreign correspondent for telling the truth if in someone's judgment that truth tended to retard "international understanding." And that covers almost everything.

The most urgent efforts are warranted to persuade members of the General Assembly that this disguised legalization of censorship is a threat to all free institutions. It would be a great tragedy if all the labors to evolve an international code on freedom of information were to come to naught. But the convention is now in such form that the United States could not approve it without signing away a birthright.

Arlington Utilities

Arlington County authorities have acted wisely in probing the telephone and gas rate structures in northern Virginia. Of particular concern is the request of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. for a substantial hike in charges to telephone users at a time when prices generally are leveling off or receding. Arlington has joined with the Virginia League of Municipalities to employ a consultant to determine whether the increase is justified and, if it is not, to advise on the proper representations before the State Corporation Commission. This is a sensible protection of consumer interests. Coming at this time, the telephone company request at the very least requires careful scrutiny, and, of course, the consumer alone is powerless to resist an increase.

A similar procedure has been followed with respect to the rates presently charged by the Rosslyn Gas Co. Although gas transmission lines pass through Arlington, the Rosslyn concern buys its gas from the Washington Gas Light Co. and in turn retails it at rates somewhat above those charged Washington consumers. An expert employed by the Arlington Public Utilities Commission has reported that there is ground for questioning the higher charges, and the county board shortly is to determine the best method of seeking an adjustment.

In both cases there is need for a full accounting. The inquiries do not necessarily imply that there is anything untoward in the utility rate structures. But if the present and requested rates are justified, then they should be justified on the basis of impartial examination beyond the mere say-so of the companies concerned.

Reminder

When foreign affairs are ruled by democracies the danger of war will be in mistaken beliefs. The world will be the gainer by the change, for, while there is no human way to prevent a king from having a bad heart, there is a human way to prevent a people from having an erroneous opinion. That way is to furnish the whole people, as a part of their ordinary education, with correct information about their relations to other peoples, about the limitations upon their own rights, about their duties to respect the rights of others, about what has happened and is happening in international affairs, and about the effects upon national life of the things that are done or refused as between nations; so that the people themselves will have the means to test misinformation and appeals to prejudice and passion based upon error. —ELIHU ROOT.

Congressional Librarian

I note the letter signed "R. E. W." in your issue of April 18, which contains the statement that your editorial of April 10 was incorrect when it referred to Dr. Luther Evans as a professional librarian.

Of course he is a professional librarian and an eminent one as were his predecessors, Herbert Putnam and Archibald MacLeish.

Librarianship as a profession is not comparable to medicine or law. As is true of university and college presidents, librarians are drawn from many other occupations.

There is no basis for using the term "professional librarian" other than as a reference to a man or woman engaged in librarianship upon a professional level.

Dr. Evans was chief assistant librarian, 1934-44, and acting Librarian of Congress, 1944-1945. Who's Who in Library Service is certainly not an acceptable basis for determining who is and who is not a professional librarian.

The completion of one or two years in a library school, the curriculum of which is concerned with very elementary matters, certainly does not make anyone a professional librarian.

It might be noted that the librarians of Yale University, Boston Public Library, Princeton University and New York Public Library are among the many distinguished American librarians who are not professionals by R. E. W.'s standards.

District Sales Tax

It is obvious that the Senate majority leader continues to hide behind the excuse "lack of floor time," refusing to allow the District Committee and the members of the Senate, who are in favor of this sales tax an opportunity to vote their convictions.

Many members have made known their positions to D. C. officials and employes of the District government who are voters from all parts of the country.

The Eightieth Congress paid last November 2 for its unjustified attitude toward the D. C. employes during the second session in denying them the $330 pay increase given to the Federal employes.

This discrimination in pay has caused resentment, lack of cooperation, and unrest among District personnel. Many with long, efficient service records have already left, accepting positions with the Federal Government and private industry. Should the Eighty-first Congress fail to bring the District government pay in line with the Federal there will be many more who will immediately leave the District service, realizing they have hesitated and lost.

It is up to the leadership of the Eighty-first Congress to rectify this mistake by permitting the supporters of the proposed sales tax revenue bill an immediate opportunity to vote.

Israel's Symbolism

The picture of President and Mrs. Weizmann being greeted by President and Mrs. Truman, which you printed in Tuesday's paper, was a picture the Jewish people all over the world had been awaiting for nearly 2000 years. And I am sure many American Jews were no less disloyal to their native country because of the sense of joy they must have felt at the symbolism of the picture.

During the struggle of the Jews for a homeland in Palestine much criticism arose. Some of that criticism came from Jewish groups themselves. These groups felt their "position" as American Jews—and American citizens—would be jeopardized.

I feel secure—cloaked in my elated reaction to the picture—in saying that there is a new kind of feeling among the American Jews today, as a result of the creation of Israel, a feeling of security that was greatly lacking before. This feeling of security does not make the American Jew any less loyal to the United States. It is more for the other Jewish people of the world who have lived and died with the dream of Israel in their hearts. It is a feeling of accomplishment for their brothers. MRS. J. S. SIEGEL.

Child Day Care Centers

I am writing to call attention to the plight of the District Child Day Care Centers. These centers are operated by the Board of Public Welfare at various points throughout the District and give day care to children of working parents with limited incomes. In most of the instances either both parents are obliged to work or there is only one parent maintaining the family.

At the present time the centers are scheduled to close June 30 unless the Day Care Center bill, S. 1388, is passed in the Senate.

Several hundred children are involved in this issue, all of tender years. The taxpayers' money would be well spent in giving these youngsters proper guidance and care while their parents are working, thereby keeping them off the streets and saving them from probable juvenile delinquency. There should be sufficient money appropriated so that the same number of centers may be operated and the same number of children given care as at present.

Spanish Miners' Fate

In your issue of April 11, Manuel Maestro, press attache at the Spanish Embassy alludes nominally to me, in the argument he is having with Mr. Norman Thomas on the murder of 22 mine workers. These workers who were affiliated with the Miners Union of Asturias were thrown alive, by Franco's guards, into a deep well located in the mountain range of Pena Mayor, called Pozo Fumeres. Those who were not killed in the fall were later murdered by dynamite and ignited gasoline. This dreadful event, which took place in the spring of 1948 and was described by Mr. Thomas, is being denied by Mr. Maestro. Mr. Maestro refers to me as the "true source of these accusations," and by fixing the date of August 18, "that is, a month and three days before the U. N. Assembly met in Paris and when it was thought that the Spanish question would be discussed," seems to suggest that it was a tale invented by himself in order to influence the resolutions of the aforementioned Assembly.

Neither the origin nor the date given by Mr. Maestro is correct. The accusation was made in a letter dated June 11, that got out clandestinely from Spain and which was signed by the Committee of the Spanish Socialist Federation, a time-honored political entity that always lived within the law and is nowadays obliged to act in the underground.

As president of the Spanish Socialist Workers Party in Exile, which is constituted of thousands of anti-Communists, citizens who, running away from the terror of General Franco's regime, are spread out in Europe, America and Africa, I signed jointly with the secretary of the party, Rudolfo Llopis—and in the same month of June—an appeal to world opinion in which we reproduced the text of the Asturian letter. We did it with the purpose that the countries which maintained diplomatic relations with Franco would notify him that they could not tolerate the "atrocities he authorized and ordered."

Another letter from the same origin followed the publication of our appeal. This letter confirmed the same version and gave the names and addresses of some of the victims. The committee of the Asturian Socialist Federation denounced these facts to the British consulate in Gijon asking it to make an inquiry. When the Franco authorities knew who the denouncers were—men who since 1937 were living hidden in the mountains—they ordered search in order to exterminate them. It was possible to save them by means of a most dramatic expedition, and since last October they have been in France, ready to verify their accusations.

This accusation could be contradicted in three forms: first, presenting evidence that the 22 miners are actually in their homes. Second, evidence that they are jailed in some prison, and third, evidence that they were guilty of grave crimes and sentenced to death by competent courts and legally executed.

Mr. Maestro argues that three accredited American news agencies did not give information of that appalling event as if those agencies were invited to witness it. He offered no evidence, writing instead that "These persons, to the best of my knowledge, are still alive, for they continue to be sought by the homicide division for the murders of six persons."

Mr. Francis Noel-Baker, British M. P., addressed himself to the foreign office asking for an inquiry to be made into the event. The foreign office in a letter dated October 8, and signed by Mr. Will. Henderson, replied to him: "Our local consul who conducted the inquiry, has reported that it is inadvisable to approach the relatives of the missing men for fear of compromising them. We are not anxious for him to make further inquiries himself as this might lead to trouble for the consular post. In the circumstances I am afraid that we cannot collect sufficient evidences either to confirm or to deny the story of the murders."

Mr. Manuel Maestro invites Mr. Norman Thomas to go there "and carry out his own investigation on the spot." He is asking a private individual, and a foreigner, to make an inquiry a consular representative dared not to. Anyone who facilitated any accusatory data for Mr. Thomas would have been signing his own death sentence.

Medical Expense

WHILE it may be true that Congress will not act at this session on a health plan, there is every indication that Americans are more and more concerned over the issue. It touches directly so many families.

Small segments of opinion are highly organized for and against one plan or another. Most Americans may not be sure what they want but they do have a growing conviction that they can get something better.

This is the answer, it seems to me, to those who take a do-nothing attitude and hurl bad names at anyone advocating any kind of change. Mere obstructionism is likely in the end to result in a radical and arbitrary solution.

A letter has come to me from a school teacher who lives with his wife on a yearly salary of $2800—before taxes. For the past five years, he writes, medical expenses have averaged between 25 and 30 per cent of that salary.

This year a siege with cancer, which was fortunately operable, brought the total hospital and doctor bills to $2300. It was a crushing blow which will keep them in debt for a long time to come.

One of their friends is a young doctor. With him the other evening they got in an argument over medical care which grew hotter and hotter. That argument went something like this.

TEACHER: I'm not sure that I'm in favor of compulsory health insurance on a national basis—the plan Truman is proposing. But what about people like us? We'll be years paying our medical bills.

Doctor: There's a perfectly good answer. It is voluntary health insurance. The number of people covered by that kind of insurance has grown enormously in recent years.

Teacher: Yes, but it isn't enough. Blue Cross, with the surgical benefits it carries, covered less than 5 per cent of my expenses for this year. And besides, until very recently it's been hard for the average citizen outside a big corporation to get voluntary insurance.

Doctor: That's true. The AMA has been far too backward in promoting voluntary health plans. There are plenty of plans that give more coverage for cases like yours.

Teacher: I don't doubt that. But they cost so much that people at my income level can't afford them. You doctors wouldn't know about that. I don't know how many doctors' mansions—and I mean mansions—I've helped to build.

Doctor: There you go! I can show you statistics proving that the average doctor's income is . . . But what's the use? You seem to be against the whole profit system.

TEACHER: Well, there you go! Can I help it if my salary is so low it won't cover high-cost insurance plans? I'm just asking you. I'm asking you what happens to cases like mine?

Doctor: In the first place your case is exceptional. There aren't many families with medical expenses absorbing so high a proportion of total income.

Teacher: How do you know that? I've never seen any adequate statistics on the number of families that get swamped with big medical bills. Yet I keep hearing about families like that all the time. And, another thing, I want to know why medical insurance—the kind you talk about, that pays bigger benefits—costs so much?

Doctor: The insurance companies have to make a profit. You seem to be against anybody making any profit. Anything the Government tries to run is bound to get mixed up in politics and corruption. That would happen in medicine if this socialized plan went through.

At this point the argument went off the medical track. The teacher was troubled by the doctor's blanket indictment of Government as inevitably corrupt. I think many of us are troubled as the corruption of government on State and local levels is revealed and as here in Washington slackness and favoritism too often seem the rule.

But apart from the health-insurance plan, there are two steps which Congress should take at this session. One is to expand the present program of hospital construction with Federal funds. The second, which is even more important, is to initiate with Federal money a program for training more doctors and providing more research. If the American people are to have adequate health insurance—whether voluntary or by a Federal system—these steps are a necessary preliminary.

DAR Cartoon

In your April 21 cartoon appeared Herblock's idea of a Daughter of the Revolution. The fat, dowager-type woman, with her futile sling-shot threw the society in a bad light.

When I attended the convention, I saw very few such types—none of them with lorgnettes—and I was impressed with the rather slim-looking kind, whose faces were earnest with endeavor.

Their "shot," that of keeping America fully "American" is heard, and will be heard beyond the "immediate vicinity." When voting time comes around the members are going to be loyal to their great organization, which stands for the religion and patriotism of their ancestors.

Matter Of Fact

Time For A Change

TOKYO.—In the early days of the occupation, General of the Army Douglas MacArthur was wont to remark to visitors that after about the third year, any military occupation begins to collapse of its own weight. Japan today, in the fourth year of the occupation, is a tribute to MacArthur's prescience.

The end of military government of this unhappy nation should now be urgently considered, if grave future consequences are to be avoided. This is so, and MacArthur was right, because the course of all military occupations is determined by three simple, displeasing rules.

RULE ONE: Military men with plenty of good will but no sort of training for the job, are unfitted to control indefinitely all the delicate, infinitely complicated mechanisms which govern the lives of millions of people. A brigadier general arrived here recently and was subjected to the usual "indoctrination lecture" on the political and economic problems of Japan. Half way through, he slapped the table and cried, "By God, sir, a soldier's job is to shoot guns! What's all this damn nonsense about?"

The general was not typical of the many hard-working and intelligent officers here. But he was right. A soldier's job is to shoot guns. When soldiers are asked, instead, to govern a nation, the result is apt to be the sort of self-strangulation illustrated by one civilian's frank remark to this reporter: "They pay me 10 thousand a year in this section because I'm the only man who knows how to unravel the Army's red tape."

RULE TWO: Military occupation brings into being an alien, privileged class, visibly enjoying all the perquisites of incomparable wealth and unlimited power, with immeasurably pernicious results. Nothing is more striking in Japan today than the heavy colonial atmosphere. It is not merely the contrast in living conditions. Army regulations are necessarily geared to the most irresponsible 19-year-old GI but they apply equally to all Americans, civilian and military.

It is illegal to give a Japanese a cigarette, to visit a Japanese friend in a hospital, to go to a Japanese theater, and so on, ad infinitum. The result is to cut the American rulers off from any normal contact with the Japanese ruled. Moreover, in order to enforce such segregation, according to well-informed observers, the American authorities have had to hire Japanese—housekeepers, theater managers, ticket agents—to inform on their American conquerors. The Japanese call the American counter-intelligence the "kempeitai," after their own dread prewar secret police.

RULE THREE: The real political life of the country governed is hopelessly smothered under the artificial conditions of tight military control. No one but a second-rater, or a fool, or an occasional, aged, duty-bound patriot will seek office when all real power, the only real reward for political office, is in foreign hands.

THIS HAS been a benevolent and remarkably peaceful occupation. It has a number of impressive accomplishments to its credit, of which the land reform is the most outstanding. But the time of accomplishment has passed. And the inexorable operation of the three rules given above has now produced an urgent need for fundamental change. On that point almost everyone in Japan, except the high command, seems to be agreed.

There is even a good deal of basic agreement on what form this fundamental change should take. To withdraw American troops from Japan now would be sheer madness, in view of what is happening in China. But the military should revert to the proper role of the military—shooting guns and learning how to shoot guns. The Army should be taken clean out of Tokyo and the other big cities, and clean out of the job of governing Japan.

Again, it would be plain idiocy not to leave the ultimate political power in American hands. But battalions of military police, mountains of mimeographed forms, and thousands and thousands of Americans, in and out of uniform occupying all the best housing and office space, are not necessary to maintain this power. All that is necessary is a small, competent commission (one authority here belives that 200 competent men could do the job, though that is doubtless optimistic).

Such a commission could use, as invisibly as possible, two sanctions to maintan its authority. One sanction would be the dollars which Japan must for some years have to live. The other and ultimate sanction would be the presence of the American Army in Japan.

Such a change would not produce an efficient, gloriously democratic Japanese government overnight. It would probably produce a terrible government. But the lesson of postwar Asia is that a heavy-handed colonialism does not pay. And unless the United States wants to make Japan a permanent, enormously expensive American colony, some such change has to come. And it has got to come soon.

State Council Challenges Senate Unit's Education Data

The council of State Chambers of Commerce yesterday accused the Senate Labor Committee of making "false and misleading statements of fact" in approving a 300-million-dollar Federal aid to education bill last month.

The council said the bill, now awaiting Senate action, is a "tragic commentary on irresponsible pressure-group legislation" and would "change the whole concept of American public education as we have known and cherished it."

In a pamphlet entitled "Federal Spending Facts," the council took issue with the following committee assertions:

Committee—At least 350,000 qualified teachers left the teaching profession from 1941 to 1945, some for good.

Council—The implication is that poor pay caused this. It should be noted that the years referred to were war years when many teachers enlisted in the armed forces or went into other wartime work.

Committee—Four million children between the ages of 5 through 17 attend no school whatever.

Council—Most States require school attendance only for children from 6 or 7 through 15. Of the four million referred to, 2,063,000 were only 5 years old, 156,000 were 6, and 1,406,000 were 16 and 17. The remainder included unknown numbers living at home who were not attending school because of mental of physical disabilities.

Committee—At least two million children are suffering a major impairment in their schooling because of poorly prepared teachers and a widespread teacher shortage.

Council—This is based on the assumption that two million pupils taught by teachers with emergency certificates are poorly taught. This is not necessarily so.

Jessup Asserts Atlantic Pact Is Step to World Cooperation

The proposed North Atlantic pact is a stride in the direction of international cooperation, Philip C. Jessup, U. S. Ambassador at large to the United Nations, said last night.

Jessup's comments came as he addressed the opening session of the 43rd annual meeting of the American Society of International Law in the Carlton Hotel.

More than 200 attended to hear talks by Jessup and by Charles Cheney Hyde, president of the society.

The three-day meeting will conclude Saturday night with the annual dinner.

Consideration Urged

The diplomat prefaced his remarks on the pact by declaring: "We should therefore consider carefully whether our national policies or commitments will tend to facilitate or obstruct the development of international cooperation."

Expressing disagreement with the Soviet characterization of the pact as a war alliance, Jessup asserted: "On the contrary, the pact contemplates military action solely for collective self-defense in case of aggression against a party. The pact is, in fact, a reasonable response to the realities of international relations during the past three and one-half years.

"A pact which is necessary to the security of a number of states, without menacing any state, is not a move away from international cooperation. On the contrary, it builds up a feeling of security in an important number of countries."

Stressing that "the focus of . . . international cooperation is, and will remain, the United Nations," Jessup declared, "it is not our desire or our fault that efforts toward collective security cannot at this historical moment be universal. But universality is still the goal. We stand ready to cooperate with all who will cooperate."

In his speech, Hyde declared the pact leaves "untouched the problem that needs solution."

This problem, he said, is "How can the minds of those who control countries whose possible acts of aggression are feared be changed or modified in such a way as to cause them to seek no aggressive achievement by force?"

In addition, he asked "Is there a means short of war whereby the United States and the countries of eastern Europe under Russia influence may be convinced that there is a common and practical means of advancing the real interests of each by a process that shuns war?"

Hyde advocated "fresh and deep consideration" of the problems.

A talk by Francis McIntyre, assistant director of the Office of International Trade, will open today's meeting at 10 a. m.

Associate Justice Robert H. Jackson of the Supreme Court and James N. Landis, former Harvard Law School dean, will address the Saturday dinner meeting.

Lineman Dies In Touching Live Wire

A power lineman, father of six children, was killed yesterday when he touched a 4000-volt line near 16th st. and East-West hwy., Silver Spring.

The victim, George Dewey Hall, 48, a roomer at 337 8th st. ne., was one of a crew of 10 men transferring live wires from an old pole to a new one.

Foreman C. E. Reynolds of the Utilities Line Construction Co. said a rubber "blanket" protecting Hall from live wires apparently slipped and his left arm touched the wire.

Hall immediately sagged over the wire, witnesses said, and three fellow workmen wearing rubber gloves lowered him to the ground.

Efforts of the Silver Spring Rescue Squad to revive him with oxygen failed, and the body was removed to the Warner E. Pumphrey funeral home, Silver Spring. A certificate of accidental death was issued.

Police said Hall's family live in Dublin, Va.

Race Discrimination Doomed, Southern Church Unit Says

Richmond, Va., April 28 (AP).—A committee of Southern Presbyterian Church leaders said today churches in the South must recognize that discrimination "is as doomed as human slavery."

"A church that tries to be neutral by keeping silent, or a church that resorts to compromise to save itself, will to that extent forfeit its redemptive power and influence among men," the committee said.

The Rev. John H. Marion of Richmond, director of the committee on Christian relations, released an 18-page report to be submitted to the general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian Church in May.

The committee's report noted three elements of the present situation it said Southerners must keep in mind:

1. The rest of the country is now more determined than ever to make the Federal Government a responsible, active agent for the enforcing of civil rights."

2. "Democratic and Christian principles, verbally taught, have been no match for patterns or discrimination legally entrenched, and the result is that three generations of Southern Negroes . . . have waited for many of those rights in vain."

3. "The South can justify its claim to States' rights only as it uses those rights . . . as a means for guaranteeing more effectively the rights and liberties of all its citizens."

Delinquent Child Work Panel Topic

The child and not the agency should be the prime factor in juvenile delinquency work, according to the Rev. Robert Brown, assistant secretary of the National Conference of Catholic Charities.

Father Brown spoke on "The Youth Director and the Delinquent" during a panel on the Religious Aspect of the Catholic Youth Program as part of the second National Conference on Catholic Youth Work at the Shoreham Hotel.

Stressing that "youth programs should be child-centered rather than agency-centered," he declared that specialized programs are required for "non-participating" youths. He defined "non-participating" youths as those who do not voluntarily enter the organized programs of youth activity.

Come From Fringe

It is from this "fringe" that the 2 per cent of the youngsters who can be classified as delinquents come, he said.

Emphasizing the importance of special treatment for "non-participants," he said: "It is pathetic for both the child, the director and the agency to place a disturbed or delinquent youngster in a regular program."

"Little people with good ideas can accomplish big things," the Rev. James Keller, founder and director of the Christophers, said at the luncheon session as he emphasized that each individual can make a definite contribution toward the good of the world.

"We believe," he said, "that if we can find a million people who believe as much in Christian truth to match the flaming faith of those preaching communism, that threat can be fully overcome."

Theme Is Defined

The theme and objective of Catholic Youth work, the Rev. John Wodarski, diocesan youth director of Hartford, Conn., another panel speaker said, is to "get some religion into the youngster!"

Among the many activities which will establish strong spiritual attitudes and habits as a normal part of the daily life he listed youth retreats, days of recollections and monthly communions. Close attention to normal practices also will pay good dividends, he said.

Discussing programs on religious vocations, he said the annual youth program should provide ample opportunity and encouragement for spiritual self-improvement.

The evening session was devoted to a panel discussion of Girl Scouting under Catholic auspices.

Russia Jams Broadcasts By U. S. 'Voice'

New York, April 28 (AP).—A State Department official said today the Voice of America broadcasts to the Moscow area have been "completely blacked out" by Soviet radio jamming.

Charles W. Thayer, chief of the State Department's international broadcasting division, said at least 50 Russian transmitters were being used in the jamming operation—by far the greatest number ever employed by the Soviet Union against Voice broadcasts.

Thayer said the jamming began last Sunday. That was about the time the Russians first indicated publicly that they might be willing to lift the Berlin blockade.

Voice officials said they had not established any reason why the jamming was intensified at that time.

To combat the jamming, the Voice of America began a continuous around-the-clock broadcast at 2 p. m. today in the Russian language, beamed at the Moscow area. It replaced the usual 90-minute transmission to that section.

Engineers said the Russians were employing better antennas, more powerful transmitters and powerful jammers of a type not previously used against Voice broadcasts.

How Maryland Solves Its Own Health Problems Without Waiting for Federal Aid

THE MARYLAND HEALTH PROGRAM
a series of articles by Agnes E. Meyer

Starting Sunday, May 1st, in The Washington Post

While other States and communities sit back waiting for aid and guidance from Washington, the State of Maryland and the City of Baltimore have gone ahead boldly with health programs of their own. And the plan works! Doctors like its absence of red tape and its lack of compulsion. Patients like the medical service they are getting. Taxpayers appreciate the low cost. In fact, the pioneering in Maryland may well serve as an example to the Nation.

So reports Agnes E. Meyer, in a series of articles starting on Sunday, May 1, in The Washington Post. Mrs. Meyer, nationally known for her interest in health problems, and a vigorous opponent of compulsory health insurance, made an exhaustive study of the Maryland Plan, both in Baltimore and in the counties. She reports with enthusiasm on this wholly American program, urges that it be studied with care by those who tend to look to other countries for their social ideas.

Everyone interested in medical care—and that means every parent and every taxpayer in particular—will find these Washington Post articles well worth reading. Start them in Sunday's Post.

New York, April 28 (AP).—The price of zinc was trimmed a half cent by a producer today, establishing the market at 12½ cents a pound, East St. Louis basis.

This was the fifth cut in zinc since the downward adjustment from the postwar high of 17½ cents a pound began on March 23. Recent light sales have been made almost entirely on an average-price basis.

Stock Prices Drift Lower In Lazy Trade

New York, April 28 (AP).—Languid selling was enough to put the stock market on the defensive today.

The market followed a one-way route from start to finish. And final prices for most issues were at the lows for the session. Losses ranged from fractions to around a point at the outside. A good handful ran against the trend for minor gains.

Selling pressure was never severe but, at the same time, demand never got beyond the torpid stage.

WHAT STOCKS DID	Thur.	Wed.
Advances	228	270
Declines	516	336
Unchanged	206	283
Total issues	950	889

Business slowed to 770,000 shares from 830,000 yesterday.

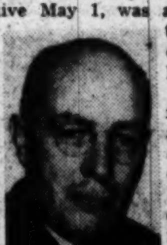
The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .2 of 1 point to 62.9. The industrial component showed the widest loss, followed by the rail and utility groups.

The market apparently paid no attention to the walloping given wheat and corn. Heavy selling was said to reflect fears the Government would not buy wheat after the end of this week, when 1948 crop loans fall due and the Government will fall heir to large amounts of wheat.

Wheat at Chicago closed 3⅞ to 6¼ cents a bushel lower and corn dropped 2 to 3½. Oats dipped ⅝ to ¾ of a cent. New York cotton futures were trimmed 85 cents to $1.40 a bale.

D. G. S. Appoints George Buente as General Manager

Appointment of George P. Buente as general manager of District Grocery Stores, Inc., effective May 1, was announced yesterday by President Joseph Muchnick.



Buente

Buente was formerly assistant to the president of the H. C. Bohack Co., Inc., which operates 400 markets on Long Island. For the past five years he conducted his own business as consultant on marketing and merchandising to the food trade. During the war, he was chairman of the New York "Food Fights for Freedom Committee."

D. G. S. is a cooperative association of 268 food stores in the metropolitan Washington area.

Steel Scrap Declared 'Drug on the Market'

Pittsburgh, April 28 (AP).—A large scrap dealer said today the steel scrap market "doesn't exist any more—scrap is a drug on the market."

The scrap source said 95 per cent of the steel producing companies are refusing to buy, usually because of high inventories.

A small purchase of No. 1 heavy melting scrap was made recently at a $1 reduction to set a new low of $24 but scrap dealers said there was little activity at that price.

One scrap dealers said he had been offered $14.50 a ton for "turnings" which have been selling for $20, and added: "it looks as though we'll have to sell it at that to find it a home."

Marine Oil Price Cut

New York, April 28 (AP).—Esso Export Corp. announced today reductions of 17 cents a barrel for marine Diesel fuel oil and marine Diesel medium at North Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports and a reduction of 21 cents in marine Diesel medium at Morehead City and Wilmington, N. C., and Charleston, S. C.

New York Cotton

New York, April 28 (AP).—Cotton futures moved lower today under pressure of liquidation.

The absence of new export business, expectations of a lower mid-April cotton parity, and the break in grain prices stimulated selling of cotton.

Old crop deliveries were under particular pressure on the belief that market developments were now shifting more to the new crop situation. Final prices were 85 cents to $1.40 a bale lower.

Fairchild Forces Board To Postpone Meeting

President L. B. Richardson of the Fairchild Engine and Aircraft Corp., contended Fairchild's real purpose is "to regain control of the company."

Fairchild denied personal ambition was behind his maneuver, but he said he would return as a director if the stockholders wished. He resigned as an officer of the firm two years ago.

Another showdown in the intra-family fight of the multimillion dollar corporation is expected on May 11, new date for the board meeting.

The change followed the purchase of J. A. Sterrett's share of the dealership by Harry Monroe. Monroe formerly was associated with the mail order division of Chicago branch of Montgomery Ward & Co. He also served at one time in the same capacity in the Baltimore branch.

The new member of the dealership will act as general manager.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, April 28 (AP).—Heavy selling overwhelmed the wheat pit and unsettled other commodities on the Board of Trade today. May wheat dropped as much as 8 cents at one time, recovering a small part of its loss before the close. Declines in new crop wheat contracts, while less than in May, were nevertheless substantial.

The break in wheat, coming around midway in the session, was reflected in corn. The yellow cereal rang up losses ranging to around 5 cents at its lows. It staged a fair recovery in the closing minutes. Oats held up rather well and ended only fractionally lower. Rye tumbled.

Lard and soybeans, which had started off at a firm trend, could not ignore the developments in the grain pits. They sank rapidly, soybeans losing more than 7 cents before recovering. Lard had losses extending to more than 40 cents a hundred pounds at the extreme lows.

Wheat closed 3⅛-6¼ lower, corn was 2 to 3½ lower, oats were ⅝-¾ lower, rye was 3 to 3½ lower, soybeans were 3½-4¾ lower and lard was 25 to 38 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Companies Hold All Trumps in Fighting Own Stockholders

By J. A. Livingston

EVERY once in a while, just to prove our system is democratic, the reform candidate or a newcomer in politics will crash through and win an election over the entrenched political machine. Estes Kefauver performed that feat at the last election in Tennessee when he licked Boss Crump's candidate in the primaries. And perhaps the oustanding instance in American politics was when Woodrow Wilson emerged from the cloister of Princeton University to become Governor of New Jersey and then to win the 1912 presidential election.

Livingston

Rare as such political eruptions are, theyr'e common compared to ousting the management of a large American corporation. The president of a company controls the proxy, vote-getting, machinery. He has inertia to vote for him—the banks, brokers, and the investment fraternity generally string along with the ins. Moreover, he can use the company's own funds to rout contenders for the emoluments of his office. His opponent must put up his own money.

Stockholder fights therefore seldom develop. Usually, when an investor doesn't like a corporation management, he sells his shares. Trust companies, particularly, follow this procedure. They feel that if they hold on to a stock once they have become dissatisfied with a management, they'd be subject to negligence suits. One of the commonest expressions among investment analysts is: "I buy management; if I don't like the management, then I get out."

HOWEVER, the recent mild protest against Sewell Avery, chairman of Montgomery Ward & Co., shows that sometimes indignation overcomes inertia, that sometimes investors will hold on to a company rather than a management. Massachusetts Investors Trust, owing 104,000 shares; Wellington Fund, owning 8000 shares, and Stein Roe & Farnham, investment counsel, representing about 6000 shares, registered protests about the way Avery was running Ward. Other holders may have felt the same way but remained silent, feeling perhaps that the election was in the bag, that a protest was futile. Avery won easily.

The fight against Avery, though only a gesture, may lead to more positive action—and leadership—in the future. Institutional holders of securities, like investment trusts, trust companies, insurance companies, and investment counsel cannot shrug off responsibility merely by selling stocks. The number of stocks—of managements—they can buy is limited. They stick to old, established companies. Massachusetts Investors, for example, owns both Montgomery Ward and Sears, Roebuck.

Because investment trusts are informed investors, small unsophisticated investors ought to be able to look to them for leadership. The SEC has said as much: "Investment companies may serve the useful role of representatives of the great number of inarticulate and ineffective individual investors. They can appraise the activities of management critically and expertly and . . . serve not only their own interests but the interest of the other public stockholders." They "have the financial means to make their support or opposition effective."

BUT INVESTMENT trusts reason that they are supposed to invest funds, not to spend them unseating a management. They realize too well the advantages of the "ins." They know how much money and energy John D. Rockefeller, jr., put into the fight to oust Col. Robert W. Stewart as head of Standard Oil of Indiana in 1929.

The SEC could help independent shareholders by a change in its proxy rules. Today, stockholders who oppose management can be disfranchised without knowing it. Suppose a stockholder writes in the name of a candidate of his own and sends in his proxy to the management. In most States the proxy committee ignores such a proxy. Here's the legal quirk: The management has offered to act as the shareholder's agent to vote his proxy for itself. The shareholder can't expect the management to vote in some other way—in opposition to itself.

An opposition shareholder today must be present at the meeting or turn his proxy over to somebody who is going to the meeting to be sure his stock is voted. But the SEC can prevent involuntary disfranchisement by requiring a management which receives a write-in proxy either to (a) vote it as directed or (b) send it back to the shareholder. Then the shareholder won't be under an illusion that his stock is being voted when it isn't.

Such a rule could be important in the case of a real fight. If small stockholders used a write-in vote, they would not be thwarted by a management's pocket veto.

Phillips Gross Up, But Net Declines

Bartlesville, Okla., April 28 (AP).—Phillips Petroleum Co. reported today first quarter net profits of $12,713,254, or $2.10 a share. This compared with $18,154,148, or $3 a share, in the same period of 1948. Directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share, payable June 1 to holders of record May 6.

Gross income, however, increased to $125,182,743 from the $100,646,352 in the 1948 first quarter.

K. S. Adams, president, told the annual stockholder's meeting that profits were held down by lower selling prices for heating and industrial fuel oils, and reductions in allowable crude oil production.

ABC Suspends Club 5 Days for 'Indecent' Act

A five-day suspension was imposed on the Merry-Land Club, 1405 L st. nw., yesterday by the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board because an alleged indecent performance was permitted on the premises.

The suspension will be effective from 8 a.m., May 9, to 8 a.m., May 14.

The charge dates back to January 29 when Hal Thornton, 41, an entertainer, of 2014 R st. nw., was arrested at the club and charged with giving an indecent performance. Thornton later forfeited $50 collateral. The club is operated by Olivia Davis.

Woman Is Killed When Son Falls Asleep at Wheel

Police Give Report On Car's Crash Into Wall at Dorsey, Md.

Mrs. Markshe Jung Sing, 63, of 4218 16th st. nw., was killed in an automobile accident on the Baltimore blvd. at Dorsey, Md., at about 1:30 p. m. yesterday.

She was taken to St. Agnes Hospital, Baltimore, and was pronounced dead on arrival there.

State police said she was a passenger in a car driven by her son, Calvin, 22, a student at Johns Hopkins University. The car left the road and ran into a stone wall when the son fell asleep at the wheel, police added.

Troopers R. J. Powley and R. Y. Wolfe charged the son with manslaughter and reckless driving. He was released in $500 bond.

The dead woman's husband, Jung Sing, owns several laundries in Alexandria. She is also survived by another son, George Jung Sing, of 2306 Mount Vernon ave., Alexandria.

Bethesda School Girl Runs In Front of Bus

Rowena Stout, 14, was struck by a Capital Transit bus yesterday while on her way to Leland Junior High School in Bethesda.

Schoolmates said the girl was crossing Wisconsin ave. at Langdrum lane, Bethesda, to catch the bus and ran in front of the vehicle, apparently thinking it would stop. The driver, James C. Kreimer, 4607 Highland ave., Bethesda, told police he did not stop because his bus was fully loaded.

Rowena, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Stout, 4704 Langdrum lane, Bethesda, was taken to Suburban Hospital by the Bethesda-Chevy Chase rescue squad with a concussion, a fractured right forearm, cuts and bruises. Several teeth were knocked out. Her father is a Department of Agriculture economist.

Court Orders Additions for 126 Houses

The Tyler Corp. must, within 60 days, offer to add two screen doors, a canopy over the kitchen door and a larger back door stoop to 126 houses it built two years ago at Tyler Park near Falls Church.

The order, signed Tuesday and recorded in United States District Court at Alexandria yesterday, was Judge Albert V. Bryan's decision on a suit brought against the corporation last year by the Office of the Housing Expeditor.

The suit contended the corporation had not followed specifications submitted with an application for building material priorities.

Judge Bryan indicated this would be his ruling when the case was heard last January. The final order was delayed until opposing counsel could agree on its wording.

Leon Horowitz, president of the Tyler Corp., yesterday said he didn't know how many home owners will want the changes made. He would not estimate the cost to the corporation.

Several Tyler Park home owners privately indicated they were more interested in getting a money refund than having the extras installed. The court ruled, however, that the Government had failed to establish the dollar value of the items.

Officer to Face Trial Board on Revolver Charge

A police private who allegedly waved his revolver under the nose of a lieutenant and said, "Here, take a smell of this," will face a trial board at 10 a. m. today on four charges.

Pvt. David G. White of the Twelfth Precinct is charged with failing to report on time for duty, being absent from duty without leave, conduct unbecoming an officer and disobedience of orders.

White is alleged to have reported three hours late for duty on April 19, refused to explain his reasons for tardiness to his superior officer, and flourished his service revolver under the nose of Lieut. Clarence A. Musselman.

'Can't Afford' Pay

D. C. Cancer Control Head To Quit Post

Dr. Jay McLean, who built up and directed operations of the Cancer Control Bureau of the District Health Department, has resigned the director's post, effective May 13.

The reason, he said, is strictly financial.

"I simply can't afford to care for my family properly on the salary ($7102 a year)," he asserted.

A spokesman for the Health Department said Dr. McLean's successor may be Dr. Charlotte Donlon, associated with the staff of the Savannah (Ga.) Tumor Clinic. Her name has been submitted to the District Commissioners for approval, it was said.

Will Enter Private Practice

Dr. McLean, who maintained practice here as a cancer surgeon and specialist, said he will enter private practice in Savannah, and serve as cancer consultant at the clinic there. Dr. and Mrs. McLean and their son, Franklin, 11, recently moved to 1317 N. Wayne st., Arlington. Formerly, they lived at 1203 N. Herndon st., Arlington.

Typical of his devotion to District cancer control activities, Dr. McLean, in verifying his resignation, expressed concern over the possible closing on June 30 of the cancer detection clinic at Gallinger Hospital. Such closing, he said, is threatened by House action in slashing the jobs of five nurses from the bureau payroll.

Unless the Senate restores the jobs, he said, the District's sole free detection clinic must be closed, Dr. McLean said.

Had Full Cooperation

Dr. McLean, who came to Washington in October, 1947, to organize and direct the cancer ebontrol bureau, said he had "full cooperation" in the work in his dealings with Health Department officials, the District Commissioners, and the entire medical profession.

Progress towards cancer control in the District during Dr. McLean's administration includes success in his drive to add cancer to the list of reportable diseases, the setting-up of a cancer control registry for statistical data on all cancer cases here, establishment of the Gallinger detection clinic, cancer tissue examination service, and compilation and distribution of a cancer bulletin bimonthly to every District physician.

The 58-year-old cancer specialist was born in San Francisco, took undergraduate training at the Universities of California and Pennsylvania, and obtained his M. D. degree at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore. While at Johns Hopkins, he discovered the blood anticlotting factor, heparin.

He came to Washington after relinquishing his post as associate professor of surgery at Ohio State University in 1947.

U. of Maryland Students to Hold Livestock Show

Nearly 100 University of Maryland students will compete Saturday in its twenty-first annual student livestock show starting at 9 a. m. in the university barns.

The contestants will show animals owned by the university in competition for awards as champion livestock and dairy showmen. More than 100 entries have been received in the 24 classes, which will include beef and dairy cattle, swine, sheep and draft horses.

Added features of the show will include an intersorority milking contest, an interfraternity greased pig contest and a sheep-shearing contest for beginners.

A preshow barn dance will be held tonight in the university's new armory, where an agricultural show queen will be crowned. Each of the school's four agricultural clubs has entered two girls in the contest, which already has been decided by secret ballot.

Pvt. Highsmith Is Ill, Yes, But Certainty Stops There

Alton L. Highsmith, 27-year-old Metropolitan police private, has the Departmental brass nonplussed.

Highsmith

On August 21 last year he had a fainting spell while on scout car duty in the 14th Precinct. Since then the department, feeling that he is not in proper physical condition for full duty, has been trying to remove him.

Yesterday Assistant Superintendent Floyd A. Truscott appeared before the District Commissioners and recounted how a Police Trial Board found Highsmith not guilty on a charge of being in "unsatisfactory physical condition not contracted in line of duty."

The matter was then referred to the Board of Police Surgeons for study on possible retirement. The board decided the injury was not service connected and ruled out retirement.

Highsmith has been asked to resign, but has refused, Truscott declared. At present he is on limited duty in the Communications and Records Division at headquarters.

The Commissioners, also puzzled on how to dispense with the services of the policeman, referred the matter to Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West for legal counsel.

Highlights of Apple Blossom Festival . . .

By Tom Kelley—The Washington Post

PRINCESSES FROM D. C.—Among the princesses in the Apple Blossom Festival in Winchester, Va., yesterday were three from the District. Barkley Crowns and Kisses Apple Fete Queen; 15,000 Persons Cheer Departure From Script

By Richard Morris
Post Reporter

Winchester, Va., April 28.—Vice President Alben W. Barkley placed a crown on the head—and a kiss on the forehead—of Miss Margret Thors today to make her Queen Shenandoah XXII.

Barkley arrived here at about 1:30 p. m. to officiate at the twenty-second annual Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival. After a luncheon with local businessmen, the Virginia Senators and members of the festival committee, he went to Handley School's huge amphitheater for the coronation ceremony.

"In the name of the apple blossom festival and in token of our faith in you," he told the smiling 22-year-old daughter of Iceland's Minister to the United States, "I crown you Shenandoah XXII, fair queen of the apple blossoms."

Takes Seat on Throne

The brunette monarch arose from her kneeling poistion and took a seat on her throne in front of the white-columned building.

Barkley grasped her arm, assisted her to her feet again, and added:

"While this is not part of the script, I solemnize it also."

With that, he planted a firm kiss on her forehead. She reciprocated a few moments later, in front of photographers, with a kiss on the Vice President's obviously willing cheek.

Festival officials estimated there were 15,000 persons in the throng that cheered the Vice President and Miss Thors as they stood on the esplanade with Senator Harry F. Byrd, Lieut. Gov. Preston Collins and the Rev. William E. Eisenberg, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church here, who solemnized the investiture.

Wreath of Blossoms

The first half of the two-day event was blessed with a baptism of bright sunlight and a gentle breeze. There was also a wealth of apple blossoms in nearby orchards to satisfy the most demanding admirer of floral beauty.

It was the first time in five years that nature brought the blooms forth at the same time festival officials arranged their extravaganza of feminine charm.

Miss Thors, her two maids of honor and 38 princesses got their first glimpse of the blooming apple trees at 10 a. m. when they went into the orchards to commune with nature and pose for photographers.

The queen's white taffeta dress produced a striking effect against a background of pastel pink and green net-covered taffeta worn by her court and maids of honor.

After the coronation, Miss Thors, from her throne at the foot of the outdoor stage, witnessed a presentation of "forerunners—a Pageant of Springtime" by more than 1000 school children from the area.

Members of her court, from colleges in the four apple-growing Appalachian States, were escorted down the broad stairs from the school building to seats on either side of her throne by cadets from Massanutten Military Academy at Woodstock, Va.

Firemen and bands from the area staged a parade on Winchester streets tonight as the princesses prepared for their climax in the social whirl—a ball at the city armory. Miss Thors will be the guest of honor.

A repeat performance of the pageant will be given at 10 a. m. Friday.

Bob Hope will be welcomed to the city by Miss Thors an hour later. He will then serve as grand marshal of the feature parade at 12:40 p. m.

There will be a massed band concert at the Handley School grounds at 3:30 p. m. Other band concerts will follow every hour from 4 p. m. until 6 p. m. in front of the county courthouse.

One of the main events of today's proceedings, although they were centered upon the ladies in town, was a stag luncheon at the York Inn, a mile north of Winchester.

Even there, however, the opposite sex was in evidence. Miss Ann Butler, daughter of H. W. Butler, a Winchester apple grower, arrived to toss apples to guests standing on the lawn outside. She is the festival's "Miss Apple," designated by members of the committee.

It was there Barkley put in his first appearance. He drove up with Senator Byrd, Senator Willis A. Robertson, and State Senator Harry F. Byrd, jr.

Senator Robertson was seated during the pageant beside Vice President Barkley's daughter, Mrs. Max O'Rell Truitt. Next to State Senator Byrd's wife was State Senator John S. Battle, one of five Democratic candidates for the governorship in Virginia.

Budget Office Blocks Effort To End Tubercular Means Test

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

A concerted effort by District health officials to abolish the "means test" for tubercular care here has been firmly blocked by the District Budget Office, it was disclosed yesterday.

The Budget Office rejected the formal request in recommendation returned to the District Commissioners about six weeks ago, but such action was never made public, it was said.

The "means test" is the accounting required of patients and their families before determination of District responsibility towards care of the patient. It sets up District responsibility according to the patient's assets and incomes.

Dr. A. Barklie Coulter, director of the Health Department's division for tuberculosis control, disclosed the request's fate to the spring meeting of the Metropolitan Washington Tuberculosis Conference yesterday. The all-day conference was held in the Federal Se- [illegible]

He made the disclosure after Dr. Isidore D. Bobrowitz, medical superintendent, Municipal Sanitorium of New York City, apologized for the fact that his own city had abolished the finance accounting procedure "only two years ago."

The speaker needn't apologize, Dr. Coulter told the assembly. District officials "have just received the word" that "the means test will continue in Washington, as is," he commented.

Dr. Bobrowitz had described the procedure as "a medical deterrent" to the care of the patient, in which the patient and his relatives "are hounded" for money at a time when they are already upset at the prospect of longtime hospitalization.

"I am glad Dr. Bobrowitz puts the means test on a medical basis, and not on a financial, budgetary [illegible] commented Dr. Coulter.

Psychiatrist Cites Finger-Art As Key to Child's Emotions

How emotional maladjustment of children is made manifest in the subjects they choose for finger painting was described by Dr. William L. Granatir, director of the Washington Institute of Mental Health, a Red Feather agency.

The psychiatrist exhibited a number of finger-painted pictures created by youthful patients, at a press conference at the institute, 1464 Columbia rd. nw., in conjunction with Mental Health Week, which opened Monday.

One of the paintings depicted a bird flying free over mountain ranges. Far below was a small figure hemmed in by two cliffs.

The child was shy to an unusual degree and overly resentful of authority.

Examination showed the child identified himself with the hemmed-in figure while the bird symbolized the free person he would like to have been.

Further probing brought out that the mother was domineering and protective.

Treatment, Dr. Granatir said, consisted in part, of allowing the patient greater freedom of expression and, as is customary in all cases involving children, also treating the mother for the neurosis responsible for her own attitude.

The institute treats adults as well as children on a capacity to pay basis. A monthly average of 85 adults and 72 children currently are receiving treatment there.

Dr. Granatir declared that "failure of the public to support the Community Chest" may mean cuts in personnel and services of the clinic this fall.

Parks Group To Ask Funds For Urban Aid

Money Is Sought Under Provision Of Housing Act

By Dorothea Andrews
Post Reporter

Funds for urban redevelopment in the District under the National Housing Act will be sought from the House Banking and Currency Committee, now studying the measure.

Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant 3d, chairman of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, said the commission yesterday authorized NCPPC representatives to appear before the committee and seek further amendment of S.1070 to permit the D. C. Redevelopment Land Agency to secure funds under the urban redevelopment title of the act.

At the same time, the commission registered its approval of the Sparkman amendment, which makes it possible for the National Capital Housing Authority to secure funds and purchase land, regardless of the prohibition contained in the D. C. Redevelopment Act of 1945.

General Grant said that at its meeting yesterday, the Park and Planning Commission approved "in substance" the housing and redevelopment plans which are to be made a part of the comprehensive plan for Washington.

He said that the chapter is to be sent to the Citizens Advisory Board for review, and will then be made public.

On the comprehensive plan itself, General Grant said that most chapters are now in manuscript. He said that the commission hopes to complete the plan and have it ready for printing at about the time it expects to receive $20,000 for printing costs from Congress.

The commission also suggested that its staff confer with National Guard officials on a plan for the ultimate development of Camp Simms, near the National Guard Rifle Range. The District National Guard earlier had requested that the NCPPC purchase additional land at Camp Simms, and had been advised that such purchase would be outside the commission's jurisdiction.

Earlier in yesterday's session, the commission voted to assign to the District Commisisoners for playground purposes the Buchanan Recreation Center near 13th and E sts. se. and the Brentwood Village playground, off Rhode Island ave. ne.

Col. V. E. Stack, land purchasing officer, reported that during the past month, the commission has negotiated contracts for about 40 properties, valued at more than $300,000, for playground purposes.

Today the commission will discuss its legislative program, and may make a tour of slum conditions if its agenda is not too heavy.

To Give Training

Ruhland Asks Farms Here For Needy

District Health Officer George C. Ruhland yesterday advocated establishment of farms on the edge of the city where personal hygiene and vocational training would be offered to the "economically restricted who need guidance."

The proposal was made during a closed meeting yesterday afternoon of several District officials with Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) in his office.

Dr. Ruhland said many underprivileged who reside in slums need instruction in "how to maintain themselves better" and in "how to earn a living." This refers to both Negroes and whites, he added.

He suggested the farms be modelled on those at St. Elizabeths where the mentally ill receive training in gardening, shoe repair, mattress production and similar ways of earning a livelihood.

The health official, who recommended Wednesday that Negroes planning to move to Washington be screened to avoid creating more slums, said he planned to suggest to Howard University officials that they "give more attention" to training in such things."

Dr. Ruhland, when asked if he had received any comments on his screening proposal, said, "Negroes stopped me and said, 'It is true.'"

The Greater Washington Area Council of the American Veterans Committee, however, scored the Wednesday statement as "thoroughly muddled." The group declared the solution to the slums problem here was "not vicious regulation over where a person may live; rather it is adequate housing, increased medical facilities and education—education not only of the victims of intolerable social conditions, but of health officials as well."

Present at the Capitol Hill meeting were Assistant Corporation Counsel Milton Korman, Dr. Daniel L. Seckinger, assistant health officer and Col. William H. Cary, jr., director the Bureau of Public Health Engineering.

Senator Ferguson, one of eight senators who toured slum areas near the Capitol last week, said the meeting was one of several planned to study the slum clearance problem.

Meanwhile, Representative John L. McMillan (D., S. C.), chairman of the House District Committee, announced he was planning to meet with District officials to discuss a proposal for razing slum units each time public housing is erected.

Truman Asked Not To Name Democrat To Young's Post

The District Young Republican Club yesterday asked President Truman not to appoint a Democrat to the Board of Commissioners in place of John Russell Young, Republican, whose term ends May 17.

The group said "honest local government" would be insured by the "continued existence of a bipartisan, or better yet, nonpartisan Board of Commissioners since our people are forbidden to inject partisanship into such questions as schools, libraries, streets and sewers."

Man Wins $20,000 In Auto Injuries

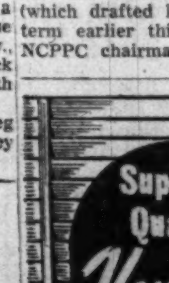
Joseph Simms, 65, a streetcleaner, of 805 3d st. se., was awarded $20,000 damages yesterday for injuries he received in December, 1946, when he was struck by an automobile.

The verdict was returned by a District Court jury against Jesse Small, 30, of 617 Lamont st. nw., driver of an auto which struck Simms as he was working at 8th and K sts. ne.

Simms suffered a fractured leg and ribs, he testified. His attorney was Albert Brault.

Grant to Quit Park Post After Term Ends

Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant (retired), yesterday said he would not be a candidate for reappointment as chairman of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission when his six-year term expires Saturday.



Gen. Grant

General Grant told reporters he had written to President Truman in February pointing out the need for appointment of "some one to take my place."

Asked whether he would accept reappointment if an offer is made by President Truman, General Grant said, "I can not comment on that because the offer has not been made."

At present, the retired Army officer is holding three position, that of vice president of George Washington University, president of Government Service, Inc. (which drafted him for a second term earlier this week) and his NCPPC chairmanship.

Senate Unit Backs Ragweed War Bill

A Senate subcommittee backed the Commissioners yesterday in declaring war on ragweed and other unkempt growths on private property in the District.

The subcommittee, headed by Senator Margaret Chase Smith (R., Me.) approved a bill to authorize the District to use modern spraying tactics rather than antique cutting methods to get rid of weeds on land whose owners don't take care of the job.

The subcommittee acted after hearing Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West, speaking for the Commissioners, say the present law limits the District to cutting weeds on private property. He said the city would use a spray called 2-4-D.

He said he uses it on his own and it beats getting down on hands and knees to pull weeds out. It kills the weeds and leaves the grass, he said.

West said the bill is aimed mostly at ragweed, a major bane of hay fever sufferers.

Cleanliness Reratings

Cleanliness ratings given 17 Montgomery County eating places have been downgraded from an A to B classification because food handlers failed to attend sanitation classes given by the County health department.

Golfers See 'Copter

Golfers at Arlington's Washington Golf & Country Club had to look twice yesterday to make sure the thing" purring over their fairways wasn't a No. 9 iron hurled in exasperation.

The "thing," in fact, was one of the new Hiller 360 Helicopters, being demonstrated by its inventor, Stanley Hiller, jr., president of United Helicopters, Inc., of Palo Alto, Calif.

The 'copter is in Washington for a week of demonstrations to government and military officials after a flight from the West Coast.

De Luca Still Model for Singers

By Paul Hume

Vera Franceschi played the piano, and Jessica Dragonette and Giuseppe De Luca sang last night at Georgetown University's Gaston Hall.

The occasion was a benefit sponsored by Il Circolo Italiano for the purpose of building an Italian house on the campus. The artists generously gave their time and efforts. Miss Franceschi, a native of San Francisco, is a young pianist, already becoming known for her playing of early Italian keyboard music.

Last night she played not only music from 18th century Italy, but from 20th century America as well, including two works of New York's critic-composer, Virgil Thomson.

Giuseppe De Luca has been a model for singers for a half century. Last night was no exception. His phrasing, style, and all that went with them, were the finished product of an artist who has never deserted the highest standards of singing.

No amount of generosity could persuade us to say the same of Miss Dragonette. Her title of America's Princess of Song should be changed to that of Dowager Queen. Almost every note she sang was an instrument of torture to the ear, until she reached some simple, untaxing folksy songs. These came too late in her program to erase unhappy first impressions.

On the whole, the occasion was one for mixed feelings, as money was being raised in a good cause. We trust that the Casa Italiana will achieve and maintain higher standards in the arts than last night set forth.

Martell Gets Contract

A $1,487,000 contract for construction of an extension to the terminal building at National Airport was awarded yesterday to F. H. Martell Co., Inc., of Washington, low bidders.

W. E. Reynolds, Commissioner of the Public Buildings Administration, said the contract calls for completion of the work within 450 calendar days.

Hemisphere Unity Urged By Envoy at K. C. Dinner

Western Hemisphere solidarity is essential to counter communism, the ninth annual Pan American dinner of the Washington General Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, was told last night at the Mayflower Hotel.

Ambassador of Costa Rica Mario A. Esquivel urged "economic solidarity" as a means of achieving the continental unity for which there is a pressing need."

"We shall have to become, during the march of this century and for the good of all, one molecule, one continent, united and indivisible, with similar desire, with a a sufficient livelihood and with an enduring peace."

The Rev. Robert I. Gannon, S. J., president emeritus of Fordham University, declared that "God made the Western Hemisphere one geographically."

"We must make it one in heart and one in my mind," he said.

Decrying communism, Father Gannon asked for a spiritual as well as material exchange between this country and the countries to the south. He suggested American Catholic priests might be exchanged for the "South and Central America sanctity of the home."

Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk extended greetings on behalf of Secretary of State Dean Acheson to ambassadors and other officials from the 20 other American nations.

Rusk lauded the "unceasing work of the Catholic Church in encouraging the expression of mutual religious and moral bonds" between people of different countries.

He hailed the dinner meeting as "an excellent example of the contribution which our citizens themselves can make toward the promotion of peaceful and harmonious international relations."

Other speakers included Richard A. Mahar, dinner committee chairman; Supreme Knight William J. Mulligan, and William E. Leahy, toastmaster.

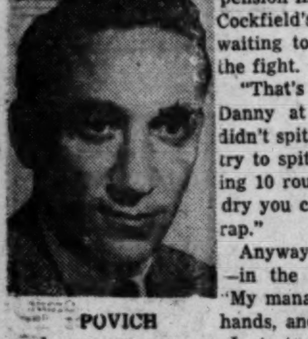
Dodger Fan in Hospital, Says Durocher Beat Him

The Washington Post Sports
4B Friday, April 29, 1949

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

DANNY PETRO has a date with the District Boxing Commission over the weekend. He'll be told there must be no kicking, no biting, no extra-legal fussing in his fight with Jimmy Cooper at Griffith Stadium on Monday evening. Bad Boy Danny must behave like a nice, rock-'em, sock-'em main event fighter.



POVICH

Danny Boy knows the alternative. He'll be suspended, this time for a long time, not just a six-month suspension like he drew for spitting in Johnny Cockfield's face a couple of years ago while waiting to hear the decision at the end of the fight.

"That's when they got me wrong," said Danny at Turner's Arena yesterday. "I didn't spit in Johnny Cockfield's face. Ever try to spit at anybody after you been fighting 10 rounds? Bet you 10 bucks you're so dry you can't work up a spit. I got a bum rap."

Anyway, said Danny, Cockfield started it—in the dressing room before the fight. "My manager goes in to look at Cockfield's hands, and gets pushed away. Nobody can push my manager, so I start pushing. That's when Cockfield started asking for it.

"I TELL HIM to save it for the ring, and when they put us in there, he says 'watch out 'cause I'm coming downstairs,' and he tries to hit me low. So I go downstairs with a left hand and double him up pretty good. I know I win the fight, and I go over to shake hands with him before the decision and he wants to fight some more. I didn't spit in his face. I just made a face at him, and hit him again."

Danny Petro, dead-end kid, can look back on 18 years of fighting at the age of 25. On the day in 1936 when Freddie Miller defended his world featherweight title at Griffith Stadium against Petey Sarron in the first title match ever staged in Washington, Danny was in there at 60 pounds at the age of 12, fighting an exhibition with his kid brother, Charley, one of the six fighting Petros from Southeast Washington.

Monday night he'll be trying to win the D. C. featherweight title from Cooper, three-tmie loser in 20 fights. Danny's been watching Cooper mop up all winter in the indoor main events at Turner's Arena. Danny says he was taking a professional interest in Cooper. "Always knew I'd have to fight him some day," said Danny, "and he looks like a sucker for my kind of left hand."

PETRO CAME UP through the amateurs with Brothers Joe and Charley and they used to win all the amateur titles in sight for the Apollo A. C. Danny and Charley got as far as the semifinals in the National Olympic tryouts, but only Danny turned pro. "Charley got married and quit fighting, can't figure it out," said Danny. "Funny thing about Joe, too, he didn't want to fight for a living, either."

Danny is now one of Promoter Gabe Menendez's prime, if well-punched, meal tickets. He has been making something of a sensational comeback in his last four fights. Licked Lee Q. Murray, Corky Rogers, Jackie Good and DeWitt Oliver with no trouble. None of 'em could fight," said Danny grandly. "I took the whole four of 'em inside of seven rounds. Add 'em up, I mean, and it still adds up to seven rounds."

His recent successes have not only earned him the first outdoor shot at Griffith Stadium, but as a consequence he has what Danny calls "a new father. You know how it is. My pop don't want me to fight no more, but then I start knocking these bums over and my pop now tells all his friends 'Dassa my boy, Danny.'"

IT WAS A BEAUT a few years ago, when Tough Kid Danny met up with Lew Hanbury at Uline's Arena. Hanbury, too, reveled in the brawling style of Petro and the Boxing Commission took them both aside before the fight to warn 'em to fight clean. It didn't do any good. It was the dirtiest fight ever staged in the District. Hanbury slowed Petro up and stretched him out for the full count in Round Seven.

"We weren't mad at each other," explained Danny. "Just happened that Hanbury liked to fight that way, too, and I used to beat him in the amateurs. Then some New York people took him over and taught him a whole lot that I didn't know.

"Hanbury shoulda been a champ, the way he could fight, and the way he loved it. But they started filling him full of big stories about how he was going to be the champ quick, and took him out to California and over-matched him. He got too cocky. When you're head's too small, you can't carry all that big stuff in your head."

'Graw Overpaid Coaltown For Victory

Havre De Grace, Md., April 28 (AP).—It won't hurt much, but Calumet farm today "lost" $2,625 in earnings by Coaltown.

The Havre De Grace management discovered it had overpaid Calumet for Coaltown's walkover in the Edward Burke Handicap last Saturday.

Yanks Halt Nats' Win Streak at One, 6 to 2

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

That one-game winning streak of the Nats, entrusted yesterday to Ray Scarborough, didn't endure beyond the first inning. The Yankees came out swinging, scored three quick runs and contrived otherwise to win the ball game, 6 to 2.

Again the Nats were addicted to their nonhitting habits of this season, and they didn't come up with any kind of a run off Ed Lopat until the eighth inning, by which time the Yankee left-hander had a satisfactory 6-0 lead.

From Scarborough the Nats got a badly pitched ball game, but it wasn't going to make much difference what with Lopat shutting them out until the eighth with a handsome three-hit performance. Eventually the Nats unloaded eight hits against him, too little, and too late.

Manager Casey Stengel of the Yanks showed the 5295 customers a New York lineup differing in five positions from the crew that tossed away the game the night before. And from it he got a nice production of 11 hits.

Scarborough had little stuff and not much luck at the outset when the Yanks conked him for those three first-inning runs that were sufficient. He walked Rizzuto with one out, and Woodling moved a run home immediately with a three-bagger that caromed off the right field boxes.

After Henrich popped up, the Yankees came up with two more cheap but helpful runs in that first inning. Bobby Brown dropped a fizzy double at Coan's feet in left field to score Woodling, and then scored himself on the same kind of a blow by Kryhoski which Coan held to a single.

The Yanks' fourth run, scored in the third, was pure gift from Al Kozar. With two out and Brown on second after a single, Kozar drifted into a short center and muffed Mapes' pop fly for a two-base error.

In the fifth the Yankees teed off against Scarborough for their last two runs. Woodling rapped a single to left and Henrich whacked one to right. Brown's long fly scored Woodling and Kryhoki lined a triple to left scoring Henrich. They got no more because Kryhoski was caught at the plate on Mapes' smash to Robinhon.

Scarboro lasted only five innings, and the Nats' relief pitching was on the bright side. The Yanks filled the bases against young Dick Welteroth in the sixth with none out and didn't score. Henrich popped up and Brown hit into a double play.

For Welteroth and Dick Weik, who pitched the last four innings, the Nats came up with double plays in the sixth, seventh and eighth, in fact.

It wasn't until the sixth that the Nats got a man as far as third base, and that was with the help of Brown's wild throw on Welteroth's grounder. Dente followed with a single Coan struck out and a walk to Stewart filled the bases. But Vollmer popped up and Yost hit into a forced play at the plate.

All of a sudden in the eighth the Nats came up with a run when Dente and Coan beat out infield

Cards Defeat Pirates, 4-2

St. Louis, April 28 (AP).—The steady pitching of Al Brazle who scattered eight Pittsburgh hits helped the St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-2 verdict over the Pirates today.

Enos Slaughter singled home Marty Marion in the seventh with what proved to be the deciding run.

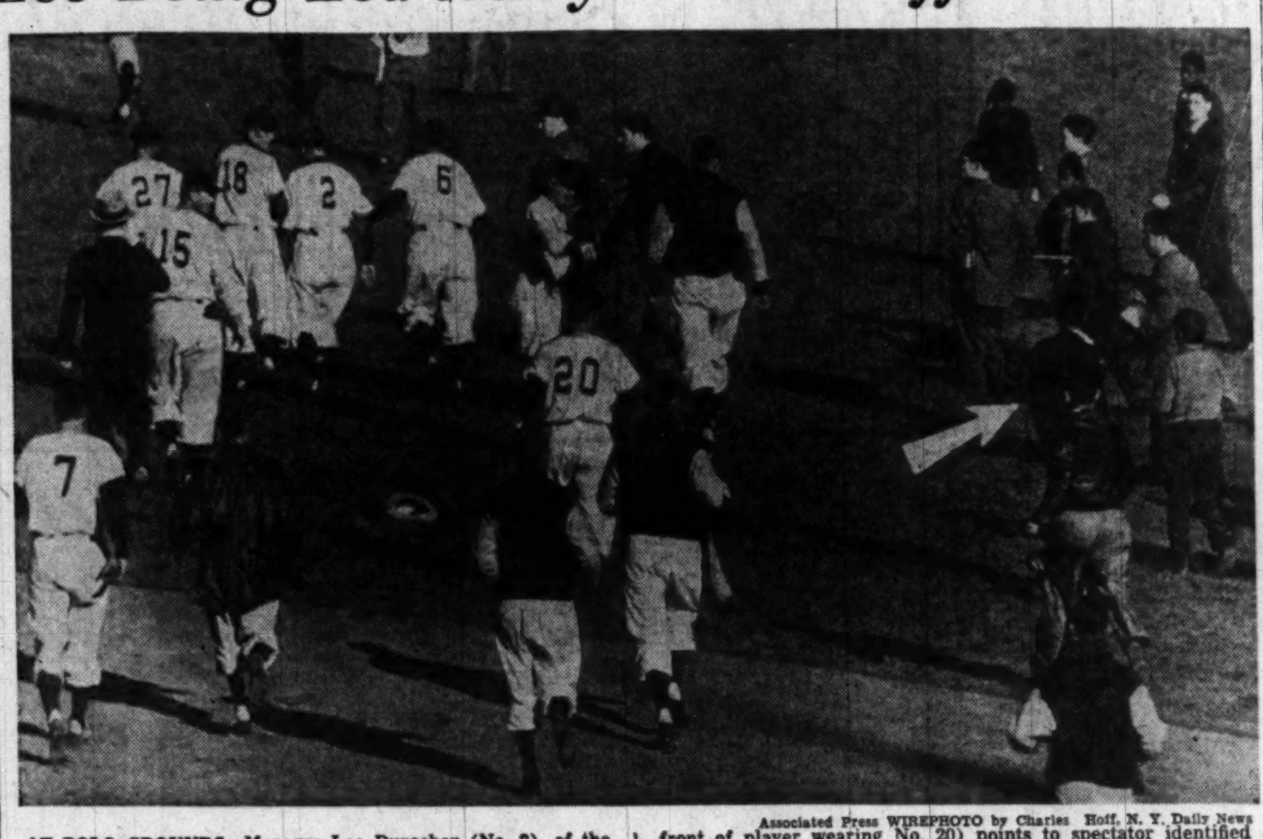
Leo Being Led Away From Scuffle Scene



Associated Press WIREPHOTO by Charles Hoff, N. Y. Daily News

AT POLO GROUNDS—Manager Leo Durocher (No. 2), of the New York Giants, is being led away from the scene of an after-the-game scuffle at the Polo Grounds yesterday by Billy Rigney (18) and Coach Fred Fitzsimmons. Coach Frankie Frisch (in front of player wearing No. 20) points to spectator identified as Fred Boysen, arrow on right, the man involved in the melee. Boysen's hat lies on ground in circle of players at left. Boysen was admitted to a Brooklyn hospital for treatment of bruises

Bosox Club Macks, 12-5; Ted Homers

Boston, April 28 (AP).—Ted Williams had a perfect day at the plate, belting his first 1949 homer, as the Boston Red Sox swept a two-game series from the Philadelphia Athletics, 12-5, today before a chilled 10,823 ladies' day crowd at Fenway Park

The lanky slugger also had a single and three walks while driving in five runners.

Williams' homer, a drive into the right field bullpen off relief pitcher Jim Wilson with two on in the fifth, came after First Baseman Ferris Fain and Catcher Joe Astroth let his easy foul pop drop between them.

Harris Goes Polite

Lefty Mickey Harris, making his first start for the Bosox, had a three hitter until the seventh inning. He wound up allowing the Athletics 11 hits while fanning 8 and giving as many bases on balls.

Harris, however, had an easy task turning his first win. His teammates greeted Dick Fowler in such lusty fashion that they had a 7-2 lead when that righthander was replaced by Wilson in the fifth.

Four of the Philadelphia hits came in the ninth and those, plus a Junior Stephens' error, provided two runs. Sam Chapman banged out three hits, including a two-bagger, and accounted for three tallies.

The other powerhouses in the Boston batting order were Dom DiMaggio with a double and two singles, Johnny Pesky and Stephens, each with a pair of singles.

Georgetown Boys Feted at Banquet

Boys Club of Washington, Georgetown Branch, last night presented awards to its top athletes at a banquet at the Continental Hotel.

Twelve-year-old Mike King was named the outstanding boxer. Steve Karpman was honored as best in basketball, Bob Donaldson in football and Mickey Meinke in baseball. Awards were presented by Charlie Reynolds, Bob Feerick, Andy Farkas and George McQuinn.

Everyone Shows Up at Bowler's Banquet but Treasurer and $1231

Paterson, N. J., April 28 (AP).—The banquetless bowlers of Paterson's Eastside League filed embezzlement charges today against their missing treasurer.

The league's $1231.60 treasury, police were told, is now minus $1231 and one treasurer.

But the banquet never came off—the man with the money, Frank W. Faynor, 54, didn't show up.

Police said Faynor disappeared from his home three weeks ago. A check of the bank account in which he kept the leagues funds showed only 60 cents remaining.

Vern Bickford Hurls Braves To 6-1 Win

Philadelphia, April 28 (AP).—Three-hit pitching by Vern Bickford and timely hitting gave the Boston Braves a 6-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies today.

The Braves bunched 4 of their 10 hits, including Earl Torgeson's fourth homer of the season, in the fourth inning to score four of their runs.

Alvin Dark's single and Torgeson's homer produced the first two tallies. A pass to Pete Reiser, a single by Connie Ryan and Phil Masi's wind-blown one-bagger sent the other two across the plate.

Bums Clout Giants, 15-2, Tie for Lead

New York, April 28 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers used the New York Giants as a stepping stone today, climbing into a first place tie with Boston in the National League by virtue of a 15-2 thumping of their interborough rivals.

The Dodgers gained revenge for their 11-8 loss yesterday by shelling 5 Giants' flingers for 19 hits. Seven of them came in the sixth inning, which together with a base on balls and two Giant errors, produced eight runs.

Pee Wee Reese, Duke Snider, Mike McCormick and Carl Furillo enjoyed field days at the plate. Reese cracked out four hits and drove in three runs to take the league lead in the runs batted in department with 13.

Snider hammered out a single, double and homer and drove in two mates. McCormick cracked a pinch hit homer with two aboard and followed with a single in his only other time at bat.

Backed by Brooks' biggest day at the plate, righthander Ralph Branca breezed through nine innings for his third straight victory. He allowed only four hits.

Gardella Appeals Court's Denial Of Injunction

New York, April 28 (AP).—Danny Gardella, former New York Giant outfielder, filed a notice of appeal with the U. S. Court of Appeals today on the recent decision of Federal Judge Edward A. Conger which denied him immediate reinstatement into organized baseball.

Gardella jumped to the Mexican League in 1946 and was suspended from organized ball for five years. He has filed suit for $300,000 damages against the sport and its officials, charging a monopoly.

Today's action followed Judge Conger's recent decision that Gardella could not be granted a temporary injunction, returning him to the game at once, while the damage suit was pending.

Leo's Career Has Always Been Stormy

LEO DUROCHER's baseball career has been a stormy one and he has been in frequent difficulties. He returned to baseball only last year after sitting out the 1947 season under suspension by Commissioner A. B. Chandler for what was called "conduct detrimental to baseball."

He hit the headlines again last year when, in July, he figured in the sensational managerial switch that moved him from Brooklyn to the Giants and returned Barney Shotton as manager of the Dodgers. Shotton had served as Brooklyn manager while Durocher was under suspension.

On June 10, 1945, Durocher, then manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was arrested with Joseph Moore, a special patrolman at Ebbetts Field, on the complaint of John Christian, a medically discharged soldier. Christian charged that the two men gave him a severe beating in the players' runway under the Ebbets Field stand during a game with the Philadelphia Phillies the previous night.

CHRISTAIN was a patient at Kings County Hospital, suffering from a broken jaw, a black eye and two head bruises which he declared Durocher inflicted while Moore held his arms. The manager and the patrolman were booked on charges of felonious assault.

Durocher was tried and acquitted on April 1, 1946, in Kings County court. The defense admitted that Christain suffered a broken jaw on the night in question but maintained that neither defendant laid hand on him.

Durocher insisted that Christain had been injured when he fell while running out of the room after calling Durocher a vile name.

Assemblyman Asks Leo Be Banned

Albany, N. Y., April 28 (U.P.).—State Assemblyman Elijah J. Crump tonight demanded that Durocher be banned from organized baseball because of the alleged fight.

Heckler Will File Charge, Claims He Was Kicked

New York, April 28 (NYHT).—Fred Boysen, a 22-year-old Brooklyn Puerto Rican was in Sydenham Hospital tonight suffering from bruises, which he declared were inflicted by Leo Durocher, manager of the New York Giants.

Boysen declared that he had suffered the injuries when Durocher attacked him on the field at the Polo Grounds soon after today's game in which the Dodgers defeated the Giants, 15 to 2, and further stated that he would file assault charges in magistrates court tomorrow.

In This Corner:

Excerpts from the Durocher story:

BOYSEN: "Durocher struck me, knocked me down and kicked me."

DUROCHER: "Nothing happened. Somebody tried to take my cap as I stepped out of the dugout. I shoved him, grabbed my cap back and that was all there was to it."

Here in Washington, where he was visiting, Baseball Commissioner Chandler commented:

"I'll say nothing now."

The young man, who attended the game with his cousin, Louis Rodriquez, sat in a box behind first base and near the Dodger dugout, and admitted that he had kept up a running fire of adverse comment directed at Durocher throughout the game.

Wanted to See Jackie

He said that, when the game was over, he had hurried out onto the field in the hope of shaking hands with Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn second baseman, and was walking rapidly toward the clubhouse when Durocher came up from behind about 200 feet beyond second base. Boysen said Durocher struck him on the back of the neck, knocked him to the ground and then kicked him. John Mize, Giant first baseman, and Frank Frisch, coach pulled the manager away, Boysen said, and all three walked away toward the clubhouse.

Boysen said he then continued out onto Eighth ave. through the exit beneath the Giant clubhouse, where, witnesses said, he collapsed. His cousin, assisted by Morris Golding, of 225 West Eighty-sixth st., who had sat near them during the game, took Boysen in a cab to the hospital where he was admitted to emergency department. There, he was examined by Dr. Juan B. Ortega and later was examined by Dr. Charles Kessler, chief president surgeon.

X-Rays to Be Made

At the hospital, Boysen showed no visible signs of assault beyond a discoloration on the left side of the body. Hospital officials said he would be kept under observation for 24 hours and that an X-ray examination would be made to determined if there were internal injuries.

Boysen talked freely to reporters in the Hospital. "I will bring the charge against him, all right," he declared. "He struck me and knocked me down and kicked me."

Asked if he could identify Durocher, Boysen said: "I can identify him positively, and furthermore, if I'd seen him coming I would have been ready for him. He hit me from behind."

He said that he had yelled at Durocher all through the game and several times shouted "Durocher, you're a bum, get another pitcher." Boysen also said that he had waved a white handkerchief every time Durocher appeared on the field and made derisive noises at frequent intervals.

That, he said, was part of being a Dodger fan at the Polo Grounds and he did not suppose he was any more offensive than other Dodger fans.

Now Hoyas Are Without Track Coach

Hardell Hasn't Quit, But Doesn't Show Up

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Georgetown, where coaching posts seem to have become more precarious than those in the Cabinet, currently is without a track mentor.

Elmer P. (Hap) Hardell, who's handled Hoya runners since 1939, hasn't been around his squad for two weeks.

Hap says he hasn't quit—he just doesn't show up for practice anymore. Principal reason is that the track at the Hilltop wasn't ready for his boys and it won't be for another three weeks.

Hardell, a teacher at Roosevelt High, said, "I haven't any intention of quitting. I've always enjoyed coaching at Georgetown.

"You need fair conditions, though. With the present situation, I don't think I can do any good for the school, the boys or myself."

Hardell said he expects to resume his duties in the fall, working with the cross-country runners.

Father Robert Parsons, faculty director of athletics and a track enthusiast, was reluctant about discussing the matter.

Asked if he'd be agreeable to have Hardell pick up again in the fall, Father Parsons said, "I haven't given it any thought. I won't make any decision on it until June."

Father Parsons will accompany the Hoya contingent to the Penn Relays today. Hardell expects to take in the Relays on Saturday as a spectator.

Hardell had a highly successful indoor season. His mile relay team composed of Vince Cino, Mort Kane, Bob Spearman and Ed Sause won the IC4-A championship. The two-mile quartet, Joe Deady, Dave Smith, Racely Saunders and Pat O'Brien, was runnerup by a yard. In Billy Mitchell, the Hoyas have one of the best hurdlers in the country.

It's known that Hardell was anxious to get these crack runners started outdoors early. He had asked the school to have the track ready in February. He became discouraged when it wasn't and when Joe Deady and Freshman Jack Hurst pulled leg muscles.

The track squad now is "handling itself."

Hap Can't Work With Track Torn Up

Hardell was one of the most successful football and track coaches in Interhigh history at McKinley Tech. At Georgetown he coached the late Al Blozis, world record-holder in the shot-put, and Hugh Short, who set a world's mark in the 600.

Baseball Coach Joe Judge is the lone major sport tutor who hasn't been affected in the athletic upheaval at Georgetown in recent months. Jack Hagerty, former head football coach, now is athletic director and George Murtagh, end coach, is teaching freshmen sports.

Gone are Maurice (Mush) Dubofsky, line coach; Mike Palm, backfield coach, Elmer Ripley, basketball coach, and Rome F. Schwagel, director of athletics.

Concussion Keeps Rojek in Hospital

St. Louis, April 28 (AP).—Stan Rojek, Pittsburgh shortstop, was resting comfortably in a hospital with a slight concussion here today after being hit in the head by a pitched ball in last night's contest with the St. Louis Cardinals.

When Cards' Pitcher Ken Johnson and Manager Eddie Dyer tried to apologize after the game, they were greeted by bitter comments from Rojek's Pirate teammates.

A fast ball pitched by Johnson in the ninth inning struck Rojek flush on the left side of the face by his ear. The dazed player was carried from the field on a stretcher. Blood trickled from the ear.

A second X-ray examination this morning showed there was no fracture. Dr. Robert F. Hyland said Rojek had a slight concussion. "He will remain in the hospital here until tomorrow or Saturday," Dr. Hyland said. "How long he is out of action depends on how he feels. He had a comfortable night."

Dyer said. "I told Bill Meyer (the Pittsburgh manager) how sorry we were that Rojek was hurt, and he seemed to understand that it was an accident," Dyer said. "I've never instructed one of my pitchers to hit a batter and never will. Johnson's reputation for wildness is well known."

Johnson said: "I was trying to pitch Rojek where we always try to pitch him—high and inside—and the ball got away from me."

In the fifth inning, Rojek was hit on the left arm by a pitch from Gerald Staley.

In Cleveland, it was announced that Shortstop-Manager Lou Boureau of the Indians, who was hit on the left elbow by a pitch in yesterday's game with the Chicago White Sox, will be in shape to play against Detroit tomorrow.

Bob Elliott, who was felled by a line drive off the bat of Puddin' Head Jones of Philadelphia last night, plans to work out today before the Braves-Phillies skirmish.

field was witnessed by numbers of players and spectators, but streaming out of the park these did not agree as to what actually had happened. Durocher went into the clubhouse and there held a hurried "press conference."

["Nothing happened," he said. "Somebody tried to take my cap as I stepped out of the dugout. I shoved him, grabbed my cap back and that was all there was to it."

Mize flatly denied that he had either pulled Durocher off any one or seen any incident.

"I wasn't anywhere near Leo," the first baseman said. "As a matter of fact, I stopped to autograph a few scorecards on the way to the clubhouse and I didn't know anything had happened until someone said in the dressing room that a fan was being carried off the field to the hospital. He didn't look like a hospital case to me When I glanced out of the window."

A reporter, entering the Dodger locker room after the incident, was greeted with the following comments from a number of Brooklyn players:

"Boy, did you see Leo let that guy have it?" Yelled one of the players.

said another; referring to Durocher as the lion. "He's rough tonight."

Another Dodger, who had watched Durocher as he left the dugout, added:

"Sue Him," Fan Howls

"Did you see Leo sock that guy? He knocked him flat. He had been giving Durocher quite a goingover from in back of our dugout. From what I heard, the guy was really giving Leo a rough time."

Both Burt Shotton, Brooklyn manager, and Clyde Sukeforth, Dodger coach, were busy changing their clothes in the dressing room which looks out over the outfield when the incident occurred. They paused to glance out the window as the crowd began yelling at Durocher when the latter disappeared inside the clubhouse.

"Sue him, sue him," cried the fans to Boysen.

Rookie Runs Hit Streak To 9 Games

Detroit, April 28 (AP).—Johnny Groth, the Detroit Tigers' sensational rookie, hit his second grand slam homer of the season today but the St. Louis Browns bounced back to take the Tigers 9-6.

Groth continued his impressive hitting streak as he got two for four today and batted in five of Detroit's runs. It marked the ninth straight game that Groth came up with a least one hit.

But all the batting honors did not go to Detroit, however, as the Brownies pounded four Detroit pitchers for 15 hits and a sweep of the two-game series. Jack Graham of the Brownies slammed out his fourth homer of the season to stay even with Groth in that department.

Lenczyk, Kirk Gain Finals in North-South

Pinehurst, N. C., April 28 (AP).—Peggy Kirk, of Findlay, Ohio, today defeated Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, of Chapel Hill, N. C., in the semifinals of the women's North and South golf championship, 1 up.

Grace Lenczyk, of Hartford, Conn., defeated Marjorie Lindsay, Decatur, Ill., in a 19-hole match to gain the other finals position. She and Miss Kirk will meet tomorrow for the title in an 18-hole match.

Miss Lindsay won the sixteenth and seventeenth and halved 18 to draw even with Miss Lenczyk, but lost out when she took a six to the National champion's par four on the extra hole.

Miss Kirk came from behind and won three straight holes starting at the tenth to go ahead of Mrs. Page and then halved the last six to preserve her win.

Aussies Get '56 Olympics

Rome, April 28 (AP).—The International Olympic Committee tonight awarded the 1956 summer games to Melbourne, Australia, sending the Olympics to the Southern Hemisphere for the first time.

So overwhelming was the sentiment among the 30 Olympic nations in favor of the small countries and the Southern Hemisphere that the only serious contenders for the summer games were Melbourne and Buenos Aires.

Melbourne received 21 votes on the fourth ballot and Buenos Aires 20. Detroit and Los Angeles, last of six cities seeking the games, were eliminated on the third ballot.

The winter games went by a landslide on the first ballot to the Italian ski resort of Cortina, which received 31 votes to 7 for Montreal, Canada. Lake Placid, N. Y., didn't get a single vote in its bid for the winter games. Two votes went to the Colorado combination of Colorado Springs for skating and Aspin, Colo., for skiing.

Hard Way, Too

Rough 'n Ready Rocky Seeks Reinstatement

By Red Smith

Red Smith

NEW YORK, April 28 (NYHT).—About 21 months ago, Rocky Graziano won the middleweight championship of the world in one of the most blood-curdling fist fights ever seen on Chicago's West Side, which is a way of saying it was one of the most exciting ever seen anywhere in the world. West Madison st., in the neighborhood where Rocky slugged Tony Zale, is a seamy strip of tenderloin where the paddy wagons roll day and night and the citizens wouldn't cross the street to see an exciting fight because there's always one just as good on this side.

Anyhow, this was a great fight, Chicago's biggest in 10 years. It produced the richest gate ever drawn indoors, and it sent witnesses away babbling their admiration of the courage of both participants. It was savagely honest and frightfully unrefined and the interest it stirred was a double shot of hop for the industry in general.

Although he had been suspended on gossamer grounds in New York, Graziano departed from Chicago a hero. And a grateful one, appreciative of the city's hospitality.

"I like Chicago," he said: "they trut me good."

But they trut him good only as long as their big promotion lasted. Shortly afterward, patrioteers on the Illinois Athletic Commission called in their most trusted undercover men, and these intrepid operatives got the goods on Rocky. Cleverly disguised as people, they read the newspapers and national magazines and, by this ingenious method, learned about Graziano's war record.

THEY DISCOVERED that as a rookie in the Army he had swatted a captain and taken it on the lam, a discreditable escape that brought him a one-year stretch in Leavenworth and a dishonorable discharge from the service.

Thereupon the commission met in a red, white and blue aura of sanctimony, patriotism, publicity and political expediency, and adopted a rule barring from Illinois rings all fighters holding dishonorable discharges.

It is necessary to observe at this point that Rocky's behavior during the war was altogether reprehensible. What he did was no more admirable than the deportment of the rapists, stickup guys and thieves who are permitted to earn a living in the ring.

Well, all this is a familiar story. Nothing good has happened to Graziano since he was unfrocked in Illinois. He lost his title the first time he defended it. Then he ran out on an Oaklawn promoter and got himself suspended in the few remaining States where he would have been allowed to work. Still a young man and still a fierce and entertaining slugger, he has dropped almost out of sight.

Next Wednesday the Illinois Commission is to hear his application for reinstatement. Since the runout in Oakland, he has squared that rap. It is understood he has reimbursed Jimmy Murray, the California promoter, for the $7200 losses suffered when Graziano violated his agreement to meet Freddy Apostoli.

BY MAKING restitution to Murray, Rocky has presumably gotten himself off the hook with the National Boxing Association, with which Illinois cooperates. The chances are he could, if he applied, win immediate reinstatement in, say, New Jersey or California or the District of Columbia, which are N. B. A. members but have not taken up flag-waving in the Illinois style.

Thus in electing to make his application in Illinois, he is trying to get back the hard way. If he could square the two raps against him in that State, he would be in the clear everywhere except in New York, where authorities have not yet forgivn him for his despicable act of not accepting an implausible bribe offer to throw a fight that wasn't held.

Opinion in this corner has not changed since the Graziano case first hit the headlines. It remains as true now as it was two years ago that, in his single performance in a Chicago ring, Graziano did nothing that did not redound to the credit of boxing. It was true then and it is true now that he had already paid the list price for past misdeeds.

This is not written in the interests of Graziano. But in the interests of justice and common decency, it is hoped that Illinois will, on this occasion, agree that a debt paid in full should be considered canceled.

Cincinnati Beats Out Chicago, 2-0

Chicago, April 28 (AP).—Ken Raffensberger, veteran lefty, hurled a seven-hitter to give the Cincinnati Reds a 2-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs today before 7582 chilled fans. It was his second victory in three starts.

Walt Dubiel and Dwain Sloat allowed only six hits, but the Reds were able to make them more timely. Johnny Wyrostek counted both runs.

Wyrostek opened the fourth with a double, continued to third when Harry Walker fumbled and scored on Grady Hatton's single. In the ninth Wyrostek drew a pass off Sloat and tallied on Ted Kluszewski's single.

Royal Governor, $2.80, Turns Back Hash Night in 'Graw Feature

Daily Double (12-4) Pays Tidy$132.40

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Havre de Grace, Md., April 28.—Royal Governor, second to Pep Well in the Philadelphia Handicap here, didn't have the Calumetite in today's opposition and won the Edgewood Purse, featuring the Thursday program. Carrying the colors of Mrs. Ester DuPont Weir of Wilmington and ridden by Jockey Peter McLean, the son of Pilate forged to the finish line a length and a quarter in advance of his closest rival.

Palatine Stable's Hash Night, making his first start since Florida campaigning, was second, 10 lengths in front of H. G. Bedwell's Leamour in the field of a half dozen allowance and handicap performers of some merit.

Royal Governor was the day's first favorite to win for the crowd of 8212 and returned a mere $2.80 mutuel, second shortest mutuel at the current meeting. The 5-year-old was clocked in 1:42 1/5 for the mile and 70 yards, only three fifth of a second over the track record shared by Gorget and Laran. The track was fast and the skies cloudless.

On The River was first to show in front and was joined on the backstretch by Hash Night and Certified. Up to this stage McLean was rating Royal Governor within striking distance.

Certified Tires Badly

Certified drove into the lead at the far turn as McLean began his move on the outside. Royal Governor was fairly sailing around horses entering the stretch but was slightly detained when Hash Night swerved into him. The gelding recovered immediately, however and drew out on Hash Night in the run to the wire.

Leamour failed to rally but was good enough to outfinish the tired and staggering Certified and On The River. War Story, the sixth member of the field, was never prominent.

The program brought another sizable pay-off on the daily double, holders of the 12 and 4 tickets collecting $132.40. Jockey Bobbie Strange won the first race with Clover-Del Stable's Grumpito at $13.40, Jockey Charley Givens rode the Northcool Stable's Nifty to victory in the second to the tue of a $9.60 mutuel.

"Miracle Drugs" Help Civitello

Havre de Grace, Md., April 28. Benny Civitello, reported to be suffering from pneumonia yesterday, is scheduled to ride here tomorrow. The apprentice sensation has no phone at his home near Newark, Del., Jim Radney, Benny's contract holder, called a drug store nearby yesterday and was told Civitello had pneumonia. Today Benny, who did have a cold, phoned that he was shipshape and would ride tomorrow.

Scribes who had reported Civitello as "seriously ill" stormed Radney this morning and the harassed trainer simply replied, "ain't those miracle drugs wonderful."

2 Walks Set Stage for Bob's Clout

Bob Lamon smashed a three-run homer in the ninth to carry American U. to a 6-3 victory over Catholic U. and its sixth win in seven Mason-Dixon Conference starts yesterday at Brookland.

Ted Rudel, who allowed only four hits and fanned seven, was the victim of Lamon's game-winning clout. Rudel walked seven and issued two of the passes in the ninth to Jackie Neer and Joe Hossick, before Lamon connected.

American U., now leading the Conference race, was pitched to its victory yesterday by Reliefer Dick Taylor. Taylor has appeared in every one of American's six Conference victories.

The loss was the fourth Conference setback for Catholic U. against two triumphs.

Maryland Hunt Cup Releases Entries 1st Time in 55 Years

By Harry De Mawby, Jr.

Tomorrow's Maryland Hunt Cup, classic timber race of the Nation, on the estate of J. W. Y. Martin, Worthington Valley, Md., and the Indian Head Lions Club Horse Show scheduled for Sunday at South Hampton Raceway, Bryans Road, Md., are the focal points for the horsey set this weekend.

The fifty-third annual race for the Maryland Hunt Cup and the second race for the challenge cup presented by Mrs. J. W. Y. Martin last year will be run over the hazardous 4-mile timber course that starts and finishes on the Martin estate.

The Hunt Cup committee broke a 55-year-old tradition yesterday by releasing the complete entry list in advance of Saturday's race.

Ever since the steeplechase classic was started in 1894 the field has remained a secret until fans arrived at the Worthington Valley course. The committee felt earlier announcment would hurt the sale of its race programs.

Sixteen cross-country racers have been named for the third and last of Maryland's spring timber events. It's the largest field in the last 12 years.

Topping the entry list are Mrs. William J. Clothier's Pine Pep and Eugene Weymouth's Cormac. Pine Pep won My Lady's Manor point to point two weeks ago and Cormac last Saturday's Grand National.

Always drawing the Nation's top timber nominees, the gruelling hunt cup race that lures some 35,000 spectators yearly to the rolling hills of Worthington Valley to view the race nearly equaling the test of courage, stamina and heart of England's famous Grand National, is scheduled for a 4 p. m. post time.

The second annual Indian Head Lions Club horse show, starting at 10:30 a. m., is expected to attract a large portion of metropolitan area and nearby Maryland exhibitors.

An 18-class program has been listed with events for junior mounts, hunters, jumpers, and five-gaited saddle horses. Championship trophies and ribbons will be awarded in the hunter, jumper, and saddle horse divisions. Two novelty classes have been arranged for western type horses, a potato race and a musical chairs event.

The Seabrook Community Club, Seabrook, Md., is sponsoring the Oak Knoll Pony and Junior Schooling Show, consisting of 14 classes for the different size ponies, also on Sunday (May 1).

What's the Verdict?

SWINDLER

Q. In paying for a meal in a Chinese restaurant the patron placed upon the cashier's desk a bill folded in such manner that the numeral 10 showed. The busy cashier gave him $9 change without unfolding the bill till later. Then it was found that it actually was a $1 bill, with the numeral torn from a corner of a $10 bill and pasted over the 1. When the customer was caught, that same day, the police found in his wallet a $5 bill with one of the 5s torn from a corner. At the trial, the prosecutor offered evidence of the torn $5. Should it be admitted?

A. The test is whether the judge is convinced that possession of the torn $5 has any relevancy to the swindle perpetrated on the restaurant. He would have to decide whether it constituted a showing that the prisoner was in the business of altering currency. If he decided that it was relevant and admitted it as evidence, the jury would then consider it in connection with all the other facts to decide whether the prisoner knew he had given the cashier a "doctored" bill. In case like this, the judge admitted the torn $5 bill and his ruling was upheld by a divided appeals court.—F. L. D.

There Is a Friend

There is a friend for every need . . . Whatever it may be . . . To help in time of stress or just . . . To keep us company . . . To write a letter or to call . . . And pass the time of day . . . And with the magic of a smile . . . To take our tears away . . . There is a friend for every song . . . That echoes from the past . . . With melody that moves the heart . . . And memories that last . . . A friend who never leaves our side . . . No matter where we go . . . And one who walks along the street . . . And merely says hello . . . Whatever our ambition or . . . The course we may pursue . . . There is a passing friend and one . . . Who is forever true.

Yet only a few years ago randma cached checks received in a cookie jar ecause she didn't know what to do with them! Grandma, who'd canned, preserved, done every kind of tough farm work, turned to painting from embroidering gay pictures in shiny, silk floss, when her fingers became too stiff to manipulate a fine needle. Her first creation was executed with leftover house paint on a piece of canvas used for mending a threshing machine. Several of the paintings, plus rs of Grandma's jams, were put on sale by the omen's Exchange in Thomas' Drugstore in oosick Falls, N. Y. Louis Caldor, a New York ngineer and owner of several paintings, was raveling through town; spotted, bought them, hen contacted Grandma for more.

Her education was as sketchy as her attempts at rtistic expression; "little girls didn't go to school ch in winter," she says, "owing to the cold not enough warm clothing, therefore my hool days were limited." At 12, "I left home earn my own living as what then was called hired girl. This was a grand education for me," continues, thoughtfully, "in cooking, house eping, in moralizing and mingling with the utside world." When she was 27 she met homas Solomon Moses, son of a doctor and riend of her employer's son.

We Were Kidnaped, or Over Perswaded'

THE Anna Mary Robertson who starts her simple life story, "I was born in the green meadows and wild woods, in a Farm in Washngton Co. In the year 1860, September 7, of Scotch-Irish paternal ancestry," started off to North Carolina on her wedding day to take care of a "horse ranch." But they got no further than Staunton, Va., where, "we were kidnaped or I should say over perswaded to go no farther south and to settle in the middle of the Shenandoah Valley." The people there "were overanxious for northeners or wesseners to come in and build up the State. They were in a way helpless since the colored help had been taking away from them." Anyway, Anna Mary set to work on a 600-acre farm. She made butter, sold it to White Sulphur Springs and "I also made potato chips, which was a novelty in those days." Before moving back North, she finishes sadly: "Here our ten children were Born and there I left five little graves in that beautiful Shenandoah Valley."

They moved back to Eaglesbridge, N. Y., where Grandma still lives in a small farm house just off Route 22. Her middle son, who, with his wife

'Grandma' Moses' Paintings Show Gay and Busy People In a World Without Shadows

'We Were Kidnaped, or Over Perswaded'

THE Anna Mary Robertson who starts her simple life story, "I was born in the green meadows and wild woods, in a Farm in Washington Co. They moved back to Eaglesbridge, N. Y., where Grandma still lives in a small farm house just off Route 22. Her middle son, who, with his wife and children lived with Grandma, died a few months ago. One of her grandchildren, a 2-week-old baby girl, died a few weeks ago. But Grandma continues to meet and manage all crises. The sole signs of prosperity around the house consist of new wall paper, a new stove. When the sturdy coal range was removed, Grandma said with a grin: "Now we'll have room for a square dance!" Grandma's life, though, is terrifically complicated by her fame. Her daily mail is so large that she has to carry letters from mailbox to house in her apron.

Loves People, Sees Far Too Many

AROUND five people, sightseers and curious, turn off Route 22 every week. She loves people and sees far too many of them. Grandma dresses suitably and with great taste—black alpacas with lace ruchings, a beautiful cameo brooch for dressy events. Recently, when Falcon Films was making a documentary movie about Grandma, she felt the occasion warranted something special, went upstairs, came down with shoulders covered with a fluffy mauve feather boa! Nowadays her legal affairs are handled by a capable local lawyer, her daughter-in-law, Dor-

Bennington Alumnae Here Sponsor Play

The Bennington College Alumnae Association of Washington is sponsoring a performance of "The Springtime of Others," May 14 and 15 at the Cafritz Auditorium.

This will be the first American performance of this widely acclaimed play by contemporary French playwright Jean-Jacques Bernard and will be presented by the production group of the Washington Workshop.

The play was translated by Director Mary-Averett Seelye, a Bennington alumna who has taught at the Bennington Summer School of the Arts, the Adelphi College Children's Theater and Sarah Lawrence College and has directed the Workshop group since its start in 1945. She also has written a one-act play, "Fleas and Figs," based on a folk tale of the Near East, where she grew up. The play has just been published in a volume of international folk plays.

Another Bennington alumna, Vivian Werner of New York, is writing special music for the production.

This is the first major project of the Washington Bennington alumnae. Proceeds will got into the college's operating fund.

Local Bennington alumnae are headed by Mrs. John Burling. Miss Barbara Burton is secretary-treasurer and heads the committee on arrangements for the benefit.

Tickets are now on sale at the Workshop, 2020 Massachusetts ave.; at Mrs. Stabler's Ticket Center at Lubar's on 13th st. nw. and at Bennington alumnae headquarters, 1703 21st st. nw.

Girl's Fiance Occupies Apartment That Has Been Jointly Furnished for Marriage in May; Are Man's Parents Entitled to Vacation There?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: George and I are to be married early in May. We have been so fortunate as to find an apartment, which we have furnished gradually, and George has been living there of recent months.

George's parents, who live in New England, will come here for the wedding and stay at a hotel until the wedding is over. Although they haven't said so directly, and we haven't suggested it, they have intimated that they would like to spend an extra week here, staying in our apartment while we are on our honeymoon.

They haven't literally invited themselves, but have let us know what is on their mind; and yesterday George asked me if they could stay there. I told him I want to be the first person (besides him) to live in that apartment.

Girl Feels Idea Is Presumptuous

I WANT the thrill of coming back from our honeymoon and feeling the newness of my home, linens, china and other gifts that of necessity would be used by them, if they stayed there. After we have lived there, if they should want to visit, fine; but until then, no. George says he understands my feeling, respects it, and it shall be so.

Is my attitude unreasonable? Even though George says he understands, I am sure he must be a little hurt. If I am wrong, please tell me. If I am right, please tell me how we can manage the awkward situation without hurting his parents. I believe they have been tactless and very nervy to have suggested such a thing. Please answer soon. K. V.

Girl's Attitude Unduly Selfish

DEAR K. V.: After some reflection, I have arrived at the opinion that your attitude is unduly selfish; and that, like all forms of picayune selfishness, it cheats the self of an extra dividend of happiness that might be derived from generous dealing.

It seems to me your sentimental argument about wanting to come back from the honeymoon to a brand-new home, as yet unbaptised by domestic usage, doesn't make sense, in view of the prosaic fact that George has been living in the apartment for some months—thus "of necessity" using some (at least) of its furnishings.

Further, I assume that George has met the rent since he moved in to act as caretaker of jointly accumulated equipment; an aspect of economics which (if you will split hairs) rather makes it "his" place—housing your gifts storage-free—and not "our apartment," until you across the threshold as his wife, ready to settle in.

Parents' Point Seems Rational

THUS his parents' hopeful thought of spending a week in the apartment, before you arrive to take over, isn't too unseemly, all things considered. Since they will be coming a long distance, and wish to capitalize on the trip by spending an extra week in town; and since hotel rates and incidental expenses are an extravagant outlay for all but the rich, and since New Englanders are notably thrifty, their indirect bid has some rational point to it, I think.

Lastly, may I remind that considerate hospitality is the householder-spirit which blesses any home; also, that homecoming to a recently aired and dusted place, bearing evidence of appreciative welcome, seems preferable to unlocking the door on a stagnant atmosphere, where the "hollow" silence would be an instant, insidious and lingering reproach to your conscience—and a shadow across George's heart,—if you had denied his parents entree while he was away. Up-to-Date Water Play

I remember how, as children in California, we had great fun playing in water. Sometimes it was in the backyard sand pile, sometimes the irrigation ditch, and once in a while even the river that flowed only at certain times of the year. Those who know children all over the world tell us that most youngsters like to play in water.

Recently I have seen some especially interesting water play in up-to-date kindergartens. Teachers have brought in a number of good-sized tanks for water, pieces of hose to be used as siphons, and the old-fashioned pumps that used to grace the backyard wells of many a farm. One brave teacher even got a war-surplus stirrup pump that shoots a stream some distance.

If you want to add greatly to your child's fun in backyard play, supply him with some of these articles that can be so fascinating. With a little experimentation he will discover how to get water from one level to another and develop other experimental approaches. You may want to wait until the weather is a little warmer, perhaps, but don't be stopped by the fact that the children may get wet now and again. That never hurts anyone.

'Grandma' Moses' Art Is Self Taught

othy, takes care of some of the fan mail, while the American-British Art Center is her agent. Grandma, however, likes to give everything away. She has about 30 relatives whom she helps in one way or another, and she takes great pleasure in "doing things" for her grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Not long ago, when a grandson left the Army, she set him up in business by buying him the biggest bulldozer on the market. There are all sorts of stories about Grandma. Though she has never been in a museum and though she refuses to visit New York again (because she was nearly torn to bits by fans at a personal appearance at the outset of her fame), she's no hick. On a radio broadcast setup at her birthday party last year, a smart-aleck announcer asked what she thought of Picasso, Bracque, Roualt. Though probably Grandma had never heard of these gentlemen, she paused for a moment, then replied quietly, "I like anything that's beautiful!"

'Contemporary,' or Self-Taught, Art

Grandma's paintings are classified as Contemporary Art. In other words, she's self-taught. She stresses flat pattern instead of depth, because, like all primitive artists, she hasn't mastered the rules of perspective. She's likened to Breughel and, like the Flemish master, paints the importance of small things, the rich variety of everyday life. Her technique has improved amazingly; her color is more discreet. She handles subtle hues in masterly fashion and has evolved a special mixture of white paint which gives her paintings an unusual luminosity. She paints from memory, indoors, perched on a Bible to make her chair higher. She describes her method: "I use Masonite-tempered pressed wood, the harder the better. I go over it with linseed oil, then with three coats of flat white paint, now I saw it to fit the Frames." Then she adds: "A picture without a fraim is like a woman without a dress. In my way of thinking." She prepares several canvases at a time, usually 24x30 inches, paints the sky first, draws a wavy line to "fix how far down it will reach," then draws the main objects with a few rough strokes. The detail is put in with paint brush (bought from Sears, Roebuck). The figures come last. Most of her paintings look as though she had painted them from a height. The busy goings-on, the minutiae of nature and of daily living, are happy. Grandma has never painted a shadow.

Perhaps her best known paintings are the Old Oaken Bucket (Grandma sings the song with considerable gusto) and The Checkered House. She repeated the originals on order, with many variations. Paintings are owned by museums and such collectors as Stephen Clark, Thomas J. Watson, Louis J. Mayer, Cass Canfield, the late Joseph Capp—and by stars like Kit Cornell and Hildegarde. Yet Grandma is by nature so modest that when asked to write the story of her life, she omitted any mention of her painting!

About Fingerprints on Wallpaper

We have just moved into a new home, the interior of which we finished in both paint and wallpaper. I wish to be prepared for the inevitable and would be pleased for your advice on the best manner to cope with fingerprints on each since we have two small youngsters. H. K. S.

The best way to deal with fingerprints is to prevent them, if possible. As a precaution against soil on the wallpaper, you can apply a special wallpaper lacquer. This can be purchased at many paint stores; comes in a liquid and does not change the appearance of the paper, so can be applied to just the most exposed spots. Several coats may be applied to make the paper waterproof, much less susceptible to soiling and washable when soiled. Another precaution with new paper is to keep pieces of the leftover paper so that much exposed areas around doors, etc., can be freshened. If you do not have any pieces, perhaps your builder can supply you if you ask for them before he has disposed of them—or can tell you where you can buy a roll to have on hand. If you don't do this now, you may not be able to get your pattern later, for wallpaper patterns are changed each year.

As for the paint, if it is an oil paint, you can protect the surface with a good quality colorless wax. Apply thinly, allow to dry and buff to a hard finish. Water-mixed paints are washable to some extent and can be kept in good shape if spots are removed (without much rubbing) when they appear. With this kind of paint it is particularly important to place plastic shields around light switches to protect this much touched area. They can be purchased at dime and hardware stores and are easily applied.

We have six cotton washable shag rugs, size 4 by 6 feet. Do you know of any inexpensive product that would keep them from slipping on highly polished hardwood floors? The rubber backing sold in department stores would cost about $6 per rug and is too much of a financial investment at the present time. R. P.

If you will sew rubber fruit jar rings to the back of the rugs it will reduce slipping. For a rug 4 by 6 feet, sew as many as a dozen rings, evenly spaced, to the back of the rug.

Inquiries and contributions to Ask Anne column must be in written form. We regret that time does not permit handling them by telephone. Address questions to Anne, Room 403, The Washington Post, Washington 4, D. C.

MARKET MEMO . . .

THE shad season is at its height, and this famous fish is the best buy on the seafood market here now. Buck shad (with no roe, of course) are the cheapest, but there's also plenty of roe shad and roes sold separately. These fish are coming from the Potomac, the Chesapeake and New Jersey.

BONES IN SHAD are a perennial problem. "When the Lord made shad, the devil was mad, and stuck in the bones out of spite," says an ancient verse. One old shad netter claims several slices of lemon in the baking dish makes pesky little shad bones so soft they can be eaten unnoticed. Maybe you'd like to try it. The Fishery Council insists, though, that the only worthwhile boneless shad is one with bones removed in advance by a filleting expert. Lengthy cooking helps small bones disintegrate but makes flavor disappear, too.

CRABMEAT is an excellent buy among shellfish now, about as cheap as it ever gets. Hard clams are in good supply and fresh shrimp is showing up again on the local market, but is still high. Boston mackerel is plentiful and reasonable.

PORK AND LAMB are both lower this weekend. Pork is down as much as 6 cents a pound at some meat counters, the decline being caused by the approach of warm weather. Lamb prices are dropping slowly from the high of a few weeks ago. Egg prices are up, about 2 cents a dozen on high quality eggs in some stores. The rise is credited to large demand.

PLENTIFUL VEGETABLES for May, as listed for this general area by the Department of Agriculture, include asparagus, cabbage, lettuce, carrots, onions, Irish potatoes, spinach, canned corn, canned peas (lower grades), dried beans and peas. L. B.

No "Thou Swell"

Though some, myself included, will miss the winning Rodgers and Hart score with which the story has been associated for the past 20 years, there's no reason why other tunesmiths shouldn't have a shot at trying. Johnny Burke and James Van Heusen have done the lyrics and music for this Paramount version (MGM, which produced the biographical "Words and Music," evidently owns the rights to the Rodgers and Hart score).

Unfortunately for all concerned, however, Burke and Van Heusen haven't come up with anything to compare with "Thou Swell" or "My Heart Stood Still." Bing's best is "Once and For Always" and there's a trio for him, William Bendix and Sir Cedric Hardwicke in "Busy Doing Nothing."

But still it's always good to have Bing around and you'll love it when, at a court dance, he has to shout "Stop the Music!" More contemporary humor, less contemporary seriousness would have kept this comedy on its tracks.

Bing's playmates include the beauteous Rhonda Fleming, Sir Cedric in a welcome fling of comedy—as if to remind you that versatility is a must for actors—and William Bendix as the boastful Sir Sagamore.

Bing's 'Yankee' Too High-minded

By Richard L. Coe

THE IDEA OF Bing Crosby as Mark Twain's "Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" is so promising that it's a shame the picture collapses.

In the new and Technicolored version of the comedy at the Palace, there is good fun until, somehow, the accent switches to a heavy-handed indictment of things regal in sixth century England.

This may well have been in Twain's classic comedy; frankly I don't remember. But I'm certain that here the sublime superiority of the early twentieth century over the foreign past and its wretched peasants is rather boringly stressed. What should have been straight comedy becomes a paean for Grandpa's Era in New England.

The early half of the picture accepts Bing's particular brand of easy charm. As the Connecticut blacksmith of 1910 who plunks himself back to the round table knights of Camelot, Bing is wonderful, and what happens when he tries to break up undemocratic doings at court certainly isn't his fault. But it is rather thick going, this defense of the lower orders.

How Hank Martin faces up to his peculiar situation always has been enchanting stuff. His genial ability to thwart the wicked Merlin via some Yankee matches he has in his pocket, his use of a watch crystal to set other people on fire and his training of an orchestra to strum for cheek-to-cheek dancing is good sport. But social welfare work among the downtrodden peasantry (there's even a scene that reminds you of "Monsieur Vincent") hardly fits into my idea of cheerful musical comedy.

No "Thou Swell"

Though some, myself included, will miss the winning Rodgers and Hart score with which the story has been associated for the past 20 years, there's no reason why other tunesmiths shouldn't have a shot at trying. Johnny Burke and James Van Heusen have done the lyrics and music for this Paramount version (MGM, which produced the biographical "Words and Music," evidently owns the rights to the Rodgers and Hart score).

Unfortunately for all concerned, however, Burke and Van Heusen haven't come up with anything to compare with "Thou Swell" or "My Heart Stood Still." Bing's best is "Once and For Always" and there's a trio for him, William Bendix and Sir Cedric Hardwicke in "Busy Doing Nothing."

But still it's always good to have Bing around and you'll love it when, at a court dance, he has to shout "Stop the Music!" More contemporary humor, less contemporary seriousness would have kept this comedy on its tracks.

Bing's playmates include the beauteous Rhonda Fleming, Sir Cedric in a welcome fling of comedy—as if to remind you that versatility is a must for actors—and William Bendix as the boastful Sir Sagamore.

THE AMERICAN Theater Wing Players have just completed a tour of military hospitals in this area with Francis Swann's comedy, "Out of the Frying Pan" . . . Grace Pearson, who looks far too young and charming for so demanding a chore, directed a cast that included herself, Sally Osborn, Pauline Cotterell, Gwen Hamilton, Edna Kraft, Bernie Young, Duncan Miller, Abe Fedder, Richard Cortazzo, Ike Mehalic, Jack Gordon and Neal Litwin . . . The Players are readying their next, and if you're interested call Mrs. May Redmond Smith at Dupont 0381.

THE VARIETY CLUB has chosen its guest mother for its annual Mother's Day luncheon—Mrs. Tom Clark, wife of the Attorney General . . . Tent No. 11's yearly tribute to mom goes on this year Monday, May 9, in the Shoreham Blue Room, with Dr. Sylvan Danzansky and Harry Coonin as codirectors.

FORTUNE, out today, employs a novel commentator to write about "Death of a Salesman" . . . He's A. Howard Fuller, president and son of the founder of the Fuller Brush Co. . . . Theater has always interested the brush supersalesman and he writes knowingly of the drama . . . But his attitude about the Salesman is naturally colored: "It has always seemed to me that in peacetime the professional salesman is the real hero of American society, the cutting edge of a free competitive economy who cheerfully exposes himself to the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune in order to present to the public new ideas embodies in the innumerable products constantly being produced by industry" . . . Hmmmm . . . Needless to say, the Salesman critic liked Arthur Miller's drama.

FROM HOLTON ARMS, Immaculata and Merrymount, some 130 dancing pupils of Zina Ouzarova will present an afternoon of ballet Sunday at 4 in Lisner Auditorium . . . The younger girls will be dancing to music of Strauss and Liszt in "Once Upon a Time" and the older ones to a melange of Granados, de Falla and Chabrier in "Interlude in Spain" . . . Van Lier Lanning will lead the Arlington Symphony . . . Tickets now at the Snow Agency, 1108 G st.

REDGE ALLEN, whose GI loan gave the Olney Theater its postwar start and himself several acting plums (no crack!) is the CBS-WTOP announcer who draws the choice assignment of announcing Sunday afternoon's concert in Constitution Hall by the New York Philharmonic Symphony over the Columbia network . . . Bruno Walter conducts this event under the Pat Hayes banner . . . Tickets at the Snow agency.

BRIEFS: Comedy bill opens today at the Pix—W. C. Fields and Mae West in "My Little Chickadee" and Olsen and Johnson in "Crazy House" . . . The Falls Church Community Theater tonight and tomorrow aids the cancer drive with "Guest in the House" at the Madison School on the Lee Highway . . . The Children's Studio of Speech and Drama today starts its International Drama Festival at 3815 Livingston st.

THAT WAS NOT a recreation of the Marx Brothers' stateroom scene of "A Night at the Opera" yesterday at the Mayflower . . . It was only Bob Hope receiving the press.

The Lyons Den

NEW YORK.—Alfred Hitchcock has sailed for England. The director has been a trans-Atlantic commuter for the past 10 years. During the war he went to England to do a documentary film for the British government. He sailed aboard the Aquitania, which was jammed with troops and equipment. But because his credentials gave him the simulated rank of a rear admiral, he was assigned a cabin for himself—a cabin which had eight other unoccupied bunks in it . . . When Hitchcock again sailed to England again with the simulated rank of rear admiral, he was assigned the same cabin. But this time the eight other bunks were occupied—by eight other rear admirals.

At a Sunday night benefit show, attended by many Broadway performers, Vladimir Sokoloff of "Madwoman of Chaillot" pointed out some of the stars to his companion: "There's Ethel Merman and Ray Bolger and Henry Fonda," etc . . . "Is Paul Muni here?" Sokoloff was asked . . . "Oh, no," replied Sokoloff. "Mr. Muni never goes to plays in which he does not appear."

Dr. Peter Lindstrom has left Hollywood and temporarily is living in New York. Dr. Lindstrom, husband of Ingrid Bergman, has placed their impressionable daughter, Pia, with some friends in northern California until his personal problem is solved . . . Dr. Lindstrom, unnerved by the Bergman-Rossellini reports from Stromboli, is in New York for a rest and a change of scenery. For not until his calm is restored will he be able to return to his delicate brain-surgery work.

Gen. David Sarnoff, head of the Radio Corp. of America, had his pocket picked in the lobby at "Kiss Me, Kate" one night. The wallet contained $700 in cash. General Sarnoff, whose technical achievements broadened the boundaries of modern life, was a victim of the old-fashioned jostle-and-pickpocket trick.

Ambassador Charles U. Bay returned from Norway this week aboard the Elizabeth. When the vessel neared New York a passenger told the Ambassador: "Look. There's the Statue of Liberty" . . . "Tell 'em to turn off the light," replied Bay, "because I'm home now."

Movie: 'Cover Up'

Miss Maxwell's Good to See And Hear on Capitol Stage

By Orval Hopkins

THERE'S virtually nothing to complain of in reporting on Marilyn Maxwell, a circumstance which leaves me more handicapped than usual in carrying out today's assignment. Miss Maxwell heads the stage bill at the Capitol and I can describe her only with the phrase, "glamour in a strapless gown." She is young, pretty and charming and from the front row of the balcony, where I sat, looked soft and curvy.

Miss Maxwel sang several songs, among them "A Good Man Nowadays Is Hard to Find," showing off a good shoutin' type voice. I was pleased to find that she is not the moaning, whimpering kind. She simply stands up and sings, something the kiddies seem to do less and less of these days. Miss Maxwell even gives a lift to Mischa Auer, who is also on the bill, and she seems to leave everybody very happy with it all.

Auer's performance proves the wheeze that a comedian is only as good as his material. He has an interesting bit in which he plays the piano with two grapefruit, and a short sketch in which he impersonates a couple of people, which amused me. He is trim and graceful and quite at ease. The single comedy act just isn't Auer's apple.

The Three Suns—an accordion, an electric organ and a guitar, left to right—close the stage show at the Capitol and are able to prove still another maxim: that you can make more noise with an electric organ than you can with anything. They are all attractive young men and two of them were born here, or so the man said. The man on the organ has a nice singing voice, the accordion carries most of the comedy relief, and the guitar—well, I've yet to hear the guitar. Too much noise from the organ. I seem to have had a warmer feeling about these boys from observing their work at the Piccadilly Hotel in New York. But, of course, you can't order any whisky at the Capitol Theater. Not and get any.

Al and Connie Fanton open the stage portion of the entertainment. These are a handsome young man and a pretty young girl who seem to know entirely what they're doing in the tap dance department.

The movie at the Capitol is entitled "Cover Up," a title which put me in mind of a seasoned lady I knew during the war. Coming upon a sign reading "Attack Teacher" at a submarine base in the Pacific, she cracked, "Is that a command?" "Cover Up," in other words, is a noun. The film is about a murder, and in it two friends try to cover up for an old friend, whose motive still isn't clear. William Bendix is in the picture, which you can say about a number of other movies in town, as are Dennis O'Keefe, Barbara Britton and some other people, including Doro Mirande, who plays a maid very well.

"COVER UP," United Artists release produced by Ted Nasser. Screen play by Jerome Odlum and Jonathan Rix. Photographed by Ernest Laszlo. Directed by Alfred E. Green. At the Capitol.

It's a reasonable enough whodunit, I guess. You never do see the murderer, which is perfectly all right with me, and somebody has been able to lay a restraining hand on O'Keefe. I want to salute the writers, who instructed the country editor to yell, "Replate page one!" instead of "Tear up the front page." Good going, boys.

Is This Why They Use a "Red" Feather?

Dorothy Newton of 3707 Woodley rd. nw. spies an embarrassing typographical error in one of our afternoon contemporaries.

It reported that Frank J. Luchs had been chosen to head the 1950 Red Feather campaign of the "Communist Chest."

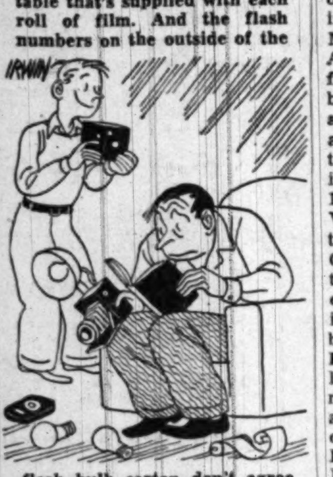
IT'S A CRUEL, CRUEL WORLD ALL RIGHT

I've just bought a new camera. For the first time in my life, I have a flash attachment.

Now all I have to do is learn to use it.

The directions say that you "divide the flash number by the distance in feet from camera to subject." That gives you the lens opening. It sounds simple.

But the flash numbers on the table supplied with my flash attachment don't agree with the flash numbers on the table that's supplied with each roll of film. And the flash numbers on the outside of the flash bulb carton don't agree with either of the other two tables.



The worst of it is that I gave my old box camera to a 13-year-old relative who now refuses to give it back.

MISCELLANY

The Air Force says that "flying saucers" are no joke. This announcement is going to come as a great blow to radio comedians . . . Mrs. J. C. Leach of 1354 Meridian pl. nw. wishes she knew the name of the unidentified cab driver who found her 4-year-old daughter—lost, and wandering down 14th st.—and turned her over to police . . . And, speaking of the cops, Francis S. K. Masi, of 2400 King Street rd., Alexandria, Va., has a kind word for Officer No. 1388, who was a big help when Masi returned to a parking lot late the other night and found that his car had been tampered with. Officer No. 1388 is Pvt. Chester H. Harmon of 1509 Timber lane, Falls Church, Va. . . . John Barner of the International Telecommunications Conference got a chuckle out of this newspaper's recent reference to "Nicholas Franco, Spanish Ambassador to Portugal and bother of Francisco Franco" . . . Harry W. Ross of 616 Longfellow st. nw. wonders why our morning contemporary identified a Detroit murderer as "a 62-year-old elderly blacksmith" . . . Mrs. B. F. Hutchison of the Lafayette Hotel was paying her fare on an L-4 bus the other day when her purse fell to the floor, scattering coins all over the front end of the bus. A courteous (but unidentified) driver earned her thanks by helping her round up the strays . . . Twelve-year-old Betsey Johnson of 419 Essex ave., Chevy Chase, Md., objects to the bad grammar in the title of the Abbott and Costello picture, "Who Done It?" . . . Suzanne Paternot of 2900 Adams Mill rd. nw. says that if people who want to call the Rent Control Office will look it up, they'll find that the number is Columbia 3533. Suzanne reports that she's a bit weary of answering the phone for people who call her number by mistake . . . A recent typo in this newspaper caused Bill Bennings to report that Coaltown had been assigned "180 pounds" for the Burke Handicap. Bernard I. Casassa of 1446 Irving st. nw. promptly observed: "Another 100 pounds and Haight can ride the horse."

SUPER SIX SALESMAN

And signalled with my thumb
To beg a ride this morning
By acting really dumb.

At last a kindly salesman
Did pick me up with glee;
And ere I got to work today
He sold his car to me.

Farmers Seen Resenting Calder

By Drew Pearson

While it's difficult to get the right men to fill top Government jobs, the possible appointment of Curtis Calder, head of Electric Bond & Share, as Secretary of the Army is going to cause a lot of eyebrow-lifting among farmers.

PEARSON

In the first place, Electric Bond & Share was one of the power trusters whose abuses led to passage of the Holding Corporation Act; and the records of the Federal Trade Commission rgarding its operations make juicy reading.

More recently, Electric Bond & Share has been one of the most effective and ruthless members of the power-trust gang in fighting the Government's program for public power and rural electrification.

Nevertheless, the head of this giant corporation, which has bitterly opposed the Government, has been invited to join the Government as policy-maker, among others, for the Army engineers—who built the multipurpose dams for the Government.

"To put Calder in this job," says the Rural Electric Cooperative, "would be about the same as making Ham Moses of Arkansas Power & Light the Secretary of the Army." Moses is the power executive who once gave nylon stockings to the wives of Congressmen he wanted to vote against public power.

German Background

On the foreign front, Calder's connections are also important. One of the Army's most vital jobs pertains to Germany. That country, from which sprang two great wars, may hold the key to future wars, and the Cabinet officers who make decisions regarding Germany must be impartial.

Calder, however, is a director of the United States & Foreign Securities Corp., and the United States & International Securities Corp., both organized by Dillon, Read & Co. for the purpose of financing public utilities in Germany before the war.

The Dillon, Read group has always believed in building up Germany and, despite the mistake of having financed what eventually became part of Hitler's war machine, this group has continued to support German cartels. An official report is now before the Army Department criticizing William Draper, former Undersecretary of the Army, another Dillon, Read executive, for rebuilding cartels since the war.

James Forrestal, former Secretary of National Defense and former head of Dillon, Read, also is in this group. And it was one of the companies of which Calder is director—United States & Foreign Securities—which caused Forrestal great embarrassment. For a Senate committee revealed the fact that he had made a profit of $865,000 by selling his holdings in this corporation in 1929, and had avoided paying income tax on the $865,000 by creation of a family holding corporation in Canada.

Capable as Calder may be as a business executive, his corporate background is not going to inspire confidence among the two million men who would serve under him in the United States Army.

Capital Capsules

Confusing the Russians — On Easter Sunday, the Soviet officer attached to the United States Air Safety Center at Tempelhof Airdrome, Berlin, watched 13,000 tons of goods landed by United States airplanes in a single day—a landing or take-off every 30 seconds. Before the Berlin blockade, the total flow of goods into Berlin from the western zones by rail, barge and truck—all three put together—was not more than 11,000 tons a day. Shrugging his shoulders at the amazing performance of United States air freight carriers, the Russian officer walked out in despair. He said he could no longer follow, much less record, the speed and complexity of the American flight pattern. No wonder Russia is now ready to lift the blockade.

Washington Leans to Arabs—The Capital's horse-and-hound set is beginning to take up the Arab. No, it isn't so much interested in Palestine, as in horses. Arabian horses, the original breed that carried Ghengis Khan through Asia, have now come to the United States. And, believe it or not, out of only 5000 purebred Arabians in the world, 4000 of them are in this country. Though smaller than the Virginia hunter, they are the most intelligent horses living, and, because of past habits of desert forage, eat less. Virginians have to look to the Middle West for pure Arabs, however—one of the prize stallions, Sarab Al Sahra, being owned by Joe Lebowitz of Midlothian, Ill., who goes in for Arab horses, but not the Arab horsemen of Palestine.

The Irish Legation—Sean McBride, Irish Foreign Minister, has informed the State Department that Ireland would come into the North Atlantic Defense Pact if Britain agrees to give up Northern Ireland. However, Secretary Acheson turned the Irish down cold. In fact, he reminded them that he was not bribing anyone to enter the North Atlantic Pact.

Wagner Act Resurrection Smothered By House

Wood Labor Bill, T-H Substitute of Coalition, Now Being Sweetened

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

The Administration's move replace the Taft-Hartley
t with a management-labor ations act of its own sufed a setback yesterday.
epublicans and Southern Demots twice beat down Administra-attempts to shut off House dee, and after four days of discus-
, get down to decisive voting.
t the same time, the House rwhelmingly rejected revival of old Wagner Management Labor ations Act—which was succeed-by the Taft-Hartley Act in 1947
d then went on to "sweeten the Wood bill, which is a modi-version of the Taft-Hartley Act nsored by the GOP and antiministration Southern Demots.

h Improvements

he Administration wants to ree the Taft-Hartley Act with "improved" model of the Wag-
Act. This model, under the Wagner Act with several "im-vements" urged by President man.

efore the House can get around voting on the Lesinski bill, it
t first take up the Wood bill, ch the coalition has, in effect, posed as a substitute for the inski bill.
ccording to its sponsors, the d bill contains at least 12

union leaders insist the Wood

des a number of new "gim-ks" and "monkey wrenches" h make the Wood bill "worse"
Taft-Hartley.

Views of Strategy

trategy of the coalition lead-calls for "sweetening up" the d bill with further amend-ts relaxing the restrictions on n activities, in order to get a er law on management-labor tions, according to its sup-ters; in order to attract more es, according to its opponents.
fter the House had adopted
"sweetening up" amendment
the Wood bill, Representative gustine B. Kelley (D., Pa.), lead-the floor fight for the Admination's Lesinski bill, arose at 5 p. m. and moved that all endments and debate on the d bill be closed at 4:15 p. m. ley was defeated on the divi-vote 201-119.
orty minutes later—with a sec-
"sweetener" added to the d bill—Representative Kelley n sought to limit debate, this
